LIQUOR LICENSE SUIT IN COURT

Ask $35,000 Of Ex-Judge

A law suit stemming from a 1953 liquor license suspension finally entered the court room this week, with former Arlington Heights police magistrate William F. Neumann as defendant.

John Skorvanek, a tavern owner, is asking $35,000 for damages he suffered when the village refused to renew his liquor license in May, 1953. Skorvanek's license was taken away when Neumann convicted him of serving liquor to minors.

Skorvanek's $50 fine was later expunged by the state's attorney, who contended that the police magistrate had no authority to try such a case since it involved a state offense. Skorvanek now claims that the village had no right to refuse him a license based on an improper conviction.

Included in the original suit was a $50,000 request from the village and Albert Goedke, former Arlington Heights mayor and liquor commissioner. Village attorney Stephen Jurco had the village suit temporarily dropped on the grounds that no summons had been presented when the suit was filed. Jurco is also defending Neumann, since the Arlington Heights barber was serving in a village capacity when the suit was filed.

stated that Skorvanek's license would not be renewed at its expiration date, April 30.

Skorvanek sold the Vail tavern and now owns a tavern at State and Rand rds. His suit does not appeal the findings of Neumann's trial, but Neumann's right to try the case and the village's right to administer penalty as a result of the police magistrate's findings.

The trial is continuing in Chicago this week following the selection of a jury Monday.

SKORVANEK was found guilty of serving liquor to three minors Saturday night, April 23, 1953. Police officers Jack Aldrich and Irvin McDougall arrested three young men, 19 and 20 years old, two of whom admitted purchasing and drinking beer in the Vail Tavern, 33 W. Campbell, then owned by Skorvanek.

The third minor was actually arrested on the tavern premises but said he had been drinking Seven Up. An examination showed he was under the influence of liquor, and he was booked for drunkenness and disorderly conduct as well as buying liquor as a minor.

In the police magistrate's trial, Skorvanek denied being in the tavern when the boys were being served, but later admitted he came into the tavern late Saturday night and that the boys were still there. The bartender, Arthur Dieball, denied serving the boys anything but a soft drink.

Student Trio Paints Suburbs--For Profit

The "Intra-State Addressing co." is painting the town, but with a mathematical exactness difficult to associate with the youthful officers of this flourishing firm.

The officers, board of directors and manual laborers of the enterprise are three former Arlington high school athletes who have taken to painting street number on curbs in front of homes to guide erring motorists.

The trio, all from Mt. Prospect, do not ask payment for these services performed; they do request donations. "Anything they want to give," explains Bill McMillan, 18, of 409 S. Main.

The teenagers have set their sights on a goal of $3,000 worth of charity between them to finance college expenses.

McMILLAN, JIM Ruffer, 17, of 441 S. Elmhurst, and Tom Clark, 17, of 20 S. Maple, this week were daubing numbers at the rate of one a minute down Elk Grove Village streets.

Starting last week with a $7 investment in paint and a few additional dollars for stencils and brushes, the youths have already painted 300 numbers in Hatlen Heights, 200 in Mt. Prospect and an even 100 in Elk Grove.

The Intra-State members have a past which they prefered to keep anonymous until after graduation. Yes, they were the culprits who confessed to Paddock Publications these unsolved pranks:

—releasing a greased pig in the school library;

—painting "Polluted" in bold letters on the Mt. Prospect water tower;

—cementing a toilet seat bearing the inscription, "Gift of the Class of '60," in the school foyer a few days before commencement. ("Nothing destructive, though," Clark hastens to add.)

TURNING THEIR exuberance to numerical "no-non-sense" needs of neighboring communities, the boys figure they'll be occupied in Elk Grove Village all summer.

They had applied at the Elk Grove police station to see if a business license would be required to conduct their "not-for-profit" program.

"When we applied for one in Mt. Prospect, Chief (George) Whittenberg told us, "Get out of here, you're losing money.'" Ruffer said.

THE YOUTHS displayed their talents for Perc Hallier, Elk Grove police department clerk, with Ruffer painting a white block on the curb in front of the police station, and the other two adding the numerals 7-0-8. "We're specialists, but we all interchange." the red-headed Clark noted.

"Very good, boys," Hallier exclaimed, flipped a half dollar in their direction. It was expertly fielded. Hallier returned:

"We just got a complaint from some woman who doesn't want to pay for the number."

"They don't have to," the youths retorted. "Just if they want to donate something."

RUFFER SAID he got the idea to earn money painting curbing numbers from "an old Spanish friend of my family's in California." The youth's father is an Air Force captain stationed at O'Hare Field, and the Ruffer family moved here last year.

"If kids bother us while we're painting, we tell them, 'We eat kids and puppy dogs,'" Ruffer pointed out.

"We keep a sharp lookout on the paint stores, and if anyone buys stencils we crucify them," Clark explained of the way in which they keep competition at a minimum.

McMillan was a first-string halfback on the Arlington eleven last fall, ranking third in rushing and scoring behind teammate Ruffer, a fullback, was second in the same categories. Clark, who was a guard, hurt his leg early in the season and retired to the bench.

Clark, however, was on the wrestling and gymnast squads, and was senior class president. McMillan played baseball, while Ruffer was also a gymnast. Ruffer says he was also a member of the senior board.

"I was my classroom treasurer," McMillan said, inserting these dubious credentials. It would be a post he could serve admirably, however, according to reports which have filtered out of the school.

THE FINANCIALLY - conscious McMillan was reported to have established a lottery in which he gave odds in connection with the school's choice of the homecoming king and queen. Red-faced school administrators had him return the money when they discovered these behind-the-scenes manipulations.

Speaking of their latest endeavor, Clark enthused: "We've revolutionized the system of curb numbering. There are no flaws in it. We just paint a number at every house whether the person's home or not. We're striving for uniformity."

Clark wants to attend Western Illinois college in Macomb where he intends to major in pre-medicine; Ruffer's going to Southern Illinois college in Carbondale to study accounting or law.

McMillan? He's going to Illinois Wesleyan in Bloomington. His major? Business, naturally.

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

This column comes to our readers 'second hand' this week. The first draft got mixed up with some junk mail and was carted away by the janitor. A copy is never as good as the original, but here goes. . .

We are trying to count calories. Just as we become acclimated to eating cottage cheese twice a day, we are a guest somewhere and — bang goes our resolution to reduce as much as the doctor ordered.

Our bathroom scales told us we were doing fine, then we were directed to the scales in the doctor's office, and we learned the pounds we thought we had discarded are actually still with us.

We now understand the 'heart beat' of Northwest Community hospital. We spent five hours there last Wednesday.

Garbed in a surgical gown and mask, we saw everything. Never again will we question a hospital's efficiency or a doctor's wisdom.

The average patient doesn't know of all the complex equipment provided to save his life and speed his recovery.

The hospital, nurses, and staff are all dedicated to give this area a kind of insurance against death that should be realized by those of us who have unpaid pledges.

The hospital is here on the strength of our promise. . . let's make it good!

We received two letters in one mail last week asking us to exert our influence (for what it is worth) upon members in Congress.

No. 1 advocated a change in our gambling laws that would permit churches, organizations, and clubs organized not - for - profit to sponsor Bingo and Keno games.

No. 2 wanted pressure on Congress to ban railroad feather-bedding by unionists.

That morning the paper announced an agreement between the unions and American railroads on wage increases; feather - bedding was not mentioned.

If unions are strong enough to coerce the railroads, what is the use of newspaper editors waving a red flag over the high cost of railroad transportation?

Both letters found their way into our over-sized waste basket.

All voters in Illinois will be disenfranchised next year—they must all re-register to vote.

It seems that the original registration forms, adopted 25 years ago, have no more blanks on which to record the number of times they go to the polls.

The overall re-registration and the preparation of the thousands of new blanks will cost several millions of dollars. But look at all the patronage that will be provided for the faithful party workers!

"AW RIGHT, AW RIGHT, traffic or no traffic, a gal has gotta earn a living. So what's all this fuss about my job." This two-year-old filly and her companions will begin a 55-day racing season at Arlington park Monday, July 4.

Racing Season On

Tell Traffic Route Plans

Promised traffic relief and a revised post time mark the opening of Arlington Park's 34th season of racing on Monday, July 4.

Track officials believe that a new starting time and a plan to divert traffic from route 53 may relieve traffic congestion in Arlington Heights and neighboring communities. Weekday post times will be 3 p.m. which would end the daily sessions after 6 p.m.

"This will mean that our traffic won't be released until the suburban rush hour is over," Harry Shearer, public relations director for the park, remarked. Saturday starting times will be 2:15. There is no racing on Sundays.

MONDAY'S opening day, however, will be an exception. The racing which features the $50,000 Stars and Stripes handicap on the grass, will begin at 1:15 p.m. Labor Day's racing schedule, which climaxes the 55 day season, will also have the 1:15 starting time.

"Monday will be one of the biggest opening days in the track's history," Shearer stated, pointing out that the combination of a holiday and a "big race" should draw an exceptionally large opening day crowd.

TO EASE traffic congestion the track has devised a plan to divert most of the patrons' vehicles south on Wilke rd. to Algonquin rd. (Rt. 62) and from thence to route 83 and the toll road, thus sparing route 53 an over-burden of traffic.

As in past years the track will utilize off-duty policemen at various intersections in the area.

$50,000 Race

The $50,000 Stars and Stripes, traditional July Fourth attraction, will headline the opening of Arlington Park's 55-day meeting Monday afternoon. Additional details on the popular suburban plant's 34th year of operation will be found in the sports section.

Local Policeman Faces Dismissal

An Arlington Heights policeman has been charged with sleeping on duty and being on duty under the influence of alcholic beverages.

Fred "Fritz" Mueller Jr., a member of the village's police force for over 11 years, entered a plea of "not guilty" before the police and fire commission Thursday night. Mueller, however, admitted both charges, claiming "extenuating circumstances" of ill health and personal problems, according to commissioner Harold Dotts.

The commission meets again tonight and will issue some decision on the case.

THIS IS the second appearance before the commission for Mueller, who is 45. According to Dotts, patrolman Mueller was arraigned in 1955 on a charge of insubordination and an unauthorized failure to report for duty. Mueller was suspended 10 days for that infraction.

Under the law, policemen who have spent more than one year on the force have a right to a hearing before charges for dismissal are presented.

It was pointed out at Thursday night's hearing that Mueller had not been drinking while on duty.

Discrepancies?

Road Budget Challenged

A budget hearing for the Wheeling township road and bridge fund may draw an unaccustomed audience Tuesday night, July 5.

The League of Women Voters, which has made scrutiny of budgets its number one project for the year, will ask township commissioner Bernie Runge about some seeming discrepancies in his plan to spend tax money during 1960-61.

The high-heeled vigilantes point out that in 1957-58 only $43,000 of the $88,000 budget was spent; in 58-59 only $46,000 of the budget $111,000 was spent; in 59-60 only $59,000 of the $129,000 budget was spent; and yet Runge asks $155,000 for operation next year.

THE LEAGUE will also ask about some individual accounts. Legal services, for example, cost the fund nothing last year, although $700 had been budgeted. This year the budget plans for the expenditure of $2,750. Stephen Jurco, Arlington Heights village attorney, has been retained as lawyer for the fund, which has been without legal counsel since the death of Hugo J. Thal.

Runge has budgeted $29,000 for labor in 60-61, while expenditures for labor in the past year amounted to only $7,530.

The job of township highway commissioner is an elected one. Runge has held this position for 16 years, being opposed for the first time in the last election. The position presently pays $16 per working day, with the commissioner keeping account of his own hours and submitting a bill to the town board of auditors.

LAST YEAR Runge billed for $5,040, or the equivalent of 315 working days.

The road and bridge fund is one of four township funds. It is used to maintain township roads and bridges not cared for by villages, the state, or the county.

Honest Teen Finds $400, Returns It

Vincent Wroblewski Jr., 15, walked into Beverly Bowling Lanes, 8 S. Beverly, Arlington Heights, Monday morning and announced that he had found a wallet.

While the wallet contained no name of an owner, it was well provided for otherwise. Beverly lanes employee Ray Schwaller, 410 Derbyshire, Arlington Heights, counted some $200 in cash and another $200 in checks.

THE WROBLEWSKI youth, a sophomore at Arlington high school, turned the wallet over to Schwaller, who kept it until a vexed beer truck driver dashed into the bowling alley and breathlessly asked if someone had turned in a wallet. After counting the money and assuring himself that all the receipts were there, the driver gratefully left a five dollar bill for the finder, who was unaware that his act had been deemed unusual.

Vincent's parents, of 209 N. Derbyshire, Arlington Heights attributed the youth's honesty to principles taught at home and in scouting and to "the responsibility that comes with being the oldest of seven children."

New Tax Rates

New tax rates for Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, and Schaumburg townships are published this week on an inside page.

Crest Voters OK Annexation

Residents of Arlington Crest approved annexation to Palatine in a special election Friday.

Every family in the area except one — out of town on election day — voted. Final tally was 89 to 87.

Arlington Crest is an area north of Northwest hwy. and west of Wilke rd. The annexation brings Palatine's eastern limits up to Arlington Heights' western boundaries so that both villages now abut.

Suburbanite Faces Hit-Run Charges

A 23-year-old Wheeling man is scheduled to appear in Chicago traffic court July 19 to answer four charges resulting from the hit-and-run death of a pedestrian on the Congress Expressway.

Philip R. Kracht, 164 Wheeling ave., is charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, failure to yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to make a police report.

HE WAS apprehended last Friday, several minutes after Carl Pitkanen, 35, a Chicago laborer, was killed by a hit-and-run driver on the expressway at Wells st.

Kracht said his car might have passed over the victim's body, but only after the pedestrian was struck by another auto.

HIS STORY was supported by a passenger in his car, William McKinney, 23, 1834 Betty rd., Arlington Heights. Police reported there was no noticeable damage to Kracht's auto.

A witness was quoted as saying he heard the sound of an impact and turned to see two cars speeding west and Pitkanen lying on the expressway. Shortly afterward Kracht's auto was curbed by a policeman unaware of the accident. (A

Youth Hurt in Crash Of Sports Car, Truck

A Wheeling youth was in Northwest Community hospital this week for treatment of injuries suffered when his 1958 sports car collided with a dump truck last Friday at the intersection of U.S. 12 and Illinois 68.

The youth, James Sherwood, 18, of 382 Dundee rd., was charged by District 3 state police with failure to yield the right-of-way after he pulled out of a gas station headed north on U.S. 12 and collided with the truck which was turning left onto Illinois 68.

The driver of the truck, Winfred T. Rogers, 34, of 225 Rose, Box 248, Crystal Lake, was not injured. A passenger in Sherwood's car, Marilyn A. Hirsch, 17, of 316 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, also escaped injury. Police estimated damage to Sherwood's car at $800, with $50 damage done to the truck.

Jack Straub includes banker in planning

"To keep ahead in the plumbing and heating business," says Jack Straub, "you need a sharp pencil for estimating, and enough cash on hand to buy materials when the jobs come in.

"The sharp pencil comes with experience, but the cash isn't always in your pocket.

"That's why I'm a bank borrower. When I need money I go to my local banker who knows my business affairs inside out.

"This makes borrowing a lot simpler. However, I'm well aware that it doesn't mean unlimited credit any time, because my banker isn't lending his own money. Whatever I borrow belongs to the bank's depositors and stockholders, and my banker has to use a lot of judgment when he makes a loan.

"But lending money helps keep the banker in business. So I never worry about asking for a loan. And I don't think any businessman should hesitate to ask his banker for money when he needs it."

Check Water Content Of Grass Silage

Cattle feeders putting up grass - legume silage should carefully check its moisture content, according to Carl F. Mees, Cook county Farm adviser.

Silage with more than 75 to 80 per cent moisture will not produce satisfactory gains, he pointed out. As two examples, he cites Illinois and Indiana tests. Steer calves actually lost weight because the silage's moisture content was so high.

When workers added dry matter, however, the ration produced satisfactory gains.

If silage is too wet, farmers can increase dry matter in one of two ways:

1. Let the green material wilt in the field before ensiling it. This method works particularly well when silage is to be stored in an air-tight structure.

In a South Dakota test, yearlings gained about two pounds a day when they received a full feed of silage. The silage contained about 50 per cent moisture. It had been stored in an air-tight silo.

2. INCREASE the dry matter by adding grain to the silage. Add the grain at either silo - filing time or feeding time.

University of Illinois animal scientists have fed equal parts of high - moisture corn and third - cutting alfalfa ensiled together. This ration has produced gains of 2½ pounds daily.

In another Illinois test, workers added four pounds of corn to a full feed of legume-grass silage. Steer calves receiving this ration have consistently gained about 1½ pounds daily.

The peaceful quiet of long grass, shady tree, and woodland creature was broken by the cries of children.

Joyous and excited cries of eight to 12-year-olds, many of whom have never had a tree of their very own to climb; a donkey just a few feet away to ride; a meal to cook out.

The peaceful quiet broken by children was that at Camp Reinberg — oasis of tree and ant and forest trail. The children are those from Chicago's streets; those who have been drawn into the comforting warmth of settlement house in winter; those lucky enough to spend a 12-day session in the out-of-doors in summer.

What the children don't see when they come to Camp Reinberg is the beforehand planning and preparation counselors make. A year-round staff lives at the camp (three miles north of Palatine) to help with winter and school camping programs.

But in summer a special auxiliary staff is added to act as unit leaders, cook's assistants, water front director, and program secretary. The young people who take over these responsibilities are often still in high school, from towns around the Palatine area.

"MORE THAN usual have come to use this year from around here," executive director, Miss Dorothea Chant said.

Brownlee McKee, 684 N. Roselle rd., Palatine, is spending her third year as program secretary. The job developed three years ago as something a 15-year-old (too young to get a regular job) could do.

"I love the job," the petite Palatine high school graduate said. She shares sleeping quarters with three other girls — but gets to see her share of the children as they come to buy supplies at the camp store.

Bob Williamson, Inverway rd., Inverness, has another reason for his summer—this is his first—at Reinberg. "I want to be a doctor," Bob said, "and I think this is a good way to get to know children."

Bob will direct the waterfront this year. No swimming is available for campers, but boating is very popular.

THE ETHAN Janove family, 2103 Cardinal, Rolling Meadows, all came to camp this year. Ethan, a fifth grade teacher at the Westgate school, Arlington Heigats, takes over as unit leader at Reinberg. His wife, Julie, is camp nurse. Two and a half year old Jay just came for the ride. He actually stays pretty close to mother and the nursing quarters.

Most of the teenagers who help during the summer come into the "facilities" category. Actually they do general help and maintenance work. When camp was being prepared this could include anything from refurbishing a boat to putting up a new acoustical tile ceiling outside the kitchen.

Helping in this department are Doug Smith, Baldwin rd., Palatine, Bob Millay, 49 W. Slade, Palatine, and Bob Johnston, Medinah.

BOB JOHNSTON also wants to be animal caretaker. Wild creatures he would have little control over, but the pet donkeys need food and care. They are Sugar Honey, Lump Lump, and Spunky. And how the children love to ride and pet the donkeys! Miss Chant said.

Conrad Bergo is assistant cook—because he likes to eat* When asked what his specialty was, Conrad misconstrued the question.

"Anything that has a fork near it!"

"No. Specialty to cook."

"Oh, nothing special. I just help with everything," Conrad said.

Since this summer will be the first camping experience for many campers and counselors, there was much for counselors to learn. How to effectively build and put out a camp fire; how to plan a cookout; how to build your cookout equipment.

Everything at Reinberg — the 75 acre site directly across from the 1,100-acre Deer Grove Preserve is made as natural as possible. Handicraft programs are geared to use the materials from the woods: reed weaving, modeling with natural clay, and wood work.

COOKING OUT with rustic broilers and hobo stoves looks easy when an expert tells you how to make them. "You just cut the can here and here and turn it down and cut here, and attach it to a stick, and it's a frying pan," the expert explained casually in southern drawl.

Novices looked hesitant. Miss Southern drawl went on to describe a hobo stove. It is a large can with a small door snipped in it at the bottom and a couple of draught or wind holes on the opposite side at the top.

The insides of the hobo stove sound easy enough. Novices weren't convinced. The top still on part of a smaller can is used. Heavy corrugated paper or cardboard is spiralled round inside it until it is quite tightly packed. Then melted wax is poured in between gaps in the paper and a wick inserted.

"WHEN YOU'RE ready to cook—and you can fry eggs or hamburgers or cook anything on this—you just light the wick and stick it inside the larger can and let the wind blow," Miss Expert explained.

Thus do staff members prepare for their summer at Camp Reinberg. Four times they will greet 96 new campers. Four times they will help the city boy and girl learn the ways of the out-of-doors. They will see them learn the thrill in the wonder of trees to climb, birds, songs, hide-and-seek in the forest instead of city streets, and campfire and starlight fellowship. (B8

No Starry Notions of Glamor

Danish Girl Launches New Future in Suburban America

LOCKING HER FAVORITE mode of transportation, the bicycle, pretty Ingrid Kristensen begins a day's work at Arlington Federal Savings and loan. A recent import from Denmark, Miss Kristensen is finding life in Arlington Heights much different from her native land.

If you saw her walking down the gangplank of the Norwegian-American Lines' S.S. Stavangerfjord in New York last April, you might have guessed she was another European starlet seeking fame and fortune in Hollywood.

But talk to petite, attractive Ingrid Kristensen at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association, where she is now a staff teller, and you realize that the head of this hazel-eyed brunette is not swept with starry notions of glamor and romance.

NOW LIVING in Arlington Heights with an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Bert F. Madsen, 215 N. Yale ave., this 22-year-old miss plans to remain in this country indefinitely — for several years at least.

She is here because she believes that young people, given the opportunity her relatives have afforded her, should develop their horizons. "Many in my country grow up, live, marry, have children, and die without leaving the town of their birth."

Miss Kristensen was born in Humlebaek, 25 miles north of Copenhagen. This town of some 3000 people serves as a suburb and summer vacation spot for inhabitants of the capital city.

Humlebaek lies at the gateway to the Baltic, only 25 miles across The Sound to the coast of Sweden. Ingrid's parents have lived there for 28 years. She has a brother, Henning, 24, and sister, Elsa, 27.

Did she have any problems in falling into the routine at Arlington Heights Federal Savings? "Only when people sometimes talk too fast for me," Ingrid smiles apologetically.

She was well versed in activities of a savings association, having worked five years in similar institutions in Denmark before coming to America.

ONE WAS the 150-year-old "Sparekassen for Copenhagen." The other was the "Sparekassen for Helsingor" (in English, Elsinore), the seaport town 40 miles north of Copenhagen which is the scene of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

New York was, of course, big when she first glimpsed it just six weeks ago. But there are not too many differences between the lives of the progressive Danish people and those of Americans, Miss Kristensen believes.

We find American counterparts of the Danes, who have a reputation for living well and vigorously and of being friendly, happy, and helpful.

"In my house we had TV, a washing machine (not the automatic kind), and telephone," Ingrid ventures. "But we don't have the big American refrigerator. A cellar keeps everything cold."

AN UNUSUAL feature she finds in our northwest suburbs is the similarity in homes in new communities. Largely absent here are the high hedges surrounding houses and the planted flowers in the windows.

"Our windows are not so large but every one has flowers on the inside — some more, some less," Ingrid says.

Most impressive to her is the tremendous number of cars in America. "They are everywhere — and they maneuver so much to get in front of each other." Fewer cars in Denmark mean more buses and other modes of public transportation — and bicycles.

"Practically everyone has a bicycle in Denmark. I used to ride 20 kilometers every day to and from school," Miss Kristensen says.

It seemed perfectly natural for her to ride her bike to and from the Federal Savings offices when she came to Arlington Heights.

One of her associates expressed concern at first that Ingrid would be singled out for criticism or ridicule for her bicycle riding. "But she looks so placid, so dignified as she pedals along that nobody seems to treat her as unusual."

EACH DAY in the Federal Savings parking lot, Miss Kristensen's bike can be seen locked in place alongside the black sedan of the association's president, Paul E. Collins.

What about marriage? Ingrid was asked. Was there someone back home?

The first word that came to her was "responsibility." And there was no one in particular back in Humlebaek. "There is responsibility to be married, and children to consider," Ingrid said. "A young person should see a little first and develop maturity.

"I understand girls in school here have boy friends. Such things we did not pay so much attention to. We did not have boy friends in school. I did not go out until 17 or 18.

"PERHAPS THIS will change in our country too," Ingrid added, as if she didn't believe it should.

Her biggest concern at Arlington Heights Federal Savings is not money transactions or systems of recording savings but the inability of her excellent schooling in English to keep pace with fast-talking Americans.

Just flash that winsome smile, she was assured, and people won't mind at all.

Tire Mileage Improved On Tollways

Motorists who travel the 187 miles of the Northwest, Tri-State and East-West Tollways, should be getting better tire mileage now than they did when the Prairie State's super highway system was new.

According to findings of an experiment conducted by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company, it took only 10,000 miles to wear the tread smooth on an experimental tire when the Ohio Turnpike was only three months old.

Twenty-seven months later, an identical test tire went 33,000 miles on the turnpike before its tread was warn smooth.

Over the months the surface of the turnpike had been worn smoother by the traffic of thousands of cars, trucks and busses, making it easier on tires.

Warm, Lazy Living Enjoyed Over Best Weekend of June

According to contented Monday morning reports this week a lot of Arlington Heighters feel that the best weekend of the month was the last one. It was warm, it was lazy and the Sox won a double header. The Cubs did too; neither ball games nor picnics were rained out and even mowing the lawn was almost a pleasure. If the weather and the mood is as fine for the coming holiday weekend, the new month will start out with a bang in more ways than one.

Several local families have had "sample" vacations so far, with the 2-week kind still to come. The Carl Reitmeyers, 227 S. Mitchell, were among Sunday returnees after a week's respite from routine hurry-hurry matters. They enjoyed a leisurely visit in the scenic upper peninsula of Michigan with the senior Mrs. Reitmeyer of Ingalls.

THE JAMES STOLL family, 525 S. Ridge, returned Sunday from a 10-day visit in Shreveport, La. with Mrs. Stoll's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Grisham. Many slightly mildewed local folk have wished for a hot dry spell and the Stolls wish that the damp, cool weather here could have gone south with them. A 3-month drouth has things a mite dry down Shreveport way and the thermometer registered 100 degrees several times during the Stolls' visit.

The Armand Bosso family returned to 309 Wilshire last Friday after a week in St. Louis where they visited the senior Bossos and Mrs. Bosso's mother, Mrs. Norma Bottom.

The Arthur Schulz household at 1115 N. Walnut seems kind of empty and quiet since the departure Saturday of the Schulzs' daughter, Mrs. Don Peterson and her children of Las Cruces, N. M. They had visited here a month and left by plane to join Mr. Peterson who is stationed at the missile base in Pocomoke City, Md. After a 2-month stay in Maryland the Peterson family will return to their home in Las Cruces, with a stopover visit here very likely to be on their schedule.

RECENT neighborhood farewells concluded the residence here of Mr. and Mrs. William Voigt, Denise and Bobby, formerly of 1014 N. Walnut. Their new home is in Springfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Balzer and Mrs. Margaret Paul of New York are spending a 2-week "helping hand" vacation here at the Henry Hanigan home, 903 N. Dunton. They arrived shortly before Brian Michael who came by way of the maternity ward at Northwest Community hospital June 20. Mrs. Balzer is Brian's maternal grandmother and Mrs. Paul is his great-aunt.

Leaving the midwest for Florida in the middle of June may be superfluous some years but not this damp and chilly month. The Richard Johnsons returned Saturday night from St. Petersburg where for two weeks they sunned, dried out and visited with the senior Johnsons. The weather was ideal during their stay, in Florida, that is. They didn't doubt reports about local rain when they returned and saw the rich, lush growth of weeds at 536 N. Mitchell.

MRS. JAMES YATES, 903 N. Vail, returned Sunday after a week at the Yates summer cabin in Koshkonong Lake, Wis. A dozen girls in a local scout group and Mrs. Don Sargol of Palatine accompanied her the previous weekend. Four of the girls stayed just the weekend, the rest remaining for the full week and returning with Mrs. Yates and Mrs. Sargol.

The week before the trek to Koshkonong Lake the Yates family honored Bruce at a small party following his eighth grade graduation. Adding their congratulations Mr. and Mrs. George Zachariasen, here from Elm Grove, Wis. for his commencement.

The Russell Hansens, Dale Pates and Henry Wists were guests Saturday night at a dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Eriksen, 5 W. Orchard, leisurely celebrating the end of a hectic month.

CRAIG RUTLEDGE, 619 W. Campbell, due home any minute from a post-graduation vacation trip to Georgia, called home the other day to say he was heading for Canada. The exact date of his return via a Detroit stopover and visit with friends is "eventually." The Rutledges came here from Georgia a few years ago and Craig's objective was reuniting with former Atlanta neighbors, the Ted Andersons, Tate Bradleys and others.

The Andersons are still where Craig left them but he had to stop in Nashville to see the Bradleys. The 2-week tour of Ontario is with the Garretts, also former Georgian neighbors and Mrs. Rutledge isn't too sure who's in Detroit now. Probably more ex-Georgians who didn't stay put either.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larsen, Geraldine and Mark recently returned home to 437 Prindle after a 5-week visit in Italy with Mrs. Larsen's family. It was the first time in five years that Mrs. Larsen had seen her parents, the Antonio Gessas and her twin sister, Mrs. Sonya Devo, who live in Derugia, located midway between Florence and Rome.

She happily admits to getting laryngitis while she was reuniting with the family and renewing old friendships in her home town, and says it was "partly" due to the climate. It was also wonderfully due to being able to catch up on five year's worth of talking and laughing.

A GOODLY PORTION of the population on the far north end of Dunton st. will be out of town, holiday weekending, and/or house hunting and vacationing soon so Mrs. Henry Taylor suddenly had a kaffee klatsch Monday morning for 10 neighborhood wives and one vacationing husband.

Those who would be gone July 3 wished a happy birthday to Mrs. Elmer Schmidt who wondered how she'd like a quiet birthday for a change; the lone male overwhelmed with feminine chatter just wondered and Mrs. Randy Brown, the house-hunting haus frau was farewelled.

A Fourth of July family party in the Taylor home, 1201 N. Dunton, will include Mr. Taylor's father, arriving from Normal Saturday for a week's visit here.

Visitors here this week in the Leo Mueller home, 110 S. Vail, are Mrs. Mueller's sister and brother-in-law, the C. B. Hollands of Des Moines. Scheduled for two weeks ago, the Hollands' visit was postponed at the last minute when Mrs. Holland fell and injured her foot. Pedestrian sight-seeing plans have been changed, but the visit is otherwise as per plan.

Twenty-six members and friends of the Northwest Art center were guests Sunday evening at a punch-bowl party in the Carl Zehner home, 20 S. Salem. Hosts and guests left the Zehner home in time to attend the final showing in the film series sponsored by the art center.

MR. AND MRS. Lewis Brown, 509 S. Chestnut, returned last Wednesday from Miami Beach where they attended the 6-day convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association held in the Americana hotel. Each day was full and the busiest for Mrs. Brown came when the ladies auxiliary of the association were guests of Hoe and Co., press manufacturers. The ladies were taken by boat to Biscayne Bay, enjoyed a cruise around the bay and then toured the former Deering mansion, now a museum. A tropical jungle area that was planned and developed by the Deering family and has been maintained since was the lush setting for a lawn party and fashion show that rounded out the day's program.

A trio of young N. Haddow residents Monday began a 7-week stay at Camp Osoha in Boulder Junction, Wis. Rosalie Keller, 308 N. Haddow, and Meredith and Shelley Hamilton, 303 N. Haddow, didn't think Monday would ever come, according to their mothers who were sure Monday would get here before everything was ready.

MR. AND MRS. Elmer Schmidt and Donna, 1209 N. Dunton, were guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Clause in Montello, Wis.

The birthday turkey of Mrs. Fred Heiden, 1010 N. Evergreen, added its essence to the aromatic breezes that announced everybody was cooking out Sunday. Aside from celebrating with a rotisseried feast Mrs. Heiden had no birthday plans. No party, just a bird. And then local friends, the Gale Oberlins paid a surprise visit, laden with birthday gifts best described as "crazy." Next Mrs. Heiden's stepfather and mother, the Ed Blairs of Norridge, surprised her, too. So there was a party.

MR. AND MRS. Hugh Robinson, 711 E. Fairview, entertained over the weekend, for Mr. Robinson's brother and family, the Boome A. Robinsons and their children, Joan and Rod, who are visiting here from their home in San Francisco.

The Robinsons second daughter, Jean, left this week to spend the summer at Camp Bryn Afon in Rhinelander, Wis.

Miss Marilyn Colburn, 535 S. Burton, will spend part of her summer vacation at Lake Forest college, where she has enrolled for a 6-week course in sociology and educational psychology.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Schmoyer, 445 S. Pine, spent the weekend in Grand Rapids visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verne A. Anderson. Upon returning home, Mr. Schmoyer will resume the summer music program and summer band program in high school district 214.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ball, 454 Banbury, were in Detroit Lakes, Minn., to spend Father's day and the following week with Mr. Ball's father, Dr. Fred Ball, who will celebrate his 90th birthday this year.

MISS PAM Buttenob arrived home for a 2-week vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Buttenob, 310 Bristol lane, from Evanston hospital where she is in nurses training.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Toffoli Jr., 358 S. Dryden pl., returned Sunday from a 2-week vacation in Charlotte and Greensborough, N. C., visiting both their parents, the senior Toffolis and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Abernathy. The Toffolis' visit happily coincided with the annual family reunion of her parents, at which more than 100 relatives gathered for a barbecue at the Community House in Spring Hope.

Recent weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cherry, 353 S. Belmont, were his brother and sister-in-law, the Herbert Cherrys of Minneapolis, who had come to Chicago to attend a convention at the Sheraton hotel.

MR. AND MRS. L. C. Lasley, 621 Bristol lane, were in Cleveland last week for the Master Plumbers association national convention which was attended by 6,000 guests from all over the country.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blaisdell, 628 Newbury, spent the weekend at the Resort of the Woods, in Boulder Junction, Wis., just relaxing and fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Anderson, 500 S. Pine, attended the wedding and reception of their granddaughter, Miss Holly Anderson, to Walter Cefle of Chicago, in the First Lutheran church, Portage Park, June 25. After a honeymoon in California, the Cefles will live in Chicago.

KEITH BALCH, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Balch, 623 S. Pine, left Saturday, to spend the summer at Towering Pines Camp near Three Rivers, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Cockerham, 410 S. Lincoln lane, joined Dr. and Mrs. Wilson Dalton of Shelbyville, Ind., for a week's vacation in New York City. They spent the week enjoying everything New York had to offer, including two Broadway plays, two TV performances and a boat trip around the city.

Victoria Down, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Down, 230 Bristol lane, is spending the summer in Buffalo, N. Y., with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Murray.

Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Down joined the Richard Blairs of E. Hawthorn st., the Tom Zahoskys of Palatine and the Hal Conleys of Rolling Meadows to appear on WGN-TV "Spin Time" to dance with a group of young people from Miss Grace Hanson's dancing class. Besides the fun of appearing on TV, it afforded an opportunity to watch the backstage proceedings necessary to put on a program.

MR. AND MRS. Eugene Lukasik, 526 E. Central, were in Oswego, Ill., Sunday, for the christening of their new granddaughter, Karen Laureen, and the second birthday celebration of the infant's brother, Eugene Damien Lukasik.

Following the christening in the Catholic church of Oswego, there was a reception for 48 friends and relatives at the junior Lukasiks' home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bredehoft, 201 Wilshire, returned home June 22 from the east. After attending the New York Bankers convention at the Lake Placid club, they motored through Vermont, and then through lower New York state and on home.

Sunday, the Bredehofts were in Milwaukee to attend an open house, after which they stopped for a brief visit with the Richard Haworths, their former Stonegate neighbors, now living in Milwaukee. Mrs. Haworth, who recently underwent surgery, is rapidly recovering and doing well.

MR. AND MRS. Carl Nagle, 321 Stratford, and their three children, Pam, Brad and Sheila, returned Saturday, from a 10-day fishing trip at Boulder Junction, Wis.

The Wilbur Todds' move to Tenafly, N. J., will be a temporary one. They plan to return to their Brighton st. home after a 2-year stay in the east.

After a great deal of anxiety and indecision, the Oliver Auers, 410 S. Windsor, were able to leave for their long-planned trip to Mexico.

Shortly before they were to leave, their daughter, Vicki, who had been vacationing in Ridgewood, N. J. with relatives, underwent an emergency appendectomy. Mrs. Auer flew east to be with her daughter, and as soon as she was well enough to travel, returned home. Mrs. Auer's parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. S. DuBois of Fulton, Mo., came to stay with their granddaughter while she was recuperating, and the Auers were able to enjoy their trip to Mexico.

While in Mexico, they attended a 3-day convention of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers at the Del Prado hotel in Mexico City, and spent the rest of the week sight seeing. One of the points of interest they enjoyed was the Chapultepec castle which was the home of Emperor Maximillian and Empress Carlotta.

MR. AND MRS. Ronald Peterson and their sons, Scott and Mitchell, arrived here Saturday from Flushing, N. Y. for a visit with her parents, the Larry Kussows, 1203 Woodford. Mr. Peterson and Mr. Kussow left Monday for Neenah, Wis., to attend a regional paper meeting of Kimberly Clark Co.

Miss Lyn Johnson, 309 Stratford, left Monday by plane for Plattsburg, N. Y., to spend a month visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Lt. and Mrs. John H. Ellerman and their son, Jeff. It will be an especially gay summer for Lyn, who will accompany the Ellermans to visit Lake Placid, Vermont and Quebec.

Police Chiefs Warn

'Fifth Column' Aids Burglars in Suburbs

A "fifth column" in the suburbs is aiding burglars according to a number of area police chiefs.

The enemy from within are the suburbanites themselves—of ten the burglar's best friends—the chiefs stated.

With June 26 through July 2 being Burglary Prevention week in Illinois, area police forces are intensifying their campaign to educate the burglary-prone suburbanite.

Two local chiefs, L. W. Calderwood of Arlington Heights and Marvin O. Horcher of Wheeling, speak highly of a "burglar-proofing check list" that they hand out to vacation-bound residents.

THE LIST CONTAINS ten questions, each of which is worth anywhere from five to 20 points.

A few sample questions are: "Do you leave a light connected to an automatic timer when you leave the house for an evening or an extended period." — 20 points.

"When you leave your home, do you avoid leaving notes which tell where a key can be found." — 10 points.

"Do you wait until after your return to tell the local paper about your vacation?" — 5 points.

A score of 60 or below on the quiz means that the resident is a "burglar's delight."

Chief Calderwood plans to have these check lists sent to Arlington residents with a coming water bill.

HE REPORTS that already this year, with the vacation season barely under way, 25 burglaries have taken place.

This figure includes both commercial and residential break-ins.

Most of these, he noted, take place between dusk and midnight.

Chief Horcher stated that Wheeling residents can come to the police station to pick up the check-list forms.

"We've had no break-ins since we started handing out the forms last year," he said.

Another tremendous help in combating burglars, according to Horcher, is a Wheeling ordinance that forbids the parking of cars on streets between 2 a.m. and 7 a.m.

MT. PROSPECT Police Chief George Wittenberg was wary of publicizing information for vacation-bound residents who wish to avoid burglars.

"Since burglars can read too," he said "I prefer to have vacation-goers personally report to the police station for burglary prevention information."

tion information."

He emphasized that it is not only important to notify the police station before departing on a vacation, but also the neighbor to the immediate left and right of the house.

A HOUSE KEY should be left either with a next-door neighbor or with the police, Wittenberg said. He also advised cutting off all paper, mail, and milk deliveries.

Wittenberg concluded that an automatic timer that turns the lights on at dusk and off during the day is a wise investment for a vacationer.

These devices, which never need resetting, can be attached to one or more lamps, giving the house a lived-in

FROM RIDGE PARK

Eloise Psota's friends and neighbors have mixed emotions about the Psotas moving from Patton ave. They don't like to see them leave, but everyone is glad that at least it is here in town. Eileen Harris, 937 N. Patton, entertained the following at a luncheon June 21 honoring Eloise: Helen Rathsman, Lil Lurtz, Joyce Lewinski, Charlene Hendricksen, Maxine Shogren, Sarina Rudy, Betty Lougrin and Marge Schaller. Someone must have known that on Eloise's "want list" was a chafing dish, because they selected one for her going away gift. Eileen's mother, who had been here a week ago, also lft her gift there—a copper tray—for which the hospitable Psotas will find many uses.

It is going to take three parties to finish Rickey Hostler's birthday celebration this year. He will be 5 July 3. but had his first party last Friday with the following children present: Bobby and Billy Stevens, Jimmy, Joey and John Lauer, Wayne Kellar, and Rickey's brother, Paul. Chip Kunberger didn't like it much, but mumps kept him away. Rickey's sister, Linda, and Cathy Cryer attended the party too, but as mother's helpers. The children sat on the living room floor around a paper tablecloth to eat their individual cupcakes with a candle atop each which were lighted long enough for everyone to sing the happy birthday song to Rick. Although the clown ice cream cones, made of a scoop of ice cream with cone hats and chocolate chips for eyes, nose and mouth fascinated the children, they made them disappear quite fast. After refreshments and games, the party ended with everyone's going home with balloons, paper hats and bubble gum.

The following day there was another celebration for Rickey when his paternal grandparents came from Chicago for a birthday dinner. Monday, Rickey, Paul and Linda left with their Aunt Ella for a visit with their maternal grandparents in Ft. Worth. Another celebration will be waiting for him down there on the day of his birthday. Rickey, Paul and Linda are the children of Lu and Ralph Hostler, 927 N. Kennicott.

A note of sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. and Mrs. John McNamara, 924 N. Kaspar, in the recent death of her mother, Mrs. Garrity of Chicago.

THE FACT that Jane Durgom left Ridge Park, for Rockford this summer prompted her friend, Pam Astley, to have a going-away party for her. June 17. Charlotte Kreusch, Alice Reinschmidt, Susan Turner, Donna Krilcic and Janice Burget came to Pam's house just in time to scream "surprise" before Jane walkin the door. She was even more surprised when they presented her with a toiletry case for her overnight bag. Cokes and popcorn were served and there was dancing afterward which lasted until someone got the idea to go on a spur-of-the-moment scavenger hunt. Pam is the daughter of the Meredith Astleys, 830 N. Princeton. Jane and her family formerly lived at 1007 Oakton and live here in town while their new home is being built in Rockford.

Dickie and his dad, Dick Sorensen, 943 N. Kaspar, had wonderful weather over the weekend for their camp-out at Kankakee state park. Besides the usual hiking, they even did some fishing.

This time when Vivian and Allen Behrs came to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Aurnhammer, 736 N. Patton, they brought their new son with them. Jeffrey Allen was born April 30 in Ypsilanti, Mich. and after a week's visit here, he and his parents are leaving for their new home in Plymouth, Mich.

The Bob Walkers, 1106 W. Elm, are back from a 10-day vacation in the east. They went to Philadelphia for a reunion with Bob's family and then went on to New Jersey for a visit with Doris's family. The time seemed short to them but they did manage to see some of their friends and visit another college campus since Vicki will be making her choice in another year.

LaVerne Lavers and Dorothy Wells gave a baby shower for Jean Dilley Friday morning. Jean Vetter, Julia Buehler, LaVerne Buechner, Barbara Rubenking, Marge Raitt, Marilyn Hedger and June Miller came to LaVerne's home, 940 N. Fernandez, for a brunch. A pink and green paper baby scale, complete with baby and stork was the center piece and the conversation piece while the ladies ate.

Janet and Bob Kay and their three children, 1008 N. Kaspar, always enjoy a visit from Bob's mother, Mrs. Monica Kay of Chicago, who came out to see them Sunday.

IT WAS A gala affair, the 40 and 8 dinner dance at the Conrad Hilton Saturday evening. The grand ballroom was ablaze with color when the American Legion gathered its forces for an evening of food and dancing. The Lawrence Geislers, 816 N. Rirde, were Geislers, 816 N. Ridge, were among the guests for the evening. He is a member of the 40 and 8. He and Mrs. Geisler also celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary Wednesday with dinner out and a show afterward.

The Bill Rudys, 822 N. Princeton, entertained the Frank Psotas and the Frank Benjamins of Evanston at dinner Sunday evening.

There was a party for Robin last Friday morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kleiner, 914 N. Yale to celebrate her second birthday. Sherri Strauss, Craig Carlson and Hank Pate came for ice cream and cake and played outdoors afterward while their mothers enjoyed coffee together. There were two main attractions at the party: the lollypop tree which boasted balloons as well as lollypops, and Robin's new sandbox. In the evening, Robin's grandmothers came for dinner: Mrs. John Kleiner and Mrs. Harry Essington who has been visiting them for two weeks. Mrs. Essington left Sunday night for her home in Santa Fe, N.M., after a round of parties and get togethers with her many friends in this area. She and Mr. Essington formerly lived in Mt. Prospect before he retired.

A note of sympathy goes to Mr. and Mrs. Stan Mensching and their family, 804 N. Kaspar, due to the death of his grandfather, Fred Wilke, Sunday in Janesville, Wis. Mr. Wilke has been brought back here for burial.

The Tom McGough family, who formerly lived at 906 N. Illinois, have moved to 407 S. Ioka, Mt. Prospect. All those who knew them here were sorry to see them leave, but a bigger house was in the offing and they will be needing it in few months.

SEVERAL neighborhood parties for the Donald Knutsons, who lived at 1006 N. Patton, gave them a fine send-off to Prairie Village, Mo. Saturday. Mr. Knutson has been transferred to Kansas City, which is close to their new home. A welcome is evtended to Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison who have moved into the house after having lived in Chicago. The John Walshes, 1012 N. Salem, are probably happier than anyone else to have the Morrisons at that address. Mrs. Walsh is their daughter.

It's a girl for the Stafford Machases, 1019 N. Salem. Linda Kay was born June 18 in Resurrection hospital and weighed 4 pounds 13 ounces. Her brother, Jimmy, 6, came down with chicken pox before she was born and now that she is home, her sister, Faye Maria, 3½, has them.

Mrs. Fannie Poulos is Linda Kay's grandmother.

An early morning telephone call from Richard Randle announced to his parents, the William Randles, 832 N. Kaspar, that he had been released from service at the Madigan General army hospital in Tacoma, and was at Midway waiting for someone to pick him up. Once the excitement died down, they went out to get him and had a good visit with him until he began summer classes at Southern Illinois university. Mr. Randle also went down there for classes for five days. Mrs. Randle's sister, Mrs. Hazel Fullmer, has been here too from Indianapolis to share in the excitement.

JUST ASK Dick Platt, 806 N. Kennicott, what he thinks of fishing trips to Canada and he'll give a first hand report of his recent trip. He and one of his friends were gone a week camping on islands of one of the big lakes up there to avoid animals on the mainland. They camped and portaged when they weren't catching northerns and wall eyes.

They came back to [illegible] for dinner afterward and open house for relas [illegible]d friends was held in the afternoon and evening.

FROM SHERWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burgess, 1218 W. Clarendon, especially enjoyed their 10 days in the Northwoods recently because Bob, Barbara and the babies met them up there at the cottage near Wa-go-tha-ka lodge. Located on a lovely lake north of Grand Rapids, they found the best fishing they have had in years.

Former Sherwood residents, the Tom Polaceks, are back here for a week's visit. Mrs. Polacek is staying with her parents and the children are staying with friends in Sherwood, which is still like home to them.

Miss Carlson's father was the minister at the Pilgrim Congregational church in Toledo, Ohio, where Mrs. Westby was formerly Minister of Music.

Fish on Friday At Aged Home

The people at the Lutheran Home for the Aged, 800 W. Oakton, Arlington Heights, will be consuming lake trout and northern pike Friday thanks to a fisherman who caught more than he could eat.

George Schuman, 605 S. Roosevelt, Arlington Heights, donated the 30 pound trout and 28 pound northern to the home Tuesday.

He caught the fish, which were described by a Lutheran Home official as "the biggest fresh water fish he had ever seen," in Hudson Bay, Canada. (AF

"WELL, THERE MUST be at least 100 . . . no, maybe 50 would be a better guess." Kim Stahnke, 110 S. Brighton, gives the jar a judicious looking over before he hazards a guess as to the number of marbles it contains. He just purchased a one cent chance at a fair put on by four Arlington teenagers in a vacant lot at 210 S. Brighton. (AF

Young Entrepreneurs Sponsor Local Fairs

Four Arlington boys have not allowed their ages to handicap them in the fertile, but often treacherous, field of private enterprise.

Too young to obtain regular jobs and faced with a long summer, the boys decided to run fairs in a vacant lot at 210 S. Brighton to "make money and give us something to do," according to Jim Jedd, 15, of 108 S. Brighton.

He and his three partners, George Wilcox, 13, of 210 S. Brighton; Dewey Oberlin, 11, of 201 S. Dryden; and Don Schreiber, 14, of 123 S. Brighton, have found the neighborhood children willing customers.

A flock of them, ages 7 to 10, were at the most recent fair, last Friday.

Some were accompanied by their mothers.

But for the most part they came alone, tightly clutching their pennies and nickels.

THE YOUNGSTERS, mostly boys, were confronted by a maze of crates, tables, and booths. However, the makeshift appearance of the fair betrayed the professional planning behind it.

"We got up at six in the morning to set up the fair," explained Jim.

"But before that we had to build booths, purchase prizes and other equipment, and print handbills advertising the fair," he continued.

Jim went on to explain that they did all the work on the fair themselves. He did admit, however, that the mothers "helped a little" with the refreshments.

THE FAIR offered three attractions.

--Games. A "dart-throw," "bottle-knock," and a test of mental skill, "Guess how many marbles are in the bottle and win a model of the SS United States--Only one cent per guess," challenged the youngsters.

--Merchandise. Items offered for sale included plastic soldiers, model airplanes, books, chalk, and marbles. "Finished models selling one half price," "33 per cent discount on the USS Forrestal," read two signs.

--Refreshments. The refreshment booth offered lemonade for five cents a glass and popcorn for five cents a bag.

The youngster who solved a game was offered a choice of toy lizards, play money, jump ropes, or soap for blowing bubbles as prizes.

MANY OF THE youngsters looked agape at a clever come-on, an exhibit of war souvenirs, including a rifle, helmet, and sword.

The owner's father did not have to worry, however, as the items were advertised as being "not for sale."

After the last penny was spent and expenses were deducted, the boys learned that their labor was rewarded.

Total profit--$23.35.

Mariners Spent Week On Water

Mariner Ship 334 of Arlington Heights, under leadership of Mrs. D. Sargol of Palatine and Mrs. J. Yates of Arlington, spent the past week at the Yates'' cottage in Edgerton, Wis. The Mariner group is composed of Girl Scouts from both Palatine and Arlington Heights.

After pitching tents, building a fire and taking care of the general campgrounds, the girls were taught to fiberglass a dinghy and rig the mast of a sailboat. The week's activities included waterfront sports such as boating, canoeing, sailing, swimming and waterskiing.

During the week a 10-mile canoe trip was taken to Indian Fort, Wis., via Lake Koskonong and the Rock river.

Each night the girls closed their activities with songs around the camp fire, accompanied by ukuleles, clarinets and harmonizing voices. (AP

Blood Donors

Blood donors are needed for Donald Schad, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schad of Cary, former Arlington Heights residents. The Schad youth, a hemophelia, is a patient at St. Francis hospital in Evanston, where he has required some 80 pints of blood transfusions. Donors may give blood at Northwest Community or any hospital in the area.

ORIENTAL APPAREL isn't necessarily being recommended, but Muriel Mundy's Arlington Heights shop is featuring an attractive exhibit of Japanese clothing and curiosities collected on Mrs. Mundy's recent trip to Japan. The store, a part of Dunton Court Shopping center, will display the items for another wek. (A

New Booster Club For St. Viator's

St. Viator high school boosters club held its initial meeting Wednesday, June 22, at Our Lady of Arlington Novitiate, 1212 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights.

The $3 million Catholic boys high school, to be located on 20 acres between Euclid and Oakton sts. and east of Dryden st. in Arlington Heights, will be completed in September, 1961.

THE MEETING was attended by 475 mothers and fathers who plan to send their children to St. Viator.

Main purpose of the meeting was to discuss various problems that will be encountered when the school opens, with the transporting of students of major concern.

Election of officers will not take place until a later meeting.

MEETINGS are scheduled for the third Wednesday of each month.

The school will serve 16 parishes from Arlington Heights, Palatine, Mt. Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Wheeling, Hoffman Estates, Barrington, Lake Zurich, and Wauconda. (ACM

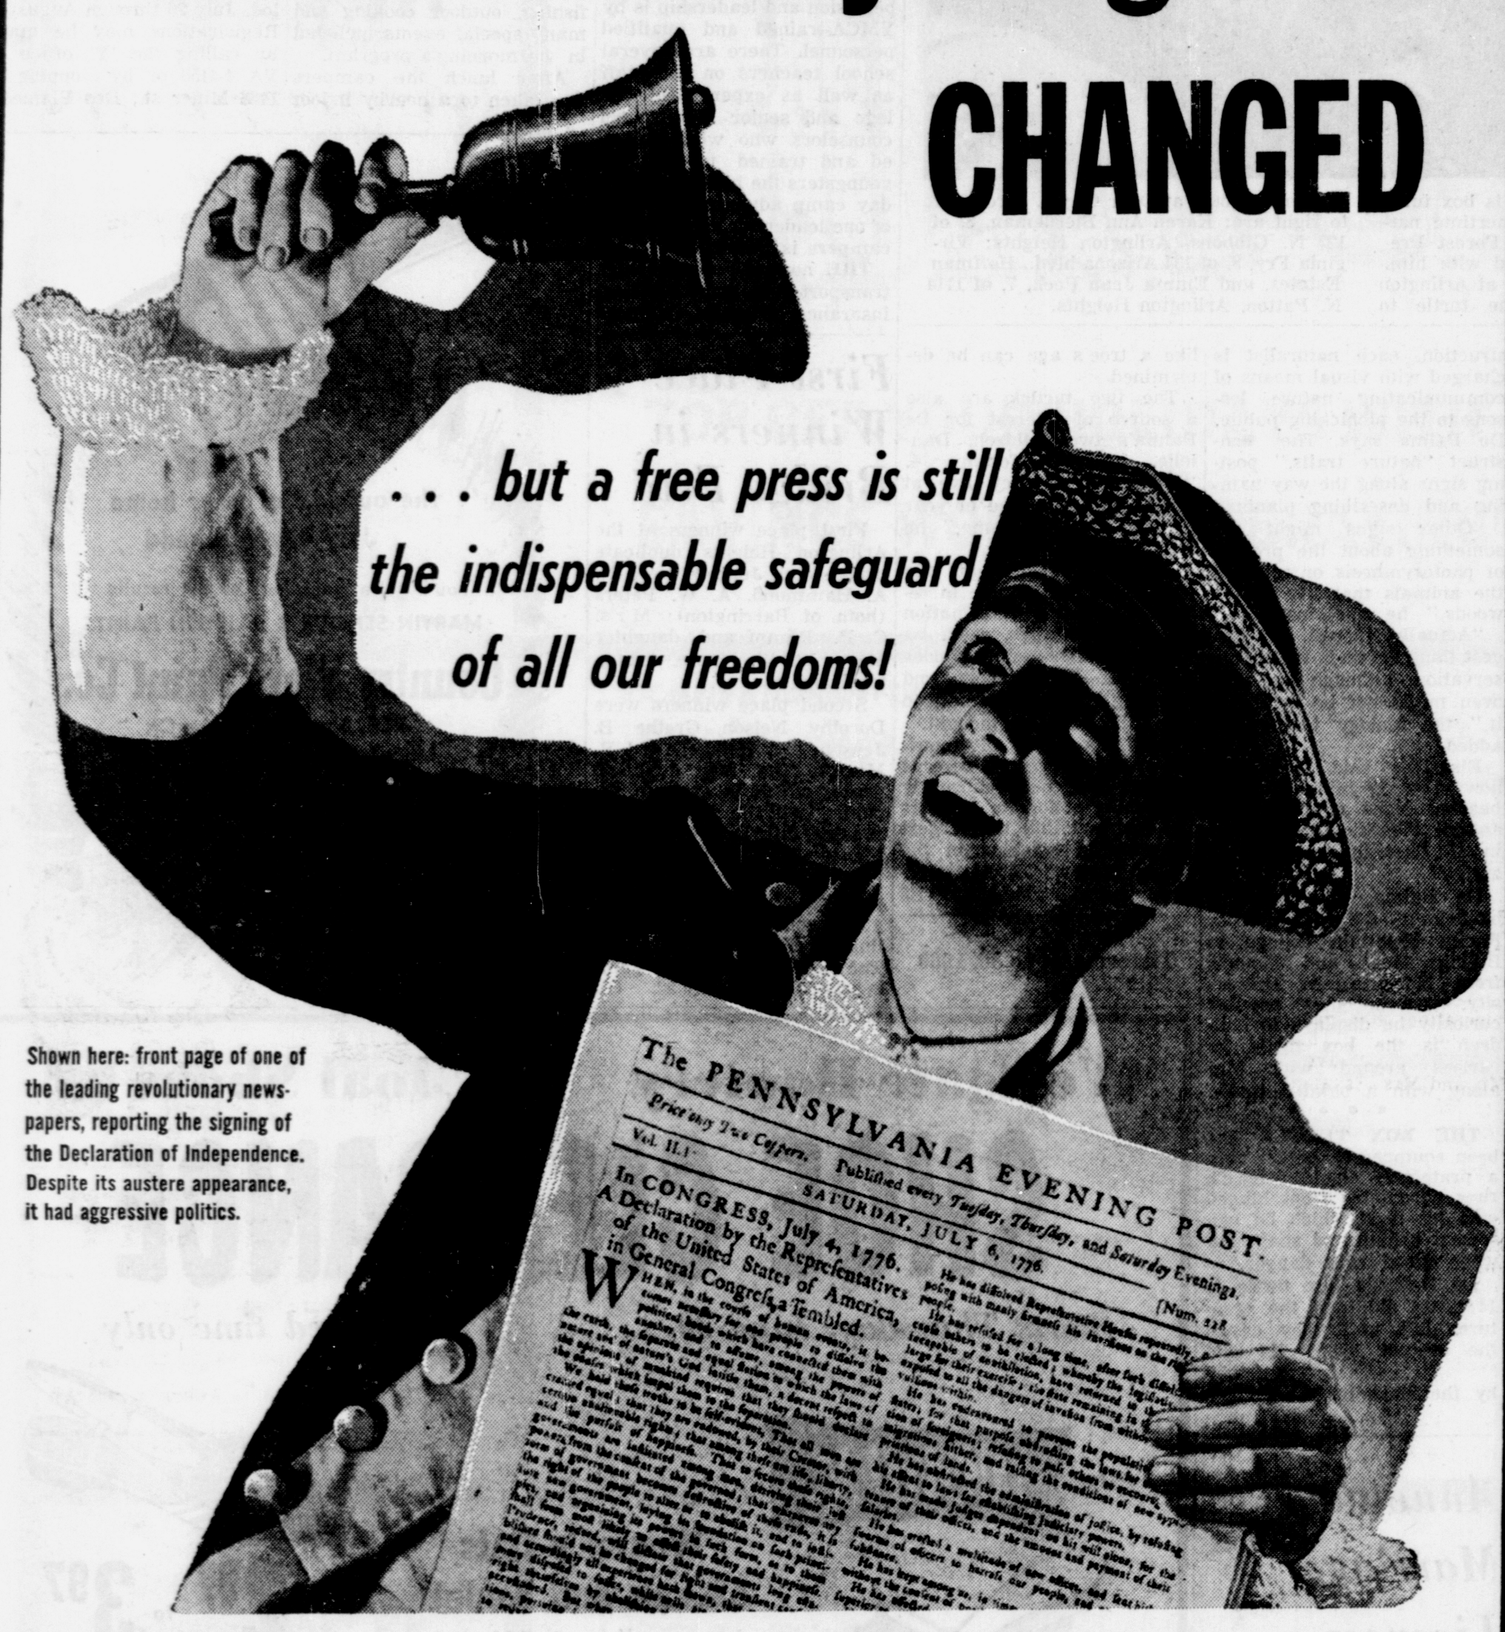
One in every 66 pieces of incoming luggage belonging to international travelers contains contraband plant or animal material.

ALMOST everything has CHANGED



Shown here: front page of one of the leading revolutionary newspapers, reporting the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Despite its austere appearance, it had aggressive politics.

NEWS THAT SHAPED OUR DESTINY

No headlines — no pictures, yet this newspaper packed a wallop as it relentlessly urged our forefathers to fight for liberty.

We've come a long way since then. Now the miracle of electronic communication brings us the news as it happens; photography, modern typography and art reproduction graphically illustrate and punctuate ideas.

But no matter how the world changes, our American heritage can only be upheld through a free press.

Through the printed page the citizens can examine the issues, go over them point by point among themselves and make their wishes known at the polls.

Of course, today's newspapers have expanded to meet other public needs. They offer entertainment, advertising, illustrated and helpful articles, as well as a wider variety of news.

But in the last analysis, American newspapers remain, as they were in the pioneer days of John Peter Zenger and Benjamin Franklin — champions of the people and undaunted voices of liberty.

Naturalists Reveal Wildlife Mysteries

Forest Preserves Provide Service

by RICHARD C. HOFFMANN

In Deer Grove, Brownie Scouts studied the harmless looking leaves with wide-eyed awe: they were memorizing the lines of that Lorelei of the woodland—poison ivy.

In Elk Grove's Ned Brown woods, a group of boys who had seldom seen more than the city's grey canyons were stalking a buzzing insect instead of fielding a fly ball.

Throughout the reaches of Cook county's 47,000 acres of forest cover, such scenes were being duplicated. Over 3,000 youngsters representing 209 day camps will "graduate" from this applied course in nature by summer's end.

ANOTHER 3,000 underprivileged "pupils" from 68 social centers in Chicago's blighted slum pockets will also enjoy the benefits of biological instruction in what has become the largest outdoor laboratory in the country - Cook county's Forest Preserve district.

Supervising these summertime flirtations with nature are 12 naturalists employed by the Forest Preserve District from June 15 to August 15.

The Forest Preserve District's outdoor appreciation classes (sorry, no diplomas awarded for turtle hunts) have been conducted since 1945.

'We scratch that bump of curiosity the child has in considering his surroundings," says Roland F. Eisenbeis, superintendent of conservation.

BUT THE PROGRAM also is one of those mutual benefit sort of enterprises. "We know that in the process they'll become better users of the preserves," Eisenbeis feels. "We rarely have any vandalism in the forest preserves. We try to build the attitude that this is theirs; it's an investment in better use."

Typical of the dozen naturalists who lead nature hikes and answer the profusion of questions showered on them is Ray De Palma, 35, of 4001 Raven ln., Rolling Meadows, a freshman biology teacher at Arlington high school.

De Palma carries two turtles, his insect collection, insect nets, insect killing jars and dip nets in his travels (a 25-mile radius of Arlington Heights), arranges nature hikes for day camps, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire girls, and YMCA groups.

Rain will force nature sessions to shelters or, possibly, a school in the vicinity.

IN ADDITION to vocal instruction, each naturalist is charged with visual means of communicating nature lessons to the picnicking public, De Palma says. They construct "nature trails," posting signs along the way naming and describing plants.

"Other signs might tell something about the process of photosynthesis or some of the animals that live in the woods," he explained.

"Actually, though, the biggest thing we do is teach conservation, although the children might not be aware of it," the biology teacher added.

Eisenbeis said there are now about 17 miles of trails bearing signs of plant and animal identification located in 13 "heavily used picnic areas."

De Palma, who holds a bachelor's degree from Rocky Mountain college in Billings, Mont., and Master's from Northwestern University, says the most popular curiosity he displays to children is the box turtle he carries around with him along with a painted turtle.

THE BOX TURTLE has been equipped by nature with a pratective shield which runs across his front hinged onto his shell which he can retreat behind and snap shut when faced with danger.

De Palma's box turtle is 14 years old, and the creatures live until they crowd the century mark. He said [illegible] by the rings on the turtle's [illegible] of armor, much like a tree's age can be determined.

The two turtles are also a source of interest for De Palma's two children, Danielle, 10, and Tommy, 4. "Normally they live at school, but this time of year I keep them at home," he said.

Eisenbeis said that the naturalists also double in relating historical information to young charges, such as Indian stories and pioneer lore. "It gives roots and meaning of the community to the children," he thought.

And this bump of knowledge the Forest Preserve District has been diligently scratching at for the 15 years has "turned into the largest program of its kind in the United States," Eisenbeis remarked. (B8

Largest Enrollment Ever At Local YMCA Day Camp

Northwest Suburban YMCA "Day Camp Adventure" has a record enrollment this summer, according to reports from Charles McClellan, executive at the local 'Y.' The first 2-week period began Tuesday with the largest group of day campers ever registered in the six years of Northwest Suburban's day camp operation.

The 'Y' offers its day camp to boys and girls 7 to 12 years of age in three 2-week periods, running four days a week Tuesday through Friday. Supervision and leadership is by YMCA-trained and qualified personnel. There are several school teachers on the staff as well as experienced college and senior high school counselors who were selected and trained to give the youngsters the highest type of day camp adventure. A ratio of one leader for every 10 day campers is maintained.

THE nominal fee includes transportation, craft supplies, insurance and milk. Campers are picked up at each of the grade schools in the northwest suburban areas by chartered United Motor Coach buses and are returned to the same locations. Convenient pickup points other than the schools are made upon request of parents.

Day campers spend the mornings at Deer Grove forest preserve where a reserved shelter is the "home base" of activities. There are games, tournaments, crafts, nature study, turtle hunts, fishing, outdoor cooking and many special events included in the morning's program.

After lunch the campers are taken to a nearby indoor swimming pool for instructional and recreational swim periods. Here novice swimmers are taught to enjoy the water, to tread and learn simple strokes, and advanced swimmers are taught to progress in a graded YMCA swim program. There is also a "free swim" period each afternoon.

THERE ARE still a few openings in the second period, which is from July 12 through July 22, and in the third period, July 26 through August 5. Registrations may be made by calling the 'Y' office at VA 4-4156 or by stopping at 1488 Miner st., Des Plaines.

Tots Are Treated by Hospital Emergency

Stomach pumps and needle and thread were most popular treatments for accidents last week at the Northwest Community hospital emergency room.

Four tots had their stomachs rid of materials from moth balls to perfume. Cuts and bruises were mostly the work of swings, dogs, and household accidents.

TWO-YEAR-OLD Linda Schmidt, of Arlington Heights, drank the perfume Monday, June 20. She was brought in for the stomach washing procedure by Wheeling police.

Karen Chase, 10½ months, of Arlington Heights, had her stomach pumped with water, Thursday, after she chewed on moth balls. The next day Pamela Sowing, 2, of Rolling Meadows was brought in for the same treatment. She had eaten baby aspirin.

James Kanzler, 21 months, of Des Plaines had his stomach pumped Saturday, June 25, after he drank clorox.

Depending upon what a person ate, a different solution is used to clean them out. According to hospital terminology, it is a lavage or aspiration treatment -- not the colloquial pumping. The hospital staff decides what solvent is best to counteract the chemical a person has taken. For the moth ball chewer, for example, plain water was used. However, for something as strong as clorox, a highly acid substance, several chemicals were compounded for the washing operation.

A MEDICATED dressing was used to help mend the cut hand suffered by Martin Mukahirn, 66, of Arlington Heights. He had the accident at home while using a power saw.

Lester Szostek, 7, of Mt. Prospect, had a finger on his left hand partially cut off by a gate, Tuesday, June 21. The emergency staff was able to sew the finger back.

The same day Laura Dewey, 4, of Palatine, was hit in the back of the head with a swing seat. No stitches were required in the cut.

Tetanus-toxoid shots were given Mark Faba, 3, of Rolling Meadows, after he cut his finger on a tin play shovel. Another swing was responsible for a cut chin that required stitches. The victim is Terry Gibbs, 3, of Hoffman Estates, who was hit Thursday, June 23, with a swing glider.

Kim Hill, of Arlington Heights, fell off his bike in an empty lot Sunday. He was brought into the hospital for stitches on a two inch long cut near the knee of his left leg.

ALSO TREATED at the hospital during the week were Steve Cegielske, 53, of Palatine, who broke his left wrist when a ladder fell from under him at his home, Saturday. A 20-month old child, Eric Mase, of Mt. Prospect, escaped with bruises on his head after he fell from a cart in the grocery store, Saturday.

A toxoid shot and medicated dressing were given Aletha L. Bogan, 5, of Arlington Heights, after a dog bit and scratched her abdomen and wrist. Saturday, William A. Maffy, 8, of Rolling Meadows, was bitten by a dog near his home. The emergency staff dressed a small cut in his left chest.

A severely splintered fracture was suffered Sunday, by Selinda Johnson, 77, of Chicago. She fell while entering a front door and was brought to the hospital by Buffalo Grove police.

Donald Schwank, 26, of Palatine, was hospitalized and underwent surgery on internal injuries suffered when he was hurt playing baseball, Sunday. (B8

Bauxite

The world's largest deposits of bauxite are found in Guinea, new independent republic in West Africa.

Finalist In Debating

An Arlington Heights girl, Carol Berthold, 17, of 1512 N. Prairie, took sixth place in debate with her partner in the national speech contest at San Diego June 21-25.

Oddly, neither girl had qualified for the debate tournament, but had reached the national contest because of their ability in individual speaking events.

However, Miss Berthold, who graduated this year from Arlington high, failed to place in the extemporaneous speaking contest.

She and the other member of the team, Peg Skorpinski of North Chicago, had entered the debate contest only as a second event.

BEFORE THEY were eliminated by a team from Houston in the fourth round, they had defeated groups from California, Orlando, Fla.; and Brownsville, Pa.

All the teams they met except for California were either state debate champions or National Forensic league district champs.

Participating in the tournament were 98 teams, with a team from West Aurora the eventual winners.

Debate topic was: "Resolved: That the government its regulation of labor units its regulation of labor unions."

The teams had to alternate between taking the negative and affirmative on the question.

SHE EXPLAINED that both she and Miss Skorpinski had been debating the negative side all year during high school contests, and were a little rusty on the affirmative.

Miss Berthold had qualified for the national contest by finishing first in extemporaneous speaking in the state National Forensic league district at Illinois State Normal university.

She plans to major in social science at Illinois State Normal next year.

Her debate coach at Arlington high was Bernard Brock.

Q. What is the proper manner of "operating" on a fish at the dinner table for the removal of the bones?
A. Lift the end of the bone with the fork, and then pinching it between the fork and the knife, lift it all the way out. In some cases, you may have to use the fingers, and this is quite all right if you can avoid handling the fish itself with your fingers.

The enemies of freedom stand ready to enthrone tyranny—as they have loomed in every age since 1776. The price of freedom, today as ever, is constant vigilance, physical strength and moral courage.

Our Lord listed in the Beatitudes a number of attitudes for which one would be blessed. The HUMBLE-MINDED, Those who in sorrow bear it well, The meek (who lay no possessive claims to this world), Those who hunger for God's righteousness, The pure in heart, The peace-maker, etc. These are the salt of the earth. These are the preservers of all that is good and of true value. The light of true life GLOWS from such a person.

No Members, No Money, No Building

Suburb Growth Poses Many Problems for New Church

by NATALIE McKENZIE

What do you do when you are told to come to an area and build a church?

What is your first step when you are almost fresh out of divinity school and don't have one lead to as who your parishioners may be, where they are, or if they are?

These are problems faced by many new churches in northwest suburbs. The Congregationalists in Arlington Heights have met in school rooms and amassed 100 members in the past year. The Palatine Presbyterian church is just formulating plans for a church building. The Southern Baptists have been in Palatine a short time. The Prince of Peace Methodist church has been in Elk Grove Village less than six months.

All these and many others have allied problems: no money, no building of their own, few members.

A group that thinks they have solved some of these problems in an unique way is the Church of Our Lord, Evangelical United Brethren, in Arlington Heights.

Their minister, Truman R. Stehr, came here three years ago without a name to go on. He had a three-acre plat of ground, bought and given by the men's organization of the Illinois conference of Evangelical United Brethren (EUB).

THAT WAS all. The focal point of the congregation was to be Hatlen Heights, on the fringe of Mt. Prospect and Arlington Heights. Three months after Stehr arrived in 1957, the developer of the area went bankrupt. Building ceased. His potential source of members stayed just that—potential. No new people.

Rev. Stehr began knocking on the 350 doors in Hatlen Heights. He wrote letters to ministers of all faiths in a 50-mile radius, asking if they knew people in their area of his faith.

Thus began the nucleus of a congregation that cannot boast fantastic growth rates. But it has, on a limited budget with few members, completed an unusual new building.

IT IS A combination chapel-parsonage on Roosevelt rd., just across the Mt. Prospect line in Arlington. Dedication services were June 12.

"You see, we did everything backwards," the youthful church leader said. "Most groups buy a parsonage and send their minister in to build a church body. Usually the church will go through a three - stage development—the first of which is getting a sanctuary up.

"We did our parsonage first. I lived in rented quarters when I came here until we could plan our strategy. For more than a year we planned. Members had a say in the parsonage which they wouldn't if we had bought that building first. A member of the congregation spent hours on the engineering. Now the people feel it is theirs."

The unique building looks like many another new home in this area. Of light brick, it is large though looks smaller than its actual size outside. To the right as one enters the foyer is the bright clean chapel — a room that will one day be the living - dining area when a real church is built.

OFF THE FOYER and the chapel is the kitchen — any housewife's dream, with big floor space, wall oven, and counters galore. The parson's private quarters are to the left of the foyer. A small study, four bedrooms, and bethroom with double sink for multi-children families. The chapel-home has a complete basement which serves as Sunday school, scout meeting headquarters, social hall and meeting room.

The chapel — that holds 60 comfortably — is designed for 100. It will be abandoned when the congregation reaches the latter figure.

"Our growth has been unbelievably slow," Rev. Stehr admitted. When we incorporated at Easter, 1958, we had 21 members. By the end of the year — our first — we had added only four adult members.

"Therefore, our financial problem has been critical. Our budget was $3,000. But we wanted something besides school rooms we could call our own. We wanted to be centralized.

"Lack of a building has hurt our Sunday school program. There are about 35 children who attend now, none older than junior high school. This is largely because our members are young. Furthermore, we had no Sunday school storage space. Our congregation wasn't large enough to train an adequate Sunday school staff," he explained.

BIGGEST JOB for the 28-year-old bachelor was fighting the discouragement of no new families. Rev. Stehr wanted to emphasize that it has taken a special kind of loyalty and dedication by the members of his congregation to achieve their building at all.

"I feel it is fantastic they have put up with their stagnant growth area and the fact that this has been my first church," he said.

Encouraging signs are on the horizen, though as mounds of dirt can be seen from the minister's study. Construction on Hatlen Heights is being resumed. The congregation has disbanded its building committee and is pouring its efforts into visitation and membership drives.

Rev. Stehr also said that his work in this area has given him a wonderful faith in the human being. "We do have an opportunity to be a true community church and community center."

"The question was raised in Charles Hayes' religion-in-suburbia series last fall of the necessity of the numerous small churches being built throughout this area. Are there too many? he asked. The problem is that the church has to take land where the development is going on and the potential congregation is. It has to get there first; then see what the community does. In our case," Rev. Stehr said, "the community has been coming into existence in fits and starts. We can't answer Mr. Hayes' question yet and won't be able to for many years, because the growth is not yet complete. We can only try to serve."

The young man has got his church started. He is leaving, tomorrow, Friday, for points east to devote himself to work in slum areas. A new minister will be coming to his church from California.

REV. STEHR, son of an Evangelical minister in Northern Illinois, hopes to be a missionary in Africa. He admitted that he was very disappointed when the board of missions wouldn't accept his application for Africa right from Yale Divinity school, but they wanted him to have experience with a church of his own. He came here, to a completely unpioneered area for his faith, "because of the challenge—and it has been!"

He said that sister churches in Barrington, Des Plaines, Elgin, Itasca, Northfield, Deerfield, and Highland Park had been helpful.

His own members come from Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove village, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Palatine, Fox River Grove, and Arlington Heights. More than half, however, are from Hatlen Heights.

A head lies membership growth and when the magic 100 figure is reached, resumption of a master plan.

REV. TRUMAN STEHR bids farewell to one of his parishioners from the doorway of his recently dedicated chapel-parsonage. The 28-year-old bachelor has organized and served the Church of Our Lord, Evangelical United Brethren in Arlington Heights for the past three years.

THE CHAPEL IN THE Church of Our Lord new parsonage-chapel will someday become the living-dining area for the parson of that church. Now the room seats 60 comfortably, can take 100. Finished in blond woods and light curtains, the room has a slightly vaulted ceiling to give a feeling of spaciousness. (B8

Explain Different Types of Hospital

To most people, a hospital is a hospital, and there is very little attempt to distinguish between the different types. With hospitals playing a much bigger role in our lives, it is interesting and may be useful to learn to recognize different kinds of hospitals, as defined by the American Hospital association:

A general hospital is one that treats patients of all ages and most types of illness. Most hospitals are of this type. In fact, of the 23 million patients admitted to hospitals in this country every year, around 22 million are cared for by general hospitals.

A specialty hospital is one that cares for patients with a certain kind of condition, such as tuberculosis, mental or cardiac illness. The largest single group of specialty hospitals are the mental or psychiatric hospitals, mostly publicly owned and operated. Although these hospitals receive only about 2 per cent of all admissions, half the patients in hospitals each day are psychiatric patients, because of their long stay. More recently, general hospitals are doing more work in this field and the stay has been reduced greatly by the use of modern drugs and advanced therapeutic methods.

CLASSIFIED by type of ownership, there are three kinds of hospitals:

A voluntary hospital is one operated by a church or a nonprofit association. There are some 3,500 voluntary hospitals—more than half of all hospitals. More than two-thirds of all admissions are to these hospitals, which average one-fourth of all patients hospitalized each day.

A government hospital is one operated by federal, state, or local government. There are over 2,200 of these. Over 400 are federal hospitals, operated for members of the armed services, veterans, and other special purposes. Over 500 are state hospitals, including many large psychiatric hospitals. The local governments operate over 1,250 hospitals, many chiefly for indigent patients, and entirely tax-supported, some serving the whole community and depending only in part on taxes for support. All types of governmental hospitals account for about a quarter of all admissions, and over 70 per cent of patients in hospitals each day.

A proprietary hospital is one operated by an individual, partnership, or corporation for profit. There are over 1,000 proprietary hospitals, which account for about 7 per cent of all admissions, and about two of every 100 persons hospitalized each day. (B8 RESEMBLING ANY NEW suburban home, this structure just on the Arlington Heights-Mt. Prospect border has a new twist. It is partly home, partly chapel. It was built by the congregation of the Church of Our Lord, Evangelical United Brethren, a denomination closest in doctrine to Methodism. However, the EUB church has its roots among German-speaking Americans, while Methodism is a European-founded faith. (B8

"Regardless of Fluctuations, no other Chicago or Suburban Savings Institution will pay a higher rate of interest on Savings Deposits than Citizens Bank & Trust Company"

AND WE CAN PROVE IT!

*Here are the advantages you gain by using Citizens' Exclusive Guaranteed Savings System

HIGHER AVERAGE INTEREST

The U.S. Federal Reserve Board has modified its regulations to permit higher average compound interest on savings by extending the grace period on deposits. This new advantage has been automatically incorporated into the unique GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM of Citizens Bank in Park Ridge.

This means that deposits made by the tenth of any month are credited with interest just as though they had been made by the first of the month. In effect, this doubles the potential free earning period of such deposits.

HIGHER ACTUAL INTEREST

In addition, Citizens' GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM, which has consistently paid the highest rate of interest allowed by law since 1956, pays interest which is computed by months instead of quarters or half-years. This method has always made a significant difference compared to most other savings methods. Depending upon withdrawals, it can triple or quadruple, in some cases, the interest actually received on an active account. This advantage remains true in relation to most other savings institutions even though they may promise up to 5%.

AUTOMATIC LOAN PRIVILEGES

With a GUARANTEED SAVINGS account, you need not break your savings plan to make exceptional purchases. You may borrow the money you need at any time by an installment loan at the special rate of 3%, and your savings will continue to earn without interruption.

STRONGER SECURITY

Unlike stocks, bonds, or shares of any kind, deposits made under Citizens GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM are protected, not only by Federal Deposit Insurance, but also by the Exceptional Reserves of Citizens Bank, a fifty-million-dollar institution and depository of the U.S. Government itself.

GREATER AVAILABILITY

In case of emergency, GUARANTEED SAVINGS deposits are always available. They are true bank deposits which are always payable, and immediate funds are assured by the high liquidity of Citizens Bank.

Citizens' exclusive GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM also permits withdrawals at any time — in cash by registered mail or by official bank checks made out to anyone designated by the depositor.

NO CHARGES

There are no charges for these checks under the GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM and there are never any other service charges of any kind.

CONVENIENT FACILITIES

Citizens Bank's six savings windows plus convenient drive-in cages assure quick service. Both deposits and withdrawals may also be made by overnight mail with free postage both ways.

Why not take advantage of this guaranteed method of increasing your savings now? Remember, whether the balance in your account is $5 or $50,000, the interest it earns under Citizens GUARANTEED SAVINGS SYSTEM is not dependent on "anticipated" or "current" earnings. Stated simply, this means that regardless of fluctuations, no other Chicago or suburban savings institution will pay a higher rate of interest on savings deposits than Citizens Bank.

Adopt Zoning Changes

County Politicians 'Play Ball' on Code

Democratic commissioners of the county board "played ball" in the opening game of a political doubleheader Monday by unanimously adopting zoning code changes demanded by the Republican commissioners.

But in the nightcap, each side was tackled for a loss in unsuccessful end runs to fill justice of the peace vacancies.

Neither side conceded it was trying to pull a fast one, but as the board pigeonholed two proposed JP appointments by filing the matters, Commissioner John J. Duffy of Chicago chuckled:

"I catch on."

DUFFY, A Democrat, and Commissioner William N. Erickson of Evanston, a Republican, executed the neat tackles on the other's party.

Duffy torpedoed a resolution by Commissioner Jerry Dolezal, the Republican township committeeman of Cicero, to appoint Robert S. Kosin as Justice of the Peace for Cicero township to fill the unexpired term of Louis Kizas, who was elected last year as judge of the new Town Court of Cicero.

Dolezal said the term of the JP office now has less than a year to run and thus may be filled without delay. The commissioners first went along with the appointment on condition these were the facts.

THE DEMOCRATS then recommended the board appoint William F. Donahue, a Harvey attorney and a Democrat, as a Justice of the Peace for Thornton township to fill the vacancy caused when the former JP, Harry A. Lambert, a Republican, resigned to successfully run for election as police magistrate of Harvey. Donahue's appointment was recommended in a letter to the board by Arthur E. Dillner, former Democratic committeeman of Thornton township.

Erickson blocked this one by pointing out the board has a "long-standing gentlemen's agreement" that a Republican is appointed to fill a JP office formerly held by a Republican and that a Democrat succeed a Democrat in such cases.

Duffy then brought to the floor information that the JP vacancy in Cicero occurred when there was more than a year left to go on the term of the office.

DUFFY declared: "You can't let time run on and wait until there's less than a year to go on the term before bringing in a resolution to appoint some one to the office. In such cases, the law says you must call a special election as soon as the vacancy occurs or leave the office unfilled until the next regular election." In the Cicero JP case, the next election is in April, 1961.

When the county's new zoning ordinance was pushed through by the Chicago Democrats to adoption last March after three years of work, they promised they would go along later with last-minute features the Republicans wanted.

The Democrats kept their promise Monday as the board cut the number of zoning districts where liquor may be sold and also changed the rules so a county board commissioner now needs approval of 12 of the 15 members before filing a rezoning request.

A COMMISSIONER didn't need anyone's consent previously.

Another amendment adopted by the board prohibits the opening of new taverns and night clubs in manufacturing zones.

But on the recommendation of the county zoning board of appeals, the commissioners left in the ordinance the right of a motel or hotel located in the M4 motor freight terminal district to operate a cocktail lounge

South Holland, a dry suburb in southern Cook county, wanted this provision cut out of the code. Construction of two motor hotels with cocktail lounges is planned on locations just outside the South Holland village limits. (B8

Streamwood: Suburban Sucker List?

Ex-Cornfield Crises Center

by TOM McSHANE

(This is the first in an exclusive series of articles profiling the controversial northwest suburban community of Streamwood in Hanover township. The articles are written by Tom McShane, Paddock Publications special assignment writer whose report-in-depth of the Deerfield integration crisis won him a first place award for feature writing in the 1960 Better Newspapers Contest sponsored by the National Editorial Association.)

(First in a Series)

This is the story of a village that's trying to get out from under just about everything.

You can call it social and economic decay, improper development, rotten politics, or greed.

You can make general statements, bend statistics to prove your point, or juggle corrective theories left and right.

You end up with a sucker list a mile long, then wonder why it got that way.

It started four years ago in one of those ageless cornfields. This one was near the corner of Bartlett and Schaumburg rds. in Hanover township.

IN THE beginning there were cheap homes, patch-worked onto slabs. The avenues were curvilinear, so it became a suburb. To further qualify it, an apt combination of two rustic nouns, stream and wood, bound to connote delightfully natural surroundings, were pasted together and plastered on fat highway billboards and across the advertising pages of Chicago's newspapers.

Across the street was a little country schoolhouse. No more the high-walled, brick-faced sky-caves of the city. Here the air was clean. And the kids! The kids could run, and grow strong and healthy. This is really the way we want to live!

Last week the kids in this original section of Streamwood were running—across the curvilinear, pock-marked "boulevard" down into the soggy, rain-fed open drainage ditch to play. Then out to romp in the waist-high weed field in the middle of the block.

And the mothers sat on the stoop watching, and talking about the little house down the street where a family of 10 held forth in three bedrooms.

AND THEY laughed about the family up the street who packed the bags one dark night, loaded everything they had on a trailer, and skipped out on their mortgage.

The "suburban dream," the big fat balloon of prosperity has burst for many of these people. For others, it still is a hazy prospect on a horizon of hope.

This has happened where this whole thing started; in that original cornfield.

TO THE SOUTH a different story is told.

About a mile south of the Bartlett - Schaumburg intersection, one can see another type of development. This is more orderly; it is neater. And it is suburban. It is called Woodland Heights.

But it still is Streamwood.

Here the people paid more for their homes. Some of them will tell you they are "better" than the people living in what they call "North Streamwood" or simply "Streamwood."

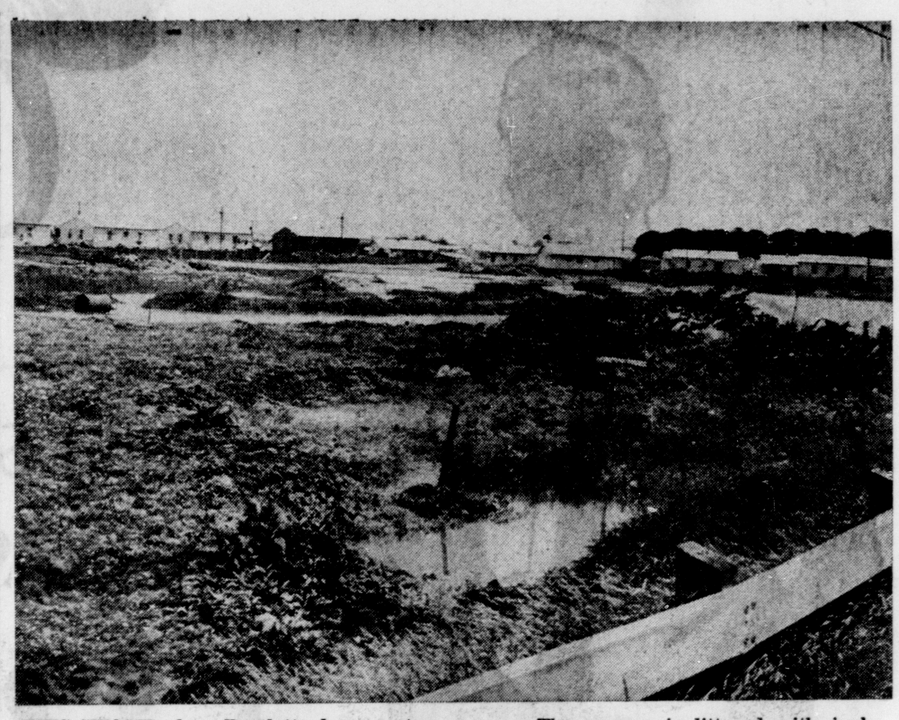
There is a sharp distinction drawn by Streamwood's residents between the north and south sides. If there were railroad tracks, the north side would be the "wrong side."

Instead of the tracks, the subdivisions are separated by a swampland that runs along Bartlett rd. In this section of low ground, water stands for long periods. Trash piles can be seen from the road. And children play here.

TO THE NORTH stand the squat boxes of the north side with their unkempt lawns, toothpick trees, wind - bent weeds, and broken streets. Immediately to the south stand a couple of blocks of a subdivision called Fair Oaks, then Woodland Heights, both appealing with manicured lawns, bushy trees, flowers and neatly - painted houses with attached garages.

A certain socio-economic conflict exists in Streamwood.

NEXT WEEK: Building the Conflict. (A13



THIS SWAMP along Bartlett rd. separates the older north side of Streamwood from the newer south side, or Woodland Heights, area. The swamp is littered with junk, and typifies the planning that went into the early development of the village.

STREAMWOOD BLVD., with its open drainage ditch, is the main drag of North Streamwood. The hundreds of children in the neighborhood have made the trench their favorite playground. Houses along the street are exactly the same. Yards are indifferent to grass seed, and trees are a rarity.

Announce Motorist Penalties

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced this week that area motorists had received four revocations, five suspensions, and three probationary permits.

Revocations went to Barry E. Cragg, 2 W. Rand rd., Mt. Prospect; Richard J. Dwyer, 3200 Pleasant dr., Rolling Meadows; Jerry Massie, Box 290 RR 3, Palatine; and Howard W. Moist, RR 2 Box 64, Bensenville.

RECEIVING suspensions were Bruce B. Richmond, 731 S. Burton pl., Arlington Heights; Harold A. Mahr, 607 S. School st., and Harold J. Quigley, 305 N. Main st., both of Mt. Prospect; Carlton P. Scott, 580 N. Quentin rd., Palatine; and John R. Wright, 405 Lombard ave., Itasca.

Max F. Seitz, 913 N. Mitchell ave., Arlington Heights; James J. Krispin, 220 S. Yale, Addison; and Leonard F. Nyman, 309 Pinecroft dr., Roselle, were granted probationary permits.

May Sales Of Bonds Decrease

Cook county sales of series E and H United States Savings Bonds were $13,951,200 for the month of May.

Residents of the state of Illinois purchased a total of $26,109,088, according to T. Merle Paul, state director of the U. S. Savings Bonds division. This is a decrease of 4.1% compared to sales for May of last year.

In the first five months of 1960, 40.5% of the state's annual quota of $387,200,000 was reached. National sales for the month were 349,000,000, and Illinois sales accounted for 7.4% of this amount.

Redemptions for the month of May, nationally, were $412 million, which is 5.0% lower than May of 1959, 4.0% lower than April 1960, in fact, the lowest for any of the past six months.

Sun Lotion By Walgreens

Walgreen Laboratories has produced a new effective suntanning lotion designed not only to prevent harmful burning but also to serve as a skin beautifier.

The new formula, labeled "Xpose," contains a cosmetic cream base of pore-penetrating lanolin and water repelling silicones.

Two added ingredients common only to Walgreen Laboratory cosmetic products are incorporated by "Xpose." They are PVP, a stabilizer which prevents separation of ingredients, and ECA, a rich emollient designed to make the cream spread evenly and disappear instantly.

"Xpose" is available at all Walgreen Drug stores in unbreakable, spillproof plastic flasks or aerosol dispensers.

Dee and Al Perry, 207 S. Illinois dr., and children, Joey, Susan and David, celebrated both Dee and David's birthday Sunday at the home of Dee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Armand J. Doyle of Chicago, at a party which was concluded with a barbecue supper in the yard. Also present were Dee's aunts and several long time friends.

Of special attraction as far as the children were concerned was David's first birthday cake which was molded as a train Dee's sister was also there for her last family get-together before taking off on her European vacation. Thursday, which was actually David's birthday, the Perrys entertained their aunt, Mrs. Elna Bartmes of Deerfield, at a birthday dinner party. David's brother, Joey, and sister, Susan, were far more interested in his decorated birthday cupcakes than he was.

LOIS AND JERRY Brask, 104 S. Yale, enjoyed having Lois's long time high school friend, Mrs. R. W. Johnson, and her two boys, Ricky and Billy of Mineapolis, Minn. for a week's visit. Mrs. Johnson moved from the Chicago area several years ago and while she was here several of her friends entertained her with luncheons.

Mr. C. T. Stigger visited at the home of his son and his family, Earl and Kitty Stigger, 202 S. Reuter. Mr. Stigger's home is in Louisville, Ky.

Friends and neighbors of Pat and Paul Miresse, 1414 W. Grove, wish to express their sympathy for the loss of Paul's father, Mr. Leo Miresse of Chicago, who died Monday morning.

SUSAN LAZOR, daughter of Sarabel and Joe Lazor, 1580 W. Grove, returned home with her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Horne, to her home in Atlanta, Ga. Later her mother and brother, Michael, will join them for a few days' visit and they will all return home together.

Saturday evening the Bill Naehers joined the Dick Mooneys for dinner in the Wagon Wheel lodge in Rockton.

Judy, daughter of Barbara and Jim Ward, 331 S. Reuter, celebrated her 10th birthday Saturday afternoon with a luncheon and picture show party. Her sister, Donna, along with Paula Leoni, Elaine Gardner, Sharon Seegers and Dale Williamson of Wheeling were among the invited.

SANDY WROE, daughter of Jim and Ann Wroe, 206 S. Yale, was among the eighth grade graduates of South junior high. She and another graduate, Cathy Dean, held an open house in Cathy's home June 16. Among the 45 guests was her grandmother, Mrs. George Davidson from Morgantown, W. Va. Mrs. Davidson came also to stay with the Wroe children while Ann and Jim went to Columbus, Ohio, to look for a house, where they will be moving soon.

Wednesday, Gianna and Gordon Reifstahl, 204 S. Yale, entertained Mrs. Davidson, Paul and Connie Marx and Marshall McEuen, for dinner. Marshall is busy keeping the house while his wife, Sue, and the boys, Marshall and Warren, are on a visit with Sue's parents in Kentucky.

OUT OF TOWN guests in the home of Paul and Connie Marx, 210 S. Yale, were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ray Draper of Windsor, Ontario. The Drapers lived in Detroit at the same time the Marxs' did. Their daughter, Mary Catherine, is the Marxs' god child.

Mrs. Paul Leoni recently returned home to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., after a visit with her son and his family Edward and Dottie Leoni, 310 S. Reuter. Dottie's mother, Mrs. Ida Nyborg, also of Fort Lauderdale, is here now for several weeks' visit. While here, she enjoyed seeing her two granddaughters, Paula and Chisty, participate in their annual dance recital Sunday afternoon.

The Everett Brex' and the Art Travis' celebrated their wedding anniversaries together Saturday evening seeing "Can Can" in the Palace theater in Chicago and dining at Farber's in the Stratford hotel. After dinner, they enjoyed dancing in the Tree room.

A WELCOME is extended to Rita and Ed Waldbuesser and their two boys, Bob and Tom, and daughter, Nancy, who recently moved into their new home, 120 S. Harvard. The Waldbuessers attend Our Lady of the Wayside church. Ed enjoys hunting and fishing and they both enjoy bowling and cards.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Gardner of Atlanta, Ga., spent the day with the Joe Lazors Saturday. Mrs. Gardner is Susan Lazor's godmother. Having been here on business for a few days, the Gardners returned home by plane late Saturday evening.

Elaine Teletzke entertained her bridge club Wednesday evening in her home, 1407 S. Illinois dr. Those attending were Beverly McCall, Mary Richard, Dotty Bledsoe, Dee Perry, Teresa Parsons, Lauretta Willis and Sarabel Lazor.

PLAYWRIGHT—LAWYER Richard Mansfield of Chicago was enthusiastically received as he conducted the first session of the Dramatic Workshop writing class sponsored by Village Theatre, Inc., last Tuesday evening at Pioneer Park. Mr. Mansfield's writing credits have appeared on T.V. and radio, he has much to offer anyone interested in play writing. Enrollment is still open for the remaining 6 weeks of the course, Tuesdays at 8:15, Pioneer Park.

"A Message from "Your Pharmacist"

ARE YOU PLANNING A VACATION?
If not, you should, for a change from the usual daily activities is good for your health and peace of mind.

HERE ARE A FEW SUGGESTIONS.
You will enjoy your vacation more if you plan how to prevent or take care of any emergencies that may come.

GET A HEALTH CHECK-UP FIRST.
Visit your physician to make certain sickness will not spoil your vacation. Get some polio shots if you haven't taken any. If there are some medicines you need regularly, bring along a plentiful supply.

DRIVE CAREFULLY AND COURTEOUSLY.
Don't let an unnecessary accident mar your vacation. Check your tires before you leave to make certain they can stand the trip.

TAKE A FIRST-AID KIT WITH YOU.
You can choose from our complete stocks, one to take care of the length of your trip.

HAVE A GOOD VACATION.
We'll be glad to give you more specific information about which health-aids and toiletries to take along. And, should you run short of any unobtainable medicine, phone or write us and we will be glad to rush it to you.

Forest View To Petition Elk Grove

Forest View school district 56 will attempt to petition Cook county's board of school trustees for annexation to Elk Grove school district 59, it was learned this week.

The small school district, located south of Arlington Heights, had previously been negotiating with Arlington Heights district 25 for consolidation.

DONALD OLSON, president of Elk Grove's board of education, reported at a meeting Monday night that Forest View's board had decided to seek a petition bearing the names of two-thirds of its residents for presentation to the county board, as required by law.

The Forest View board had been divided over whether to ask for annexation to Arlington Heights or Elk Grove until this latest decision. (AF

Virginia Terrace News

The family of the week is that of Mary Louise and Dieter Burkhardt, 1507 Clarendon, and their children, Mary Jo, 7, Suzanne, 5, Chris, 4, Peter, 2, and Curt, 1, who moved here three years ago.

Dieter, born in Dresden, Germany, was a paratrooper in the German army during World War II. In 1950, he entered this country under sponsorship provided by an uncle living in Skokie, and ultimately became a naturalized citizen of the United States.

In the meantime, Mary Louise, Chicagoan, had served as an aerial gunnery teacher in the service of the Waves during World War II, and had gone on to complete her education at Northwestern university. She was working temporarily, as she hoped to return to school to further her training in her chosen profession of speech therapist. However, a courtship which began when they met while working for the same firm, culminated in their marriage eight years ago.

Dieter is now employed with a tool and dye company in Addison, and obviously, Mary Louise is busy in her role as wife and mother. She is an active parishioner of St. James Catholic church and is a member of the Women's guild.

DIETER HAS several hobbies, mainly those of constructing model airplanes, collecting guns and studying astronomy, his latest acquisition being a telescope. Mary Louise revels in the arts of homemaking, particularly sewing. They are avid readers, and both enjoy opera music.

Their daughter, Mary Jo, will enter second grade at St. James Catholic school this fall.

The Burkhardts are frequently visited by Mary Louise's mother, Mrs. Mae Mammoser, Chicago, but, at the same time, their thoughts are often of Dieter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Burkhardt, Konigstein, Germany, which is behind the Iron Curtain. Dieter is their only child, and they sent him away 10 years ago, knowing that they might never see him again because of the impossibility of escape from the Russian zone. The family hopes that before too long, they might manage a trip to Western Germany, where they could arrange a brief reunion with his parents, so that they might see their grandchildren at least once during their lifetime.

KYLE, SON OF Loretta and Homer Adkins, 1247 N. Chicago, recently observed his 10th birthday, and attending the afternoon party for birthday cake and ice cream were his brothers, Burl and Michael, sister, Karen, cousin, Jeanne Mikkelsen, Elk Grove village, and six neighborhood playmates.

Loretta's brother and his wife, the Robert Reeds, and their daughter, Michelle, were guests of the Adkins last week for a five-day reunion. The Reeds were enroute to Detroit and Canada, where they will visit other members of the family before returning to their home in Hayward, Cal.

Jimmy, son of Audrey and James Ostler, 1216 N. Yale, celebrated his 11th birthday Saturday at a family dinner party, with special guests being his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Ostler, and his uncle, Fred Ostler, both of Melrose Park. Also enjoying Jimmy's birthday cake and ice cream were his brothers, Raymond, Tommy and Robert, and sister, Nancy.

PERFORMING in a dance recital recently held at the Barrington elementary school auditorium was Melody, 10, daughter of Gloria and Josef Kalous, 1236 N. Chicago. Also applauding her debut in the "Fairy Ring" presentation was her brother, Booner.

A luncheon party was held Saturday for "T. J.", son of Leslie and Charlene Bang, 1315 N. Illinois, in celebration of his third birthday. Guests were his sisters, Leslee Ann and Debby, cousins, Susie, Sissy and Sherry Hanus, Wheeling, and cousins, Sandra and Gary Hanus, Elk Grove Village, as well as Cathy and Jimmy Cocker, Steven Montgomery, Gail Chupich and Kathy Koser.

A family barbecue party was held Saturday evening, and those on hand to wish him many happy returns of the day were his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hanus, uncle, Paul Hanus, all of Chicago, as well as several aunts, uncles and cousins.

HAVING RETURNED from a visit with his paternal grandparents, Gary, son of Shirley and Robert Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race, entertained his friends at a luncheon party Friday in honor of his fifth birthday. With fishing his main preoccupation, it was only fitting that his birthday cake was decorated with boats and fish, and that fishing poles were given as favors. Present at the luncheon were his sister, Kim, brother, Scott, Jack and Jim Jacobsen, Bobby and Jeff Krug, Bobby Reed, and Jimmy Marshall. Following this, Robert took the young boys on a trip to Brookfield zoo.

In response to numerous inquiries, Jackie Koenig, 1255 N. Chicago, is recovering nicely at home following multiple surgery in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, a week ago Monday.

A welcome is extended to Lieut. Travis Brann and his wife, Margaret, new residents of 1400 Clarendon. They moved here, together with their children, Gary, 5, and Patricia, 2, from El Paso, Texas, although they spent several months living in Mt. Prospect. Lieut. Brann is with the army at the Nike base, Arlington Heights.

FRIDAY IS moving day for Lynn and Alan Jeffrey, 1236 N. Race, and their children, Kathy Lynn, Susan, Lauren and William Alan. Friends and neighbors wish them luck in their new home in Huntington, N.Y., and particularly to Alan, who is taking on a new position as executive vice president of the National Association of Credit Management, New York City.

A farewell luncheon was held last Tuesday for Lynn at the home of Margay Wilmot, 1240 N. Race, and presenting her with a remembrance gift that day were Pauline Noerenberg, Pat Cotsakis and Dorothy Ballard.

Eileen and Raymond Brown, 1504 W. Oakton, were guests of the National Tea and Coffee association Tuesday evening at their annual convention dinner. The evening out included cocktails, dinner, a floor show and dancing at the Drake hotel, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Moore and their son, Brian, Evanston, were dinner guests of Marilyn and Bob Schmidt, 1201 N. Race, last Saturday night. Later that evening, the couples were joined by mutual friends Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Alstine, Northbrook, and Mr. Allen Buckley, Glenview, and his fiancee, Miss Mary Jo Brennan, Chicago. The get-together was concluded much later when the Schmidts served a late pizza snack.

LENA AND LEE Duss, 1322 N. Race, and their son, Doug, are enjoying a visit from Lena's sister and family, the Louis Navratils, Mason City, Ia. The Navratils arrived last Friday, and will probably return home over the fourth of July weekend.

A potluck farewell luncheon was held recently at the home of Betty Cech, 1402 N. Chicago, in honor of June Visk, 1334 N. Chicago, who will soon be leaving the Terrace for a new home in the east. The guests were Mary Healy, Elaine Kohler, Mary Ann Lindholm, Betty Soresen, Joan Zaucha, Barbara Mayland, Joan Donath, Pierette Leckie and Phyllis Fluhrer, and in conclusion presented June with a gift to remember them all by.

Pat and Dick Davis, 1255 N. Race, and their boys, Kurt and Glenn, spent Sunday in the home of friends at Fox Lake, who not only entertained the Davises, but many of their other high school acquaintances, as well. The couples and their children enjoyed water-skiing, swimming and boating.

That same evening, Pat's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Bujalski, Franklin Park, joined the Davises at home to help celebrate the second birthday of their son, Glenn.

A BELATED graduation party was held Sunday evening for Mary, daughter of Polly and Charles Millhouser, 1702 W. Oakton, who graduated from Wilson junior High school. Mary and her 14 guests enjoyed a barbecue picnic supper, a scavenger hunt and dancing under the lights of Japanese lanterns.

After returning from a week of house-hunting in Pittsburgh, Pa., Betty and Bill Hotze, 1210 N. Yale, had the good fortune to have sold their house. A company transfer has prompted the move, and they will leave soon for their new home in the east. While they were gone, the children, Margaret Ann and Billy, visited with their paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hotze, Joliet.

Birthday cake, ice cream and cupcakes for the children were served last Sunday at the family barbecue party held at the home of Barbara and Al Bade, 1326 N. Illinois, in honor of their duaghter, Vicki, who was celebrating her second birthday. In attendance were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kimbel Atkinson, Barrington, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bade, Des Plaines, and numerous aunts, uncles and cousins.

A COMBINATION business pleasure trip was enjoyed last week by Pat and Bill Ross, 1252 N. Chicago, and their children, Billy and Cindy. Destination was St. Louis, Mo., where the Rosses lived prior to moving here. They stayed with good friends, visited with other former neighbors, enjoyed much swimming in the 100 degree weather, and visited Stan Musial's restaurant.

Diane and John Vaughn, 1346 N. Race, were hosts Saturday to Diane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, and her sister, Karen, Oak Lawn. The family, which includes the Vaughn twins, Cherry and Cindy, enjoyed the visit ending with a supper party.

Sunday, the Vaughns spent the day at the John Plain farm, Cary, at a picnic, where Diane met many of her former co-workers. Also present were John's mother and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Kurgan, Chicago, who returned to the Vaughns later in the day, together with Miss Helen Kink, Chicago, and John's brother and his wife, the William Vaughns, and daughters, Mry and Judy, Midlothian, for supper.

MARGARET Chupich, 1316 N. Yale, and daughters, Carol and Gail, returned recently from an impromptu 10-day vacation trip to Los Angeles. Highlights of their trip were a stop-over at Springfield, where they viewed the Capitol buildings, Lincoln's tomb, and his former home there. Also enjoyed was the stop-over at Grand Canyon, Ariz., the visit with the children's aunt and cousins in Monterey Park, Cal., as well as with Grandmother Chupich, and their trip to Disneyland.

Sunday afternoo nand evening, Carol, 9, and Gail, 5, starred in all three performances of the Delores Eiler yearly dance review, held in the Arlington high school auditorium. On hand to view their talents were their parents, Marge and Frank, and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hedwing Anderson, Des Plaines, who remained to have dinner with the Chupiches later in the day.

CAROL AND BILL Narup, 1207 N. Race, spent several days last week at a motel in Ephraim, Wisc., to celebrate their eighth wedding anniversary. This vacation paradise in northern Door county provided fishing, boating and golfing, with dining out and dancing in the evening. The children, Cathy, Scott, and Julie, had been left in the capable hands of Bill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thorlief Narup, Park Ridge. However, the Narups returned to find Scott down with the measles, from which he is now recuperating.

Because Steven's birthday is in January, right after the gay and busy holiday season, his parents, Barbara and Eugene Montgomery, 1309 N. Illinois, do a turnabout, and entertain his friends in June instead. Thus, a luncheon party was held recently to celebrate his fourth birthday, and in on the Western style luncheon party were Debby and "T.J." Bang, Gail Chupich, Susan Lee Reese, Jeff Gilson, Jeff Lindeman, Arlington Heights, cousins, Paul and Phillip Jester, Wheaton, and cousins, Christopher and Scott George, who were visiting here from their home in Bismark, N. D. The children played games, received favors and had birthday cake and ice cream, as well. Assisting Barbara were Steven's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hans Bahr, Deerfield, aunt, Mrs. A. Jester, and aunt, Mrs. Robert George.

FRIENDS AND neighbors of Barbara and Eugene are glad to hear that moving day, which is tomorrow, means only that they and the children, Tara, Michael and Steven, will now reside at 3409 S. Wilke, Rolling Meadows. The second birthday of Jimmy, son of Jeanne and Art Sadowski, 1119 N. Wilke, was celebrated a week ago Sunday in the home of his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs, Paul Frohnauer, Chicago, and attending the dinner party, concluded with birthday cake and ice cream, were his brothers, Thomas, Paul and Michael, and sisters, Joyce, Barbara and Chirstine, as well as great aunt, Mrs. Phillip Brehm, and her daughter, Florence, Arlington Heights.

This past Sunday, the Sadowski family honored Jeanne's parents, the Paul Frohnauers, at a barbecue dinner party in celebration of their 43rd wedding anniversary. Along with Jeanne and Art, and the children, of course, their son, Ray, was present to extend congratulations. (A

What's Happened to Neighborhood Tavern?

Modern Tastes Have Changed

by STEVE FRANZMEIER

I am normally a near-teetotaler, not because I have espoused the temperance cause, but because I don't feel the urge. I drink when invited and occasionally on my own.

Nevertheless, I fear I may have acquired a reputation as a pub crawler in pursuit of a story I was assigned to this week.

Last month was National Tavern Month. This fact, combined with Paddock Publications' continuing interest in suburban developments, inspired the managing editor to assign me to write a story on the changing role of the neighborhood tavern in the northwest suburbs.

Of course, this required some grass-roots research. And so I was off, bolstered by assurance of an expense allowance if I found it necessary to consume alcoholic beverages as a means of establishing rapport with bartenders and tavern owners.

FIRST STOP: just down the street from the office, Vail Tavern, 33 W. Campbell st. in Arlington Heights. Tony Frigo has owned the Vail for the past 22 years.

Tony hopped on a bar stool beside me and I asked him between sips from a glass of beer how the tavern business has changed. He needed little prodding.

Gesturing to the shelves behind his package liquor sales counter next to the window he said: "I've had a couple thousand dollars worth of stuff there that I haven't moved a bottle of for several months."

He proceeded to lay his problems at the feet of the package liquor store business.

"The young wives who move to the suburbs are afraid of taverns — you know what they think, drunks will bother them. So, they buy in the package stores with their nice surroundings and convenient locations."

TONY SAID it is his impression that package stores in shopping centers are prospering, but those located elsewhere "aren't doing so good."

Without a restaurant at the rear of his tavern, said Tony, he wouldn't be able to continue in business. It was his opinion that no tavern can exist only by selling beer and liquor over the counter.

However, over-the-counter business has grown, he said. He credits population increase. People drink in shifts: during the noon hour, for a couple hours starting at 5 p.m. and after 10 p.m.

Now, though, customers seem to be older, the younger ones drink at home and in cocktail lounges and night clubs.

Tony was very helpful. We shook hands and I told him I might be back.

FROM VAIL'S Tavern to Loretta's Restaurant at 101 N. Evergreen st. was a short walk.

The restaurant was closed, but the cocktail lounge was open. I had just sat down when Henry Dudek, the bartender, walked in from the side steps where he had been sunning himself and asked me what I'd have.

"Glass of beer, please."

Dudek has been a bartender at Loretta's for five years. Loretta's and Cooper's Restaurant and Lounge, 902 E. Northwest highway, are owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Cooper.

The number of people who patronize Loretta's cocktail lounge has increased steadily during the past five years, Dudek told me. The lounge is located ideally — on a corner facing Northwest highway, across an intersection from the railroad depot. So, commuter trade has expanded.

Husbands hop off the commuter express in the evening and skip across the street to Loretta's. There they drink quickly, glancing at their watches, ordering just one more if there is time, but sliding obediently off the stools at the sound of the horn on the family car.

Dudek said that the summer season is the only time of year when he has observed that people drink at home rather than go to the cocktail lounge or tavern. He thought they like to work or play around the yard, relaxing periodically in lawn chairs and sipping liquor.

The tavern and cocktail lounge still seem to be the neighborhood gathering place they have been historically, said Dudek. People still sit around and talk like they always did. Some arrange to meet their friends at Loretta's the same time, the same day each week.

THE NEXT stop was too far away for walking. I backed my car from its parking spot as the red violation flag popped into view and headed south on Arlington Heights road.

Ben's Tavern at 101 E. Irving Park rd. in Itasca was deserted when I walked in except for Eddie Precht, the bartender, who was sucking on a chocolate malted milk.

Eddie said the boss, Benno Ibeling, was at his farm for the day. But, Eddie has been tending bar at Ben's for six years so, I thought, he should be pretty knowledgeable about trends in suburban tavern business.

"Give me a glass of beer."

I learned that Ibeling opened the Hi-Fi Lounge, in the basement below the tavern, two years ago in May. The cocktail lounge caters to the more sophisticated tastes of commuters and is a symbol of one change in the retail liquor business in the suburbs.

When I asked Eddie how business was he said: "Oh, we've got the same crowd and every once in a while there's somebody new. It gets better right along."

Package liquor stores don't steal the tavern's business noticeably, said Eddie.

When Eddie finished his chocolate malt and I finished my glass of beer I continued my odyssey.

I BRAKED to a stop next in front of the Buggy Whip Lounge on Roselle road in Schaumburg. (Once, it is said, the Buggy Whip, located between Palatine and Roselle, was considered a convenient hideaway for the husbands from those two towns who were seeking refuge from their wives.)

Four men and the bartender were watching television intently when I entered.

With two home runs the White Sox had just tied the score at 3 to 3 in the ninth inning of a game against the Baltimore Orioles.

I ordered a beer and asked Don Little, owner of the Buggy Whip for the past two years, if I could talk to him for a few minutes.

Little made the point that the urge to save money is changing the drinking habits of some suburbanites.

"I sell a half a keg of beer for a little over $10; but it costs 15 cents a glass at the bar. So, why should they drink at the bar when they can drink at home cheaper?"

Little said that now he is selling 700 to 800 cases of beer a week, fewer than the 1,000 he expects to sell each week when summer weather finally arrives.

I THOUGHT to myself that Little may have pointed out a future change in suburban taverns when he observed that he could do "a tremendous business" on weekends if he could afford entertainment.

The Federal government now requires a 20 per cent amusement tax on liquor sold in an establishment which provides live entertainment with its liquor. Little said that he cannot afford to pay this tax because he would be paying the entertainers and five more part-time employees besides.

He observed that people seem to prefer something going on around them when they are drinking. It's more enjoyable than simply talking and reading labels on liquor bottles.

Television, which has been a fixture in practically all taverns for some 15 years, does not qualify as entertainment in a tavern, in Little's estimation. He said that he has observed many times that when television is turned on at the time of a play, for instance, or any other production which requires continued attention, by the time the program has ended half the people who were sitting at the bar, even when all seats were full, have gone home.

"People don't come to taverns to watch television," said Little. "They can do that at home."

THE TAVERN business is expensive, said Little. It costs him $2,000 a year to insure the Buggy Whip. But, last year his tavern was held up by two men who abducted him.

His greatest competition, he allowed, are cocktail lounges and night clubs.

In contrast with the Vail Tavern in Arlington Heights the Buggy Whip is losing money on its restaurant.

Over-the-counter sales of liquor and beer have increased greatly since he became owner, said Little; and he expects the trend to continue.

The ball game had ended (Sox 3, Orioles 5) when I left the Buggy Whip and headed north.

The hands on the first clock I saw in the window of a Palatine store were nearing the 5 p.m. point when I stopped at Rup's Place, 106 W. Chicago. The stools were fast filling with people stopping for "a short one" between work and home. The glass of beer I ordered here was a nickel cheaper than the other establishments.

Rupert Zoellick, proprietor, had help at the bar, so he could talk to me.

Zoellick said that Rup's Place caters to "the working class" and his business "hasn't been getting any better, that's for sure."

But, he acknowledged that it hasn't dropped off either.

"We see new faces all the time, but at the end of the month we find that we've made the same profit."

"Do you think the reason you aren't getting a share of business from the new people moving into the area is that they are staying home to drink?" I asked him.

"We don't see them here," he said, "so maybe they are."

WHEN I left Rup's place I decided I had enough — beer and information — and ended my pub crawling jaunt. For some reason I felt relaxed and refreshed, despite a far-ranging afternoon of work. As I sped along Northwest highway I reflected upon the rewards of my job and admitted to myself that I like my work.

But, exactly what had I learned? I asked myself. How has the neighborhood tavern changed in the northwest suburbs? On the basis of the incomplete information I had gathered these were my conclusions:

1) The increase in population has brought different people with different tastes to the suburbs and has increased the over-the-counter business of taverns.

2) Package liquor stores are the nemeses of the suburban tavern.

Younger women who move to the suburbs with their husbands avoid taverns because they fear indignities. They prefer to shop in conveniently-located, brightly-colored, air-conditioned package liquor stores in the shopping center where the grocery store and drug store are located.

COMMUTING husbands find little time to spend in taverns and lounges except, for some of them, a few minutes after the train comes in. Their time at home is limited, their energy is dissipated, so they would rather drink at home the liquor and beer their wives, who do practically all the shopping, have bought during the day.

This leaves a growing percentage of older people to frequent neighborhood taverns.

Tavern business flourishes in spurts. One spurt occurs from 5 to 8 p.m. after commuters have arrived home. Another seems to occur in the evening, starting at about 10 p.m., after evening entertainment.

Suburbanites, as a class, are more sophisticated. Taverns historically have been associated with the working class of people. The majority of suburbanites consider themselves of middle class status. They have been described often as social climbers. So, a large percentage of new suburbanites frequent cocktail lounges and night clubs.

Despite the fact that the increase in population has been accompanied by an increase in over-the-counter liquor business taverns do not seem to have captured as much of the beer and liquor drinking trade as they would have if suburbanites did not prefer cocktail lounges, night clubs and drinking at home.

THIS BRINGS us to the second major conclusion — package liquor stores are the nemeses of the suburban tavern.

The package liquor business of some taverns has ended. Other taverns sell very little and depend upon their over-the-counter sales and, in some cases, their side-lines, such as restaurants, to keep the wolf from the door.

Expense-Conscious suburbanites are discovering, apparently in ever-increasing numbers, that it is cheaper to drink at home than in taverns.

We have mentioned the trend toward buying in shopping centers liquor to drink at home.

People in the suburbs seem to prefer entertainment or diversion of some kind while they drink. They can't get it in taverns — because the taverns can't afford it — and cocktail lounges and night clubs are beyond the every-other-day or even every weekend reach of many suburbanites. So, they buy their liquor at the package store and drink at home while watching television or clipping their hedges.

These, then, are changes which have occurred in neighborhood taverns in the northwest suburbs.

But, apparently, one feature of taverns is not destined to change soon or, maybe ever. That is the friendly, conversational, unofficial community center atmosphere. (A13

THIS IS THE reason the package liquor business of many taverns in the northwest suburbs has disappeared. Alfred M. Utt, left, of 1315 W. Sigwalt st., Arlington Heights, completes a transaction with Robert Bidault of Roselle, clerk in an Arlington Heights package liquor store. (A-13

"THEY'RE TARANTULAS," exclaimed Steve Gerber, John Freier, and Bill Rigsby, students at Miner school in Arlington Heights, as they displayed three spiders they caught in a field near their homes last week. The boys weren't far from wrong, and they opened the door to a fine summer adventure.

'Crawling All Over'

Summer Spells Snakes And Spiders to Boys

Summer means snakes and spiders to boys.

Take the trio that walked through Paddock Publications front door last Thursday complete with a quart jar and mischievous grins.

After a few moments of embarassed giggling, they blurted it out.

"We had this snake we caught yesterday and decided to let him go. So we went across the street to the vacant lot, found a hole, and put him in it.

"He got stuck.

"So we decided to dig him up.

"Bill, he's the biggest, he got the shovel, and dug up the hole. We saw the snake and he had these little spiders crawling all over him.

"And at the bottom of the hole we found one of these. . ."

THE SKINNY, tanned arm shot out, the bottle flush in the face of the receptionist. Inside were three of the biggest, ugliest looking spiders you've ever seen.

"They're tarantulas," came the pronouncement. "We looked them up in the encyclopedia."

The receptionist recovered her composure after a bit, and the boys, John Freier, 707 N. Gibbons, Steve Gerber, 640 N. Gibbons, and Bill Rigsby, 712 N. Forrest, all 11-years-old, were invited into the office to display their wares.

They sure were ugly. And the boys insisted they were tarantulas. Naturally, they were quite excited.

The story had to be checked.

Mrs. Leslie Behrend, a biology teacher at Prospect high school, volunteered.

LAST FRIDAY she viewed the spiders in her apartment at 837 N. State rd.

"No, they're not tarantulas, she said. "I think they're wolf spiders, distant relatives of the tarantula."

The boys were crestfallen. After all, this was the discovery of the summer.

But things didn't turn out badly, Mrs. Behrend squelched the disappointment by proposing a better adventure.

"You know, boys," she said, "the best place to take these spiders to find out exactly what kind they are would be the Field museum. Now, if you'll get your parent's permission and call me, we'll make a date."

And those three faces lit up. Tarantulas or not, the boys were going to have a summer they'd not soon forget. (AF

Prison Group Opposes Annex of County Jail

A Chicago civic organization that concerns itself with the improvement of prisons has come out against the proposed construction of a million dollar annex to the Cook county jail because it is a "piece - meal and expedient solution."

Whether the million dollar addition should be constructed will be decided at a county board meeting Monday, July 27.

The John Howard association, a non-profit group incorporated in 1901 in Chicago to study crime prevention techniques, says that adding bed space for 400 more inmates will only add to the problems of the already overcrowded prison.

Instead, the association recommends the legalization of a City-Council Department of Correction so that the correctional problems of the county could be "intelligently planned and resolved."

THE ASSOCIATION cites numerous sources that say a prison becomes increasingly inefficient and unsafe as its population exceeds 1,200, and that the ideal prison population is 500.

Included among these are the Economic and Social council of the United Nations, the American Prison association, and the American Correctional association.

Eugene S. Zemans, executive director of the John Howard association, says that the group first recommended the creation of a Cook County Department of Correction when it participated in drafting the final report of the Citizens Conference on the Cook county jail and Correctional Treatment in 1956.

The conference advised reducing the population of the Cook county jail.

THIS YEAR, Zemans notes, both the City club of Chicago and the Illinois Academy of Criminology proposed building a City - County Department of Corrections.

Zemans also stated that last year, when the proposed enlargement was announced, James V. Bennett, director of the U. S. Bureau of Prisons, voiced strong objections to enlarging the inmate capacity of the Cook County jail.

"The city and county should demonstrate their desire to provide modern correctional facilities by supporting the creation of a City County Department of Corrections before it approves a patchwork and short - term solution," Zemans said. (B8

$2,000 Is Raised For Family Agency

Over $2,000 was raised for Northwest Family Service from the Grand Charity Ball held last month, it was disclosed this week.

Bruno Waara, new president of the social counselling agency's board of directors, said that expenses ran higher than originally anticipated.

He added, however, that success of the ball promises that it will become an annual affair. The dance was staged at the Arlington Park Jockey club on the night following Arlington high school's Junior Prom.

WAARA ALSO reported that Bob Maxwell has been appointed chairman of the board of directors' new finance committee, and will act as general coordinator for fund-raising activities in the four communities served by Family Service.

The fund drive will take different forms this fall in Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect, Palatine and Des Plaines, Waara explained. Family Service in Des Plaines, for instance, is supported by the Community Chest.

Other officers elected in addition to Waara, who resides in Arlington Heights, were: Maxwell of Mt. Prospect, vice-president; Milton Gauger of Des Plaines, treasurer, and Mrs. William Weber of Palatine, secretary. (B8

EDWARD FLOOD, 180 N. Main, Mt. Prospect, and Bill Nichols, 14 Alton rd., Prospect Heights, were among the most youthful of the exhibitors at the Edens Plaza sidewalk art fair held Saturday and Sunday, June 25 and 26. Excellent sales were reported by the boys.

Northwest Opera Co. Sponsors Tea

Northwest Opera Co. put on an "Opera Tea" in the community room of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan association June 10.

The chorus, which consisted of Betty Randolph, Lee Seechrist, Mildred Smeby, Adele Fricke and Edward Joyce, sang Rossini's "Inflammaties" and "Regina Coele" from Cavalleria Rusticana with Josette La Placa doing the solo.

Miss La Placa also sang "Ritonna Vincitor" from Aida and "Pace Pace Mio Dio" from Forza del Dectino.

William Fricke presented "Prologue" from Paliaciu, Mrs. Smeby did Cherubino's aria "Voi Che Sapete" from Marriage of Figaro; Joyce sang "Alla Vita" from Masked Ball; and Seechrist presented "Il Bacio."

MRS. SMEBY and William Fricke sang a duet from "Il Trobatone," and Miss La Placa and Joyce did the duet "La Ci Daremo La Mano" from Marriage of Figaro.

The program concluded with Miss La Placa and Fricke presenting the duet from Cavalleria Rusticana.

Mrs. Bertha Grinnell Fricke was accompanist for the program.

The opera group is giving a performance of opera favorites on the lawn at Recreation park July 17 and August 21. (S

Young Democrats To Honor Leader

Young Democratic clubs of Kane, DuPage, DeKalb, Grundy, Lake and McHenry counties will sponsor a testimonial dinner for Louis P. Farina, Chicago, retiring president of the Young Democrats of Illinois, at the Blue Moon ballroom, near Elgin, Friday, July 1, at 8 p.m.

Upwards of 250 persons are expected at the dinner, which will honor Farina on the completion of his two-year term as chief executive of the state Young Democratic organization.

During that time, many new clubs were formed in counties previously without such organizations.

IN ADDITION to his leadership of the state group, Farina was chosen by the U.S. Department of State to tour the NATO countries of Western Europe in the company of 19 other young American political leaders of both parties.

Farina, who is married and the father of three children, is the superintendent of parking in Chicago.

He is one of the youngest men ever appointed to such a position.

Tickets may be obtained from Thomas Hanahan, 316 Grandview dr., McHenry, or Charles Michael, 311 W. Park, Libertyville. (B8

Villages Merger Set for Voters

The villages of Middlebury and Barrington Hills may merge this fall.

Voters of both municipalities will decide at a special election Tuesday, September 27 whether to annex Middlebury to Barrington Hills.

AN ORDER calling the election was signed Tuesday by Acting Judge John M. Karns of Cook County Court. The election was requested in a petition filed with the court on Monday by 28 residents of Middlebury.

The petitioners represented to the court that they constitute more than one-third of the electors in Middlebury.

Judge Karns said his court has jurisdiction and authority under state statutes to call an election because the majority of the land in Barrington Hills, the proposed annexing municipality, lies within Cook county.

BARRINGTON Hills was incorporated in 1957, initially consisting of territory in Cook county. The village has since annexed adjoining land in McHenry and Lake counties. Middlebury also lies in the three counties and adjoins Barrington Hills at more than one point.

The petition for election was filed by the downtown Chicago law firm of King, Robin, Gale, and Pillinger.

The polls will be open on the special election day from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Judge Karns reserved to a later day the appointment of precinct judges of election and the determination of precincts and polling places.

Cherish Memories Worth Recalling

By
LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Memories may be great treasures, or experiences that reduce us to fear, even terror; and make us so unhappy and miserable that we wish for death.

Because of this, the way one lives and the memories he stores up are important to him now, and even more so to his future. It would seem then, that to be happy in our old age, we must live the kind of life that will contribute to that happiness. Lives that have been generous, truthful, honest, kind and patient toward our fellowmen, build the sort of memories with which we can live happily.

IT IS NOT the mistakes we make in life, nor the hardships we go through, the grief and sorrow, that breaks us down and makes us miserable and complaining. It is how we take them, how we face up to them. For, if in adversity we can be courageous and accept misfortunes as a part of life, we will have memories of our courage, our principles which we have not abandoned, our honest reactions to adversity to reflect on, and our mistakes, heartaches and sorrows will never get us down. We will have the knowledge that we have lived as honest men and women, truely strong in time of trouble; and our consciences will be quiet within us.

But most all of us see times in our life when we do not face up to the problems which confront us with the honesty and loyalty to principles that we should. Man cannot always meet the heartbreaks, sorrows and misfortunes that come his way alone without breaking. Neither can he accept the honors and the success and praise that may come his way without it affecting his life, unless he has a strong Christian faith, and realizes the humbleness and littleness of man in the presence of the Almighty God.

NO ONE among us has lived a perfect life. We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. But if we can have God's forgiveness, if we can accept Christ's death on the Cross for our sins, and through Him find strength and guidance, we can be strong in the face of whatever the world has in store for us, find perfect peace and assurance, even at death's door.

We should, then, so live that our memories and our faith will be a blessing to us, a comfort in loneliness, an assurance in times of sickness, and whenever we find need in these troublesome times.

For Forest View High

High School Board Pleased with Bids

An amazingly low general contractor's bid for construction of district 214's newest high school, "Forest View," is expected to be snapped up tonight (Thursday) during a special meeting of board members.

The base bid—of $2,211,796—was the lowest of 14 submitted to the board and was offered by the Sproul Construction co.

Other contractors who submitted bids and the amounts of their base bids include: Fred Berglund, $2,275,362; and Anderson, $2,315,000; Joseph Duffy, $2,240,939; C. B. Johnson and Son, $2,444,400; Mayfair Construction co., $2,276,200; Mercury Builders, $2,288,454.

Oman and Giden, $2,273,929; Schless Construction co., which made no bid; J. L. Simmons co., $2,258,000; Telander Bros., $2,304,429; C. A. Tharnstrom, $2,440,700, and Tonyan Construction co., $2,229,565.

ALTHOUGH acceptance of the Sproul company bid will not be assured until tonight's meeting and is being sifted for final approval of technicalities, there seemed to be little doubt that it will be approved, and the new school package will be "wrapped up."

Stated Kenneth E. Dougan, board president: "Basically, the board is very pleased in the base bids. They offer a total of $371,000 under the construction budget, and meant a construction cost of $12.71 per square foot as against a budgeted $14.

"This will enable us to accept some very desirable alternates and to apply the rest of the money against equipment costs, which had been budgeted out of current taxes."

The alternates, as approved at Monday's board meeting, include a $29,269 credit on "lift slab method used in 'A' and 'B' buildings instead of poured in place method of concrete construction," the "reduction of the amount of acoustical ceiling tile required in 'A' and 'B' buildings, if larger light fixtures are used" for an added cost of $8,748. A third alternate, that of pierced masonry screens at exits from "C" buildings, is being studied.

HEATING BASE bid accepted from among 17 contractors, 14 of whom offered bids, was that of Clearing Heating corp., whose figure was set at $256,345. One alternate approved was that of no addition or subtraction for lift slab.

Steel City Ventilating co. was the accepted bidder for ventilating, at a base bid of $166,700. An alternate approved was a $656 credit for lift slab and an extra $4,582 for a wood shop dust collection system.

Plumbing bid accepted was that of W. T. Mahoney and Sons, for $194,656, with two alternates, one that of no change in cost for lift slab and an extra $13,517 for fire hydrants and required piping.

The electrical bidding award went to Henry Newgard and co., with a base bid of $299,000, and no change in cost for substitution of aluminum feeder cable, and a $7000 credit for DuKane sound system, and another $520 credit for a Hob stage panel.

Total cost of all the base bids, including general contracting, electrical, heating, plumbing and ventilating, was $3,128,497.

IN OTHER action, the board:

--Selected the name of "Forest View high school," rejecting "Meadow" and "Meadow View" as possibilities.

--Discussed the possibility of the building's being completed by July 1, 1962, and expressed an eagerness to break ground immediately.

--Concluded its bus contract with the Tinsley bus service, paying the last payment of $2,279.50 as a fair settlement, with deductions for runs not taken by the service.

--Deferred the fire insurance policy for two weeks until the return of the agent from New York.

--Hired two teachers, Kay Carter to teach English and to assume the duties of yearbook director, and Hanna Schwitzky, as girls' physical education instructor and after-school intramurals.

--Reported a budget committee meeting on July 13 as tentative.

Drownings Take Mammoth Death Toll in Summer

Drownings have always been an accident problem.

But with the demise of fireworks as a death-dealer, drownings have clearly emerged as the No. 2 killer (No. 1: traffic accidents) over the Fourth of July holidays, the National Safety Council said this week.

"Education of the public," said the council, "is one of the main reasons, we believe, for the decline in the number of fireworks deaths. That and prohibition of the sale of fireworks, of course.

"We need to do the very same job of educating the public about drownings so everyone will learn to swim."

AMERICA, loaded down these days with leisure time, heads for the water for virtually every major adult sport — swimming, boating, water skiing, fishing, skin diving, surf boarding.

The mass rush to the water will be especially noticeable over the forthcoming Fourth of July holiday, which for most of the nation will last three days.

Over the Fourth last year, more people in New York State lost their lives in drownings than from traffic accidents, according to reports. For the nation as a whole, drownings took 178 lives and traffic 276 over the Fourth.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council, which is a non-governmental agency concerned with preventing all kinds of accidents, cites these facts on drownings:

1. June and July are the leading months for drownings. August is close behind.
2. Drowning victims usually are non-swimmers or poor swimmers — and usually are alone.
3. Two out of three drowning victims are more than 14 years of age.
4. Almost all drowning victims are males.
5. Most of the victims of drownings aren't even swimming or playing in the water.

THE COUNCIL gave these tips on how to prevent drownings:

1. Learn to swim, and make sure you're in proper physical condition to swim.
2. Never swim alone. Don't swim at night or in unfamiliar waters.
3. Remember, it's not only swimmers who drown. Be cautious any time you're around water.
4. Keep an eye on youngsters near water.
5. Don't swim when overly heated or tired, or right after eating. (B8

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Just what are the duties of the matron-of-honor while the wedding is taking place?

A. She stands nearest the bride, takes her bouquet or prayer book while the ring is put on, returning them at the proper time, and she arranges the bride's train when she turns from the altar after the ceremony.

Q. If cake has been served at some social function, and no forks have been provided, how should one go about eating it?

A. Do not lift the entire slice of cake to the mouth. Instead, break it into individual pieces, much as you would a slice of bread or a bun—then convey each piece to the mouth with the fingers.

Q. Is it proper to mail birth announcements to all one's friends, even to those whom one has telephoned the good news?

A. It would seem foolish to mail announcements to those who have already been told the news. But to all others—whether in town or far away—mailed announcements are proper.

July Supplement Is Summer Reading Treat

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS newspapers weekly provide delightful reading for leisurely summer weekends.

For example, next week's editions will include "Suburbia Today," the slick colorgravure supplement offered each month as a special reader bonus.

Robert Paul Smith, author of the best-selling "Where Did You Go? Out. What Did You Do? Nothing." comes along with a surprising, spirited defense of the dignity of labor at the expense of what he believes is the folly of universal education. His proposal to limit higher education to those children who can and want to be educated is aired in the July issue of "Suburbia Today."

Another feature in the magainze is a light, nostalgic account by Shirley Jackson of the day her cat Ninki gave birth to black and two gray kittens on a comfortable corner of a brimming laundry basket.

There are 41 official rules that govern the game of golf. There are also several hundred exceptions to these rules, some of the odder of which are discussed at length in "The Rules Nobody Knows," by Charles Price, editor of Golf magazine.

There is also an informative article on driveways — how to plan for the best possible one if you're building a house and how to improve one you already have. These simple instructions could add much to the value of your house and to the comfort of your family and guests.

For anyone who has ever said "send it, please," to a department store clerk, there is a story about the men who deliver most of those packages — the United Parcel Service, a going concern whose familiar trucks and cocoa-clad couriers have made it almost an institution in the minds of many people.

The food pages are bursting with pies, any one of which is as refreshing to look at on a hot July day as it is light and delicious to eat. Even the names — Lime Chiffon and Angel Tower and Canta-Lime — seem to stir a light, cooling breeze.

The other regular departments of the lively "Suburbia Today" supplement include the news column, Getting Around (this month reporting on teenage beatnik parties, formal radish gardens, false teeth for cows, and the like); and Suburbia Any Day!, in which our cartoonists "respectfully" extend to everyone their good wishes for a happy, fun-filled vacation. Ackerman Is Named Justice of Peace

The county board Monday appointed Thomas R. Ackerman, 603 W. Henry st., Mt. Prospect, to fill a vacancy in the office of Justice of the Peace in Wheeling township.

The vacancy was caused by the resignation of Justice of the Peace William Weber, whose term has less than a year to run. The board has the power of appointment under Illinois law when the term of office has less than one year to go at the time the vacancy occurs.

ACKERMAN'S appointment was recommended in a communication addressed to Daniel Ryan, board president, from James Stavros, Democratic committeeman of Wheeling township.

Ackerman and Weber are Democrats.

County Commissioner William N. Erickson, a Republican, pointed out it has been a long standing policy on the board that a Democrat be appointed to an office vacated by a Democrat and that a Republican succeed a Republican in such cases. (ACM

Tax Rates Listed For 4 Townships

Rates Drop, But Taxpayers Shouldn't Expect Bill Cut

Tax rates in Wheeling, Palatine, Elk Grove, and Schaumburg townships dropped this year, but taxpayers should not expect a similar cut in the bills they receive in July.

Increased assessed evaluations, figures for which have not yet been announced, brought most tax rates down, some taking considerable drops. However, individual assessments are expected to rise as a result of the quadrennial reassessments.

Notable exceptions to the rate drops were the grade school districts, all of which went up, excepting Mt. Prospect's district 57, Palatine-Rolling Meadows' district 15, and Schaumburg's district 54. High school district 214, which serves Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, and Wheeling, also enjoyed a tax rate cut.

While Arlington Heights and Mt. Prospect cut their village tax rates, Palatine, Roselle, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling, Elk Grove, and Buffalo Grove rates went up.

All county taxing bodies showed tax rate drops, and Wheeling township rates followed the same trend. Newer fire districts, park districts, and library districts upped their rates.

Largest increases were shown by the village of Buffalo Grove (.110), Prospect Meadows sanitary district (.396), Prospect Heights grade school district 23 (.258), Wilson grade school district 24 (.358), school district 46 in Schaumburg township (.392), and Hoffman Estates fire protection district No. 1 (.112).

Biggest cuts in rates were made by Mt. Prospect's grade schools (.216), high school district 214 (.230), Barrington Woods sanitary district (.386), and Palatine-Rolling Meadows grade school district 15 (.148).

Arlington Heights to Spend Less?

Village Trustees Approve Budget; Tax Rate Cut Seen

by JACK MARTIN

Arlington Heights has a budget.

And although at press time none of the village board members could have told an inquirer exactly how much money was appropriated for the '60-'61 operations, it appears that the suburb will spend much less than it did last year, and the predicted tax rate decrease will actually come about.

The budget, which plans the spending of some $400,000, was not accomplished without two sessions of debate. There were revisions and revisions to revisions.

As near as could be ascertained, the village tax rate will be .3496 as compared to last year's .5537. This represents some 20 cents per $100 evaluation and would save an owner of a home assessed at $10,000 about $20, providing the assessed evaluation remains the same.

THE TAX cut was realized when monetary provisions for a new village hall were eliminated in favor of bond issue financing. An accumulation of funds over several years and an increased assessed evaluation aided the tax rate cut.

Some credit, too, should go to board members who staged an item by item debate in an attempt to provide only what the village would need. There were, of course, differences of opinion.

The public hearing, which began Wednesday, June 22, and concluded Monday night, June 27, with a 117 hour break in between, included such arguments as whether the village manager needed a radio in his car, whether the police magistrate needed a full time clerk, whether residential streets should receive public benefit funds, and whether village employees should get their insurance paid.

ONE OF the more significant results of the meetings was a decision to close village hall on Saturdays. Village Manager L. A. Hanson claimed that he could not hire help to work the extra four hours on Saturday and besides the personnel often found themselves "just waiting around for somebody to come in."

The board voted to reduce the work week to 40 hours "on a trial basis" until Labor Day. Hanson had argued that the public works department could get nothing accomplished on Saturdays since it took one hour to get organized and about another hour to clean up, thus leaving only two working hours.

Another important feature of the budget is the cut in the work week for policemen. Village gendarmes will work a 44 hour week instead of the present 48 hours. The board authorized the hiring of three additional patrolmen.

The police department was the subject of most of the board's heated hassling. The budget, as originally prepared, had called for a cut in the work week but failed to provide for consequent increases in personnel.

TRUSTEE Bill Sauer, suspecting that many of the additions to the orginal budget were attempts to make use of money which would not have been spent if a village hall had been authorized, bitterly opposed increased expenditures.

There were, or should have been, some red faces when water and sewer funds which, when the village hall was being considered, were deemed unsuitable for anything but financing said State rd. building, found worthwhile and respectable projects to finance.

Some $102,000 will be spent to extend the water system on Evergreen, from Rockwell to Central; on Miner and Davis, from Eastman to Douglas; and from the Chestnut well to the Ridge st. reservoir. This improvement, according to one of the few citizens present, former trustee Bob Bishop, will inprove water pressure throughout the village, and "should have been done years ago."

Hospitalization insurance for village employees was dropped when the board learned that such a practice is illegal. However, money budgeted for the insurance will be added to the employees' salary, presumably for the payment of insurance.

THE BOARD members, either content with results of the hearing or subdued by the late hour, ended the Monday night session peacefully.

The "public" at the public hearings amounted to three persons and a Paddock reporter at Wednesday night's session. However, the audience doubled for the Monday night finale. (AF

Mount Prospect Golfer Captures State's Amateur Crown

Ed Moehling 3rd Youngest Meet Champ!

by BOB FRISK

Ed Moehling, a likeable 19-year-old with the desire and determination needed in champions, is a champion!

The modest Mt. Prospect golfer, a sophomore at Northern Illinois university and former Arlington high school standout, "arrived" on the links scene Saturday when he topped a talented field in the 1960 Illinois State Amateur golf tournament.

A 2 and 1 victory over Joel Hirsch of Highland Park, another 19-year-old, in the 36-hole finale over the University of Illinois course gave Moehling the amateur crown on the concluding day of a gruelling week of competitive golf.

A FIELD of 180 players initiated action in the 30th annual meet at the outset of the week with 64 competitors surviving qualifying rounds and battling in match play for the 1960 championship.

Moehling, who lives at 711 S. Elmhurst, Mt. Prospect, played 141 holes of golf during the week's action as he claimed his first major prize in the sport. He had annexed the Chicago JC crown in 1956 and was state runnerup in '58 as an Arlington high senior, but the amateur crown was the big one.

The title road wasn't an easy one, but Moehling, third youngest champ in the amateur's history, played each match with the poise and determination of a champion. He beat the veterans and the newcomers. He read the tricky Savoy greens like he had played them for years.

IT WAS this magic putter which became the talk of the tournament, especially during Moehling's semi-final and title victories. In the semi's against Lloyd Pitzer of Chicago, Ed used only nine putts on the first seven holes with five one-putt greens. For the 17-hole match he used a total of 28 putts, only 13 on the first nine.

Moehling's streak of sensational putting broke up a tremendous duel Saturday with Hirsch. The two close friends had waged a stiff battle, throughout the day with the lead changing hands nine different times over the first 33 holes. Neither golfer held more than a two-stroke lead although Hirsch, a sophomore at the University of Houston, had been in command most of the time.

Moehling appeared ready to move into the lead on 15 when Hirsch's drive sliced into the water. But the former Highland Park standout delivered an amazing shot from a seemingly impossible lie in the water and weeds to register a six and halve the hole.

THE TALL Mt. Prospect athlete started his putting streak on 17 when he canned a 25-footer and Hirsch missed a three-footer, giving Moehling a one-hole lead.

On 17 Ed came in with a birdie as he dropped a 17-footer to go two up with one hole to go. That was it. Moehling had his title after qualifying for four years but never reaching the top.

Neither the champion or the runnerup turned in exceptional rounds in the finale, but there was tremendous physical strain and intense pressure in the title match. The boys had played a lot of golf during the week, and the pressure of the final day was intensified because the title was at stake and the gallery was so large.

MOEHLING qualified for match play with rounds of 74-77 on the first two days of the tournament and ousted Jim Waring of Ottawa, 5 and 4, in his first round test of the upper bracket. Paired with Dick Essenpreis of Urbana in the second round, Ed won by default. Essenpreis, who has a bad back, felt overly tired after five straight days of golf and feared he might suffer an injury which would knock him out for the season in the gusty winds Thursday.

Moehling and Dean Reframe of Bensenville, former Glenbard high school star and recent DuPage county titlist, then staged the day's longest match which went four extra holes before Moehling won 1 up.

Now the pressure was really on the Mt. Prospect entry who had taken up golf for the first time at 12. But Moehling was equal to the task and he bumped Pursie Pipes of Mt. Vernon, a 40-year-old rotary drilling contractor, 2 and 1. Pitzer was next in line and when he fell 3 and 1, Ed was in the finale. The rest is a matter of record.

MOEHLING and Hirsch, golfing buddies since they were 15-years-old, roomed together during their Champaign-Urbana stay so although both boys wanted the coveted state crown, neither wanted to necessarily beat the other in the process.

A member of Northern's IIAC golf champions, Ed earned a varsity letter with the Huskies this spring along with two other Arlington high products, Mike Spinello and Rick Lindstrom. The new state titlist lettered two years at Arlington under Coaches Curtis Larsen and Ed Spacapan.

Moehling hopes the state crown will be just the beginning of a successful summer of golf. He plans to enter the 25th annual Chicago District Jr. Invitational championships at Medinah from July 19-22 and the Midwest Public Links amateur and Cook County amateur tests in August among others. In addition, he ranks as the top shot-maker in the high-flying Old Orchard scratch league.

One thing is certain about this young golf star with the promising future.

Not The First Time

The records show that 1960 wasn't the first year two teenagers met for the Illinois State Amateur golf championship. The first such meeting occurred in 1938 when 17-year-old John Holmstrom, who had just graduated from Rockford high school, defeated 18-year-old Alex Welsh, a former Rockford high teammate and then a freshman at Illinois.

Holmstrom, who joined Welsh at Illinois, had been state runnerup in 1936 as a 15-year-old prep soph and winner of the Western Junior at the age of 16.

Ed Moehling is the third teenager to win the state. Johnny Hobart of Moline won it as an 18-year-old Illini freshman in 1935.

ED MOEHLING — ILLINOIS STATE AMATEUR CHAMPION

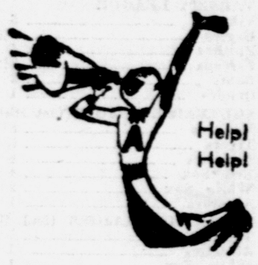
He's a 'Natural'

One of the more interesting facets in the background of the new Illinois State Amateur golf champion, Ed Moehling of Mt. Prospect, is that he never had a golf lesson in his life. In other words, he's a "natural."

A promising young baseball player, Ed took to golf after he "graduated" from the Little League ranks and shot 111 the first time he ever played. When he was a sophomore at Arlington high he was down to the low 80s and high 70s. As a senior at AHS, Moehling finished second in the individual state test.

Arlington Park to Open Season Monday

KICKIN' IT AROUND



By BOB FRISK

A WEEK OR SO AGO we joked with our cohort across the desk about the rumor that Bloom high school of Chicago Heights, a consistent prep athletic power in the state, was dropping interscholastic sports.

We don't even remember where we first heard an inkling about the move, but we just passed it off as another rumor circulated in the slow summer season. It made for an interesting discussion, anyway.

Then the shock came.

HIGGENBOTTOM

That so-called rumor turned into reality last week when the board of education voted to discontinue interscholastic sports and several other after-school activities in an effort to "conserve funds and maintain the educational program until such time as the financial position of the district improves."

The curtailment of activities was approved by a four to three vote at a meeting attended by school board members, officials and reporters.

It didn't seem possible that the school which had produced such standout athletes as Ed West, Elzie Higgenbottom, Rog Elliott, Jerry Colangelo, Chuck Green, Ike Jefferson, et al., would no longer be represented in Illinois prep athletics. But it was true with this story behind it:

Voters recently turned down a referendum proposal for a 10-cent hike (by 432 votes) in the educational fund tax rate, and the result is that a $300,000-plus deficit will hit the school district by June of 1961, according to the board. The immediate savings through elimination of the activities is counted on to curb the deficit by $50,000, athletics reportedly amounting to $40,000 per year.

In addition to interscholastic sports, the adult evening school, use of the swimming pool except for physical education classes, intramural sports, and rental of school facilities were also eliminated.

Elimination of the night-time activities, such as the night school, will enable the district to save money in heating, lighting, and custodial costs.

The decision, similar to the one that hit Zion-Benton a few years ago, was met by an "I can't believe it" attitude by the Bloom township public. Several voiced disappointment but one added, "I have great confidence in the board." The athletes themselves were close to tears when they learned of the decision. Two of them spoke of transferring. The comments went something like this:

"I want to go to college and get an education and the one way I can do that is to get an athletic scholarship. What now?" Still another: "It was like being hit on the head with a hammer. Maybe it would help if all the fathers and the kids got together with the board. This is too great a town and Bloom has come such a long way in recent years to let this all go down the drain."

John E. Meyers, sports editor of the Chicago Heights Star, summed up the situation in his column. "What can the public do? There appears only one course of action —to ask the board to put the 10 cent tax increase up for another vote this summer. Perhaps this is what the board wants, a demand by the taxpayers that they be given another chance.

"But there can be no doubt. The next move is up to the people. The board of education went into extra innings discussing the matter of athletics. Then the board voted to abolish sports. It seems the board has nothing more to say on the subject unless someone else opens the conversation."

Hole-in-One

Using a four wood, Robert H. Linderman of Mt. Prospect drove 220 yards for a hole-in-one at The Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, on Saturday, June 11.

The spectacular shot was made on the 3rd hole of the Old White Course at the mountain spa.

This was the first hole-in-one for Linderman who has been going for 31 years. He was playing a foursome with S. T. Keel, E. C. Horne, and G. M. Sherrill, all guests.

Arlington Acres In 28-7 Triumph

Because of wet diamonds, only three of the five scheduled games in the Sportsmen softball league were played last week in Arlington Heights.

Arlington Acres registered the most decisive win with a 28-7 rout of the Able Electric Sparks. Arlington Greens stopped the Teachers 14-8 and the Sailors and Pure Oilers battled to an 11-11 tie.

2nd Round To Open Saturday

Ninth district legion baseball units, still trying to finish out the first round of play, swing into the second round Saturday with three contests on the card.

Weather permitting, the second round slate will terminate July 21 after 28 contests have gone into the record book.

If the three games scheduled for last night (Wednesday) were played, only five remain in the first round. Palatine will host Northlake today (Thursday) in a makeup contest and Arlington will clash with Rolling Meadows Friday.

IT WAS STILL indefinite at the outset of the week when the Rolling Meadows at Northlake, Palatine at Edison Park, and Rolling Meadows at Des Plaines contests would be made up. They were all rained out earlier in the campaign.

Initial second round action Saturday finds Park Ridge at Palatine, Mt. Prospect at Rolling Meadows, and Arlington at Edison Park.

Evanston comes to Arlington's Recreation Park Sunday for a 1 p.m. non-league test with Dave Lynk's squad.

THE HOLIDAY schedule includes another tilt at Recreation Park with Mt. Prospect, current loop leaders with a 6-0 mark, battling Arlington again at 1 p.m. Gus Holzrichter's unit blanked Arlington in the first meeting last Sunday, 4-0.

Mt. Prospect is 1½ games on top of the pack at this stage of the campaign with Des Plaines in second. Park Ridge, tagged with two losses last week, is percentage points behind Des Plaines with Arlington in fourth on the strength of its two decisions in three tilts over the week.

New Post Times For 55-Day Card

The big race meeting of the Midwest, the Arlington Park season—55 continuous days of sport through Labor Day—opens in festive fashion Monday, July 4th, at Arlington Park, highlighting its gala inaugural program with the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes Handicap over the colorful grass course. First post Monday, only, will be 1:15 p.m. Daily post at Arlington will be 3:00, and on Saturdays, 2:15.

The Stars and Stripes is one of three stakes sparking the first of Arlington Park's nine-week season, and the start of an 18-stakes schedule, featuring such national, blue ribbon events as the $100,000 Arlington Classic and American Derby for three-year-olds; the $200,000 gross Arlington and Washington Park Futurities for two-year-olds; and the $100,000 Washington Park Handicap, racing Miracle Mile on Labor Day, Sept. 5.

Some $3,000,000 in stakes and purses are sure to lure the finest racing talent in America — as Venetian Way, Bally Ache and Run for Nurse battle for three-year-old honors — as Sword Dancer, One-Eyed King, Resolved, On-and-On clash in handicap events — as Indian Maid defends her lofty filly and mare position, and as Iron Rail, He's a Pistol and Intensive fight for the juvenile crown.

THE STABLE "regulars," like Arnodl Winick, Wm. Hal Bishop, T. W. Kelley, Del Carroll, Larry Thompson, V. R. Wright, Budd Lepman, Harry Trotsek, Calumet Farm, Jacnot Stable, Kennedy-Veale Stable — they'll all shift their activities across town. They'll be joined by "newcomers" from both the East and California.

on holidays this year, the traArlington opens and closes ditional Stars and Stripes, at 1 3/16 miles on the grass, serving as opening-day feature. Some of America's top handicap aces, like Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer are candidates for the Stars and Stripes.

The local guard will be strong, too. Sunnyside Stable's Resolved, winner of the Balmoral Turf and Olympia Turf Handicaps, will be back to regain some lost prestige, while Mr. and Mrs. John Zitnik's Manassas, second to Harbor View Farm's Quiz Star in last week's Grassland, also appears ready for his best effort.

CALUMET Farm also nominated On-and-On for the event, while Hasty House Farm's stretch-running Martini is sure to make the starting gate.

Wednesday's feature is the $15,000 added Hyde Park Stakes for two-year-olds, a logical stepping stone to the richer Futurities. Ford-Kelty's Iron Rail will be out to redeem himself for his poor showing in the George Woolf Memorial at Washington Park in which he was third to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Intensive, who earlier had won the Gulfstream Park Dinner Stakes.

J. Graham Brown's duo of He's a Pistol and On His Meal and William Hal Bishop's improving Vapor Whirl are also expected to try the time honored Hyde Park.

ON SATURDAY, the $25,000 added Arch Ward Memorial at 6 furlongs on the main course will provide a convention grounds for the top sprinters in the area. Silver Creek Farm's Illinois-foaled Roman Colonel and Bellard-Harkins Benedicto could renew their rivalry in the Saturday feature.

Kennedy-Veale Stable's Alsvin and II J. Collins' Bolero U., who's been churning up somewhat of a storm themselves in sprints at the Homewood, course, also are expected to start in the Arch Ward.

Arlington Wins Pair

Mt. Prospect's Nine Still Unbeaten After Six Games

Mt. Prospect and Arlington combined for five legion victories in the week's heavy schedule with Gus Holzrichter's Pro Sport Shop entry adding a trio and extending its unbeaten string to six straight in ninth district competition.

An Arlington aggregation sponsored by Fernstrom Storage and Van Co. dumped Northlake and Edison Park for its first two league triumphs but suffered a 4-0 pasting against the red-hot Mt. Prospect aggregation Sunday afternoon.

Excluding the games slated for yesterday (Wednesday), Mt. Prospect stands 6-0 in ninth district competition with a 1½ game bulge. Arlington is 2-3 and 3½ games off the pace.

HOLZRICHTER'S pace-setters dumped previously unbeaten Park Ridge in one of the week's highlights with the decisive run in a 6-5 contest pushed across in the sixth inning.

A walk, fielder's choice, and single by Tom Petrosino figured in the sixth and final run for Mt. Prospect. Park Ridge, trailing 5-0 going into the home half of the fifth, had battled back to a deadlock with five markers on two hits and six walks.

FRED EMPKIE

The victors jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the third frame when with one out, Fred Lussow delivered a triple. Keith Voigt and Bob Glaser were safe on errors and after Dick Palmer walked, Bill Zadel slapped a single. Mark Thorne walked before Park Ridge's Don Kerr was able to retire the side.

LUSSOW STARTED off the two-run fourth with a double and Voigt backed him with a single. Glaser was safe on an error again, and after a fielder's choice, Zadel registered his second straight single.

Tom Polzin and Thorne shared the mound duties for Mt. Prospect with Kerr, the No. 1 flinger on Maine township's West Suburban titlists this spring, going the route for the losers.

A CLUTCH single by Fred Empkie enabled Mt. Prospect to pull out an eight inning, 2-1 decision over Palatine Saturday afternoon.

Empkie delivered his key blast, scoring George McRae, with no outs and the bags loaded. McRae was hit by a pitch leading off the eighth and he stole second, reaching third on an unsuccessful Palatine defensive effort of a Thorne grounder. George Polmey walked and that set the stage for Empkie's blow.

Claude Bailey's Palatine nine scored first in the opening frame on two hits and an error, but the visitors didn't get another safety off Ron Schaeffer until the seventh. The loser's fourth hit, an eighth inning effort by Steve Hicks, was immediately erased via a Voigt to Glaser to Thorne doubleplay.

Mt. Prospect waited five innings for its first hit off Jack Nelson, recent author of a no-hitter in legion play, and tied the score in the sixth on a single by Pomey that blossomed into a run. The ball bounced over the center fielder's head and Pomey countered when the throw to the plate sailed past Harvey Fos-

SUNDAY'S GAME between Mt. Prospect and Arlington was all over in the second inning when the Pro Sport Shop tallied twice on hits by Thorne and Chuck Loerzel, a walk, and error. Mt. Prospect went on for a 4-0 decision.

Arlington threatened in the third when it appeared Gregg Beckway had slapped a triple, but a protested decision cost Lynk's outfit a base runner and possible marker. The umpire ruled that Beckway had missed first base.

Mt. Prospect scored its final two runs in the sixth off Gene Dahlquist on hits by Mel Aukamp, Glaser, and Lussow, a stolen base, and a pair of errors.

A single by Dahlquist and double by Tim O'Gorman in the fourth failed to bring in a run when down on a Zadel to Voigt toss and O'Gorman was nailed on a Petrosino to Empkie to Chuck Staral relay.

Dahlquist had a pair of hits to top Arlington's offensive attack while Mt. Prospect's seven hits were scattered among seven players.

FERNSTROM'S legion nine registered its first victory of the 1960 campaign in a 4-1 effort over Northlake with Buzz Williams and Dahlquist working on the mound. Arlington scored three times in the first inning on hits by Ken Layden, Gary Erwin, Beckway, and Ray Miller mixed in with a fielder's choice and walk.

The victors added another marker in the second when Layden blasted a triple for his second hit and rode home on a squeeze.

Northlake's only run was a tremendous homer by Tom Murphy, a highly-touted prep, in the fifth inning. The hosts collected two hits in the sixth but couldn't register another run.

Layden and Erwin both had two hits for the winners with Erwin adding a fifth inning single to his first inning safety.

JACK LANE was a master on the mound Sunday as Arlington bounced back from its loss to Mt. Prospect with a 1-0 decision over Edison Park. The second game of the doubleheader was a makeup affair.

Lane scattered three hits in tossing his shutout, fanning seven over the seven innings. Al Paul was equally effective for Northlake as he was touched for only two hits with neither safety figuring in Arlington's lone run in the fourth.

Fernstroms counted when Dahlquist led off with a walk, stole second, moved to third on an Edison Park "time out" that was never called, and came in on Skipp Witt's sacrifice fly, a long shot to right field.

Register Three No-Hitters In Arlington Little League

The names of Alan Gratzer, Jim Pagliai ,and Rick Whiteman have been added to the pitching hall of fame in Arlington's summer baseball program.

Those three boys chalked up no-hitters in last week's Little League play as a full slate of games found its way into the record book.

Two of the no-hitters were registered in the Southside Intermediate division thanks to Gratzer and Pagliai. Al, moundsman for the Solons, recorded his masterpiece at the expense of the Stars 11-0, and Pagliai of the Dons handled the Solons 1-0, fanning 10 and walking only two.

WHITEMAN'S no-hitter was a 2-0 blanking of the Red Sox in the Southside Majors as the Yanks walked off with the first half championship. Rick fanned seven and walked only two with just one ball hit to the outfield.

Although the no-hitters headlined the week's action, there were several other exciting contests as first half play terminated in several loops and second half play began.

The first half championship of the Southside Intermediate division will be decided when the Seals play the Huskies in a makeup contest. If the Seals lose, the Terriers will claim the title.

SHARTLE got the win as the Terriers scored in every inning in crushing the Ravens 18-5. Six hits accounted for 10 runs in the first inning with Johnson pacing the winners for the game with three safeties.

Scoring six runs in the fourth inning, the Terriers came from behind to beat the Solons 10-8. Scott Brown got the win with the loser's McInnes swinging the heavy bat with a homer and double.

Tomei fanned 14 and allowed only one hit, a first inning blow, as the Huskies blanked the Ravens 18-0 with Brady and Schnieder rapping homers.

WHITEMAN'S no-hitter was the big highlight in the Southside Majors division with a triple by Jimmy Bashleben the key blow. Six runs in the final frame enabled the Yanks to tie the Athletics 8-8 with 13 walks and five errors aiding in the rally. Bill Tuteberg had a pair of doubles for the A's.

Pushing across 10 runs in the final three innings, the Tigers stopped the Senators 15-5 with Pingle slapping three doubles and driving in two runs. Gregory registered the win as the Athletics pasted the Senators 11-7.

The Red Sox erupted early and coasted home with an 11-1 win over the White Sox, and in second half action the Tigers toppled the Yankees 8-4 with a six-run third inning.

BUTCH CLEMANS hit a line drive homer and Johnston rapped a triple as the Athletics routed the Red Sox 10-3, and Epperly's two-run homer was a big blow in the White Sox's 11-1 decision over the Senators.

In the Senior League the Indians stopped the Redlegs 2-1 with Gow on the mound, and came back with a decisive 9-3 decision over the Lions with Kroll the winner.

Eric Berg bested Rosholt in the Hawks' 4-0 triumph over the Browns, and the Hawks rallied with four runs in the seventh for a 6-4 win over the Bears. The Redlegs needed only five hits in an 8-4 win over the Lions.

PROUD REGISTERED a mound win as the Redlegs scored six times in the final frame of a 12-7 conquest of the Browns, and the Lions edged the Hawks 6-5 with Cordaro and Brodnan the busy hitters, both collecting three hits.

Faner's triple and Denny Fitz-Patrick's double were the the key blows in a decisive fourth inning as the Bears slipped by the Redlegs 7-6. Don Sass tripled in a pair in the third for the winners.

In the Varsity League the Vikings opened with a 10-6 win over the Orioles, Lilleberg topping Spence for the decision. Lilleberg picked up another win in relief as the Vikings edged the Phillies 4-3.

JOHNSON HIT a sixth inning homer and also won the contest as the Vikings overwhelmed the Falcons 14-7, and the Eagles bounced the Falcons 12-2 although the loser's Horcher collected four hits, including a triple, two doubles, and a single.

Skipper Dunnom blasted four hits, including a homer, to lead the Eagles to an effortless 16-1 win over the Orioles, and the Phillies rolled past the Eagles 9-2, Hagenback, Meyn, and Phee delivering extra base blows for the victors.

Horcher's two-run homer in the fourth gave the Falcons a 6-5 win over the Orioles with the loser's Brunner driving in four markers on two triples.

A CLUTCH CATCH by the Rams' Clark with the bags loaded was a highlight in the Rams' 12-11 win over the Phillies with Wagner and Ainslee slapping homers in the contest. The winners recorded eight runs in the second inning on a pair of hits, an error, five walks and a hit batsman.

In the final report the Orioles toppled the Rams 10-5 with Spence getting the win.

In the Northside Majors division one first half and three second half results were reported. In the first half contests the Cubs edged the Braves 8-7 with P. Martin the winner.

In the Northside Intermediate league the Saints currently hold the first half lead but the Redbirds and Colonels have a chance of tying the leaders.

Erupting for 22 hits and 20 runs, the Redbirds routed the Broncs 20-0 in first half play with Bob O'Brien tossing the six inning shutout. Paul Dumke hit a homer with two on in the second.

IN THE SECOND half of play the Saints topped the Lancers 13-8 in a well-played contest featured by Frase's homer with two on. Arndt pitched effectively for the Saints and Stocking allowed only four runs on four hits during his three inning stint for the Lancers.

The Doves blasted the Hornets 8-4 with Pregent the winner, and Hecht got the win in the Hornets' 14-6 decision over the Mohawks.

Janis rapped a grand slam homer and two triples in the Lancers' 11-10 decision over the Mohawks to get the victors off to a fast start in the second half. Janis drove home the winning run with Doyle the mound victor.

IN THE SOUTHSIDE Juniors division the Oaks wound up with the first half title on an 8-1 mark. The champs routed the Wrens 14-2, scoring 10 runs in the first inning, and the Angels paced the Colts 15-12 in a game that lasted only two innings. The Angels scored 14 times in the first frame.

1st Loop Formed In Italy

Italy's first Babe Ruth League has been organized through the leadership of United States Navy personnel in the Naples region, including Capt. John C. Weatherwax, league president.

The four team circuit, named the International Babe Ruth League, will make Italy the eighth nation to compete in the European Babe Ruth League World Series.

REGISTRATION of 127 new leagues by early June indicates that total Babe Ruth League enrollment may hit the 150 mark for 1960.

A total of 49 separate states, Canadian provinces and foreign countries had submitted at least one new league by June 1.

New York again is pacing the field with 20 new leagues and New Jersey has produced 11 for runner-up honors.

Sliding Major Cause Of Injuries

More than one-third of all injuries suffered by Babe Rith League players in 1959 resulted from sliding mishaps. Analysis of accident claims showed that 36.4 percent occured in running or sliding. Pitched balls account for 20.5 percent of reported injuries.

Collisions were responsible for 18.9 percent, battled balls for 15.4 percent and thrown balls for 8.8 percent.

Lacerations and contusions were the most common result, 44 percent of all injuries. Fractures occured in 21.4 percent of the cases.

Contrary to the general belief, the ratio between injuries on defense and offense was about even. Defense suffered 47.2 percent of injuries, runners 36.8 percent and batters only 16 percent.

MAC SAYS

by G. A. McELROY

ALL INDICATIONS point to a smashing victory for the United States in the track section of the Olympic Games this year in Rome. Phenomenal marks are being made thus far this year in all the field events and in the shorter runs. Ten records were broken or equalled in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track meet recently based on metric distances as used in the Olympics. All Olympic events were on the competitive list this year including hop, step, and jump, 400 meter hurdles, steeplechase, and a variety of distance runs. The best six in each event will be eligible for the Olympic trials to be held this coming weekend, July 1-2 at Stanford University in Palo Alto, California. The collegians will find it rough going against the older trackmen in the trials, however.

Six months ago most Americans had pretty much conceded the distance running events to the Russians and other European runners. The picture has changed somewhat in recent weeks since Jim Beatty and Dyrol Burleson have broken the 4 minute mile. Burleson ran a 3:58.6 mile in April and Beatty recently ran a 3:58 mile in the Modesto Relays in California. Beatty will not run the metric mile in the Olympics, shifting to the 5,000 meters instead. In the Compton Relays a week later Beatty ran the 5,000 meters in 13:51.7, breaking the American record by 122 seconds.

Beatty is one of a dozen or more runners who are being coached by ex-Hungarian coach, Mihaly Igloi, at the Santa Clara Youth Village. Igloi is a great coach who teaches his runners to relax and has them run on a strict time table geared to each athlete's speed and endurance. The results are unusual. Igloi came to the United States after the 1956 Olympics along with distance runner Laszlo Tabori who trains with Beatty. Beatty's 5,000 meter mark is the best run in the world this year and Tabori has also beaten the Olympic qualifying time but cannot compete as he is not a U. S. citizen.

CHICK EVANS, whose two primary interests are golf and helping deserving caddies get a college education, has just recently announced the promotion of a World Senior golf championship.

This tournament for amateur golfers over 55 years of age is scheduled for the Broadmoor golf club in Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 22-28. While 64 will qualify in the initial 18 holes, all entries will be placed in flights and play every day of the tournament.

Chicago's Midlothian country club this year holds its 57th father-son golf tourney. Midlothian was the first club ever to hold such a tourney which is now a common event at private clubs. Later in 1914 Midlothian was the scene of the first National Open golf tourney which was won by Walter Hagen.

David Williams certainly qualifies as the top college golf coach in America. Williams' university of Houston team has just won its fifth straight NCAA championship. Development of pride and team spirit are the keys to Houston's success. Williams is not a pro but he is a super salesman and promoter.

Houston's teams play no dual matches, engaging in only tournaments. Williams sponsors a 16 team 72 hole tourney in which the best teams in the nation compete on medal play, match play, four ball, two ball, and team match play—all in one tournament.

Realtors Move Into First Place

For some weeks now, the golfers on the George O'Day Realtors team in the Monday night Prospect twilight golf have been saying they would take first place away from the Kruse's Schlitz team.

Well . . . they did just that on Monday, June 20th. Led by Carl Oilsaver, who shot a brilliant 35, the Realtors won 8½ points from the Schlitzers to finally capture first place. Dilsaver's 35 won the low gross and, with his five handicap, also gave him the low net for the evening.

Moving up to third place, only ½ point behind Kruse's is the team from Busse Motor Sales. They won eight points from the Moler's Barber Shop team to take over third and send Moler's boys spinning down to fifth place.

ONLY five teams out of the twelve were in the same position in the standings after this exciting evening of upsets.

Birdies were scored by Wally Lutz on 3 and 5, Joe Sokal on 1, Al Barco on 14, Carl Dilsaver on 10, Jack Mulder on 15, Joe Cole on 19, Joe Grueness on 18, Mike Bergo on 12 and Harris Lyon on 5.

Harves Food Mart Advances in Golf League Standings

Harve's Food Mart, pretty well down in the cellar last week, put together some fine golf and added 13 points to their total. This was enough to move them into the seventh spot in the Hoffman Estates Men's golf league. Capt. Bob Rivines, Dick Excell, Lindy Clark and Bob Gramza, collaborated to accumulate these points against Plaza Liquors who salvaged three points to maintain fourth position in the standings. Scott McEachron again came thru for the losers to keep them from being blanked.

Another big point winner for the evening was Jim Gannon's team now sponsored by the Buggy Whip in Schaumburg. Bob Boedicker turned in another fine round despite tee martoonies, as did Jim Gannon ad Bill Borkenhagen. Vern Bartusch also contributed a win to bring their points won total to 13. Only Tom Kelley won a match for the Roselle State Bank team. Now in third place, Cap'n Jim's boys have their eye on the lead.

RAY LARSON'S Pizza Cottage and Herb Gibson's Kruss & Barry Sinclair team each took 10 points in matches with Bowes Motors and Rambis Construction respectively. Roy Jenkins and Mully Mullendore accounted for 6 of Pizza Cottage's 10 while Harry Grover, Bill Harvey and Roy Donovan starred for the losing Bowes team.

Chuck Pugh, George Lebbing and John Warnock were victors in their matches for Sinclair, while Harold Akers and Bruce Berger were contributors to the losers total. George incidentally, took low net honors with a respectable 42-9, net 33.

Snyder's Hoffman Drug edged the Rainbow Inn to maintain their hold on second place though hotly pursued by the Buggy Whip. Jack Brooks and Herb Keeses were match winners for Snyder's while George Robb and Tony Montikas salvaged points for Rainbow.

TWO WEEKS ago this column pointed out that these Wednesday night battles would be hotly contested. A look at the point totals give a good indication of this. While Angie Patel's Ramble Construction still leads the league by 6½ points, only a single point separates the second and third spots. Further down the line, three points separate fourth from seventh. Anything can happen and needless to say, probably will.

Snyder's Hoffman Drug	62

Plaza Liquors	56½
Roselle State Bank	55½

Position Night Shows Surprising Golf Loop Scores

Position night for the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight league brought surprising results and some decided changes in league standings. On position night there are no regularly scheduled matches. The first place team meets the second place team, third meets fourth, and so forth. With this schedule one would conclude that the results would be all ties or very narrow victories. However this was not the case as there were two 10-point clean sweeps posted and two 8-2 victories recorded.

The first clean sweep and one of the most unexpected was Vern's Pure Oil victory over second place Keefer's Pharmacy, although the victory was somewhat tarnished through use by the Oilers of a 5-handicap player as an alternate for their "C" position player. The alternate, John Bannister threw a 36 at Ray Barish of Keefer's which "scared" him into a 48. In other individual matches Adams scored a 38 to H. Jauch's 44, Bill Christensen 42 over Lemay's 43, and Alex Sekus scored a 51 against Bill Mott's 49, but Sekus, handicap won the match for him.

The 10-point victory dropped Keefer's from second place down to sixth and advanced first-place Vern's Pure Oil a full eight points ahead of the rest of the pack. This is by far the greatest margin enjoyed by any leader this season.

SECOND PLACE in the standings wound up in the clutches of Golden's Food Shop who certainly are the "golden boys" of the league at this time. Three weeks ago they were in ninth place but a 10-0 clean sweep two weeks ago and an 8-2 victory on position night moved them into definite contention for the lead. Their 8-2 victory was posted over Kirchoff Insurance which dropped Kirchoff from third to fifth.

The other clean sweep of the night went to Licht's Paint Store who scored their 10 points over Mt. Prospect Electric Constr. This pleasant victory moved Licht's from seventh to third and dropped the Electricians into a tie for eleventh.

The second 8-2 match went to Morton's Pontiac who subdued power-packed Wille Lbr. and Fuel, the pre-season favorites who now reside in ninth place.

IN OTHER matches Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes tied with Annen and Busse, 5-5; and in the battle for the cellar Kersting's Garden Center and Carl's Food Shop also posted a 5-5 tie.

Birdies were reported by Ed Lauing 3, Len Johnson 3, Glenn Adams 5, and Clarke Robinson 18.

League standings June 21:

Vern's Pure Oil	49½
Golden's Food Shop	41½
Licht's Paint Store	38-2/3
Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes	38
Kirchoff Insurance	38
Keefer's Pharmacy	36½
Morton's Pontiac	34½
Annen and Busse Realtors	34-1/3
Wille Lbr. and Fuel	30
Mt. Prospect Elec. Constr.	28½
Kersting's Garden Center	28½

Arlington JC Golf Tournament July 9

Time is running out for all eligible young golfers in the Arlington Heights area. The Arlington Heights Jaycee Junior Golf tournament will be held in just nine days on July 9th, at Rob Roy CC. Committee co-chairmen Rick Ferris and Frank Precilio are urging all young golfers who will not have reached their eighteenth birthday by August 15, 1960, to apply now.

The day of the tournament will be too late, as pairings, number of contestants, entrance fees and parental permissions must all be arranged and finalized prior to the ninth.

The top three winners will be sent to the state competition, and from there it is possible that one of the local contestants will represent Illinois in the International which is to be held in Waterloo, Iowa, starting August 15. These trips will be sponsored by the Jaycees and could well be the stepping stones to greater fame in golfdom, as in the case of Jack Nicklaus, the 1957 Jaycee International champion who finished just two strokes behind Arnold Palmer in the U. S. Open recently.

Applications may be obtained by calling either Frank Precilio at CL 3-8465; Rick Ferris, FL 8-1632; Jim Backoff, CL 9-3828; or Dick Riley, CL 5-5925.

Safe Boating Week Set for July 3-9

In a National Proclamation President Eisenhower has designated July 3-9 as Safe Boating Week.

Mrs. H. H. Wittenberg, 322 N. Bothwell, Palatine a member of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 22-18, is Safe Boating Week committee chairman.

She has arranged for local boaters to have their craft safety checked by a team of examiners from the Coast Guard Auxiliary at Watt's Marina, Pistakee Lake or at No. Bridge Marine, McHenry, on Sun., July 3, starting at 10 a.m. at both locations.

BOATS PASSING THE examinations will be issued decals which show they meet Coast Guard equipment requirements and in addition, the higher auxiliary standards. Mrs. Wittenberg said that the purpose of National Safe Boating Week is to point out to the pleasure boaters the basic rules and regulations for safety afloat and the need for maintaining a safe and properly equipped boat.

"Boating has built a record as one of the nation's safest family sports," she added. "We want to do all we can to keep it that way."

Krieger Sweeps Racing Card Again

Riding the championship trail all the way, Greg Krieger, ace modified stock car pilot from Milwaukee, scored his second consecutive clean sweep of events at the Waukegan Speedway, Sunday night, June 26.

In doing so, he won his third consecutive feature event, scored once again in his ten lap heat event, and set the fastest qualifying time for the fifth consecutive time. The latter alone places his name in the books as being the only driver able to accomplish this feat in the history of the Waukegan track.

By virtue of his fastest time of 51.05 m.p.h., Greg started in the rear of the fast field of 18 cars and had quite a battle on his hands as he wove through the heavy, fast traffic. Eddie Stillman, track champion for the past two years, took advantage of a third row position and grabbed the lead on the second lap of the re-started event.

BY THE TIME Krieger moved up into third position on the ninth lap, Stillman seemingy had the race in the bag with a half lap lead over Krieger. But Krieger kept pushing and by the 15th, had moved into second to begin his challenge of the leader.

Excitement raged as Krieger kept closing the gap and on the 21st lap, the two were running side by side. Stillman encountered considerable trouble in maneuvering the north turn, running it wide and allowing Krieger to move up. But on the south turn, as Krieger was passing, and Eddie trying desperately to maintain his lead, the former champion spun out and cut into the infield, losing his position.

He recovered in sufficient time to continue in the event and place second ahead of Jack Frost of Zion, "Bay" Darnell of Deerfield, Bob Ratajczyk, Kenosha, and Jack Radtke of Grayslake.

Wright Memorial Race On Racing Schedule

Wright Memorial, for the the three-year-olds Saturday, presenting the $40,000 Warren Wright Memorial, or the sport's most popular, best known division.

This is the final week of racing at the Homewood plant, culminating in Saturday's featured Wright Memorial at 1⅛ miles, setting the scene for a shift of racing to beautiful Arlington Park, on Monday, Fourth of July.

The July Fourth start at the northwest suburban plant will be the greatest, most gala opening Arlington ever had for Arlington Park. The $25,000 Stars and Stripes, traditional July Fourth attraction, will help launch the 55-day summer season there in "firecracker" style.

THE FINAL week at Washington Park is headlined by the Wright Memorial Saturday. The test could develop into the best race yet of the Chicago season, what with Sunny Blue Farm's Kentucky Derby winner, Venetian Way, on the grounds and a possibility, and J. Graham Brown's Chicagoan champion, Run for Nurse, primed for more glory.

Calumet Farm will try to win the Wright, named after the founder of the fabled racing and breeding empire, with any of three horses — Hillsborough, Pied d'Or and Yorky.

Hunting Made Easy In Canadian Setting

by BILL and BARBARA STRICKLER

Lake of the Woods

On a late fall deer hunting vacation we found probably the easiest method of hunting.

After driving to Warroad, Minn., we parked the car and boarded a steamer that travels between Warroad and Kenora in Ontario, Can.

The trip lasted about five hours on the rickety, groaning, protesting, old wooden tub because of frequent mid lake stops to transfer passengers and various merchandise to the small crafts. They also loaded on crates of fish, mostly Lake Trout, from small commercial fishing boats to be taken to market.

OAK ISLAND, Minn., is one mile from the Canadian Border. We lived at a modern camp there and crossed the border every morning to hunt at islands on the Canadianside. We traveled in 16 foot Fiberglas boats with 30 horsepower motors.

We boated out into the light of the day each morning, stopping at the sandy beaches of each isle we passed to check for fresh deer tracks. If there was a fresh sign, we would disembark on the leeward side to make a "drive" through the isle to the other side, driving the deer into the sights of the waiting hunters who had taken the boats to the other side.

Drivers and boaters changed jobs at every island. Although no large trophy heads were taken, several fair racks of horns had been seen and dropped to fill all licenses.

WHEN contemplating a trip to the Lake of the Woods area, don't forget to bring a shotgun as there are many ducks. In addition, you should bring along fishing equipment for the small lake trout ranging from two feet on up.

Gift Buying

Gift buying for men interested in hunting and fishing is easy. Most men get tired of receiving socks, ties, shaving lotion sets, etc.; in fact, they usually welcome something different.

A simple solution to this question is as near as the local store that carries sporting goods. Most fishermen appreciate a new name brand lure, some new leaders or snelled hooks. Maybe you've noticed some of the items in the tackle box getting low.

HUNTERS CAN use hats, gun cases, or for unusual gifts, a deer call, duck call or predator call along with a record of instructions on the calls. A new pocket knife or sheathed knife, cleaning rods and accessories, hunting coats, pants, ammunition belts or shell vests, game bags, boots in leather or rubber and also ammunition are also welcomed gifts.

Many sportsmen would like camping equipment such as tents, sleeping bags, nested booking gear, lanterns and stoves, flashlights and bug repellents. The list is endless.

Next time when an occasion for gifts arrives, stop in at the local sporting goods store and look around. My guess is that you'll come out pleased with the selection and so will the sportsman.

Closed Spool Spinning Reels

When I obtained two closed spoon spinning reels, I immediately started to test them. Any novice fishermen, including women and children can use them proficiently. With no back lashes to untangle, cutting into your fishing time, they will undoubtedly become more popular for all fishermen.

Very little skill and coordination is needed as with fly rods and reels and bait casting reels. Keep your elbow snug at your side and by using wrist action, flip the lure, whizzing out to a long cast every time without any mishaps of entanglement. The light but strong rods give plenty of action for small pan fish and the larger game fish such as Northern, Walleyes, Lake Trouts, and Muskies.

With casting bobbers they can be used for still fishing and I also have had good luck in using them even with lightweight fly rod lures. Small light split shot on your leader will work well with wet flies for fly fishing, using a spinning rod instead of a fly rod.

Golf Race Tightens in No. 1 League

The race is tightening up in League No. 1 of the St. Raymond's Holy Name golf loop. There are now only two points separating the first & second teams. Ackerman Insurnce had a good night which found them moving from fifth to fourth place.

In league No. 2, Illinois Range has maintained its pace-setting drive. The Meeske's team piled up enough points to jump from seventh place up to fifth.

Thursday, June 30, is a special events night which will find the teams in League No. 1, in their respective lineup, playing the teams in League No. 2, in the corresponding lineup. The points won will effect the team positions, and at the same time, each individual team member will have a chance to win a prize.

Accurate Tee Shots Vital to Your Game

INCREASING DISTANCE ON TEE SHOTS

Hitting your tee shots accurately is one of the most important items in a good golf game.

Seventy-five per cent of the players on the tour feel that the driver is the club that gets the pars and birdies. When you're hitting the tee shots long and accurately, you're in a good position for wedges, eight, and nine irons to the green. And on the par fives you're able to reach the green in two.

Pictured with the column this week is George Bayer, the game's longest hitter. After playing with him last week, I found out that a good tee shot is a key essential to good scoring. A bad tee shot usually comes from poor balance, causing the golfer to sway into or fall away from the ball.

WHEN addressing the ball, your weight should be evenly distributed on both feet with the knees slightly flexed. At the point of impact the left heel must be solidly on the ground. The grip should be held firmly with the left hand in control.

Line up the drive with the ball opposite the left heel. As you take the club back, the weight shifts to your right foot, taking a full, wide back swing. The down swing should begin with the unwinding of the hips bringing the weight to the left foot. This will bring your hands into the hitting area (roughly waist high) with the wrists still cocked.

The top professionals in the country take full advantage of their swing, increasing the arc in the back swing for leverage on the ball. Your tee shots should increase by 10 to 20 yards by accurately following these steps.

GEORGE BAYER, regarded as the longest hitter in golf today, gives an example of his power off the tee in an exhibition at Rolling Green last Friday afternoon. Looking on is Chuck Pedersen, pro at the country club.

Gribsy Captures 1st Half

The Friday night league at Arlington country club ended the first half of play with Gribsy winning with a total of 33½ team points for eight weeks. Gunnell's Lanes was two points off the pace with 31½.

In the next eight weeks the winner of the second half will play Gribsy for the title providing the latter isn't also the winner of the second half. Team points will be carried on as they are to determine the team which goes to the Paddock tournament.

Koop's Mustard Takes Over Top Golf League Slot

The Arlington Heights' twilight golf league's top team lost its hold on the leading slot last week and was replaced by a Koop's Mustard squad that had been challenging since the beginning of the season.

There is only a one point difference between Koop's and Stan's Standard Service.

The one noticeable thing about this week's play was that the two teams at the bottom of the position column made respectable 9½ and 9 point totals to bring them up in the standings.

LOW NET for the evening was captured by a new man in the league, Ted Lindstrom. Ted did it with a net 31 and is playing on Lohr's Pharmacy unit, replacing Sam Abbinanti who is going to remain with the loop as an alternate.

Stan Polly of Stan's Standard Service continues to be the hardest man to beat as he was second in line with low net at 41-9-32, but his efforts weren't able to keep his team on top of the league.

Don Magnuson was shooting sharp enough to get two birds — one on the 410 yard 12th hole and one on the 365 yard 18th. The other bird shooters were Bill Schoepke on the 210 yard 17th, Len Haines Sr., on the 455 yard sixth hole of the third nine, and Gail Webber on the 255 yard, third hole of the third nine.

Individual leaders:

No. 1 men — Chuck Staadt (12), Bud Van Ness (11½), Don Magnuson (11½), and Bill Schoepke (11). No. 2 men — Bob Witthans (11), Ralph Clarbour (10½), Bill Magnuson (10½), Ken Seeger (9½), and Chris Tessem (9½). No. 3 men — Ted Fonfara (10), Don Lucas (10), William Dobbelaere (9½), and Gail Webber (9½).

No. 4 men — Bill Gappert (14), Stan Polly (11½), Dale Wilson (10), Joe Boder (9). No. 5 men — Harry Lenell (7), Ed Koops (6½), Harold Drew (6), Ed Jacobs (6). Alternates — George Maretick (18), Ron Dattilo (14), Don Kiehl (9½), George Fischer (8).

Ogden Wins Illinois' PGA Title

Bill Ogden of the North Shore country club toured Arlington country club's even-par 70 with rounds of 67-72 Monday afternoon to capture the 1960 Illinois Professional Golf Assn. championship.

Ogden had moved out to the midway lead with a three-under-par 67 but ran into a little trouble in the afternoon set and almost lost the '60 championship. He started off the afternoon with a 39, then settled down for some impressive golf and a final round 72.

Phil Greenwald of Hinsdale and Trey Williams of Woodstock tied for second with 140s and Sam Bernardi of Indian Hills, Dick Hart of Hinsadle, and Tony Holquin of Midlothian came in with 141s.

TOP AREA finisher was George Capoun of Inverness who had scores of 72-71 for a 143, four strokes off the pace. Old Orchard's Lou Sabo registered a 70-75 for a 145.

Greenwald had a chance to deadlock Ogden for the title won by Bob Harris last year but the Hinsdale pro suffered a bogey five on the final hole and finished one stroke behind the champion.

Gleneagles' Bill Davis, one stroke behind after the morning round, with a fine 68, couldn't get going in the afternoon and finished with a 147, eight strokes behind Ogden.

Wayside Ladies Golf League

In spite of threatening skies, the Wayside ladies golf league enjoyed a delightful barbecue picnic after the game.

About 40 of the players met at the home of Betty Rose, No. 1 South Drury lane, Arlington, and it proved such a success, the league is hoping for another meeting next month.

Doyle, Sabo Top Scratch Golfers With 34 Efforts

Gene Doyle used his prowess and ingenuity to come up with a very unusual round last Friday evening in the Old Orchard Scratch League. Playing under beautiful weather conditions might have had something to do with Gene's score or maybe the rare eagle he made on the 10th hole was the cause.

Doyle's drive on the 400 yd. 10th was the normal 210 to 220 yds., then he stroked a 2 iron up toward the green; upon reaching the green he looked for his ball with opponent Bob Hornbostel and found it had rolled in for an eagle deuce on the 10th.

Doyle proved to be a tough competitor this night for he then continued on with eight straight pars and came home with a 2-under par 34. Nice golfing Gene—but Lou Sabo of the opponent team scored a 2-under 34 also to tie low ball on 2 birdies and 7 pars. Lou birdied the difficult 415 yd. 17th and the 480 yd. 14th. Big Jim Keane and Frank "Easy Does It" Matyas contributed birdies to Sabo's score and had a team best ball of 5-under for nine holes.

ALTHOUGH THE greens were usually rough putting due to the extreme amount of pay during the day, another incident occurred that left the perceptive chatter of Al Greene at the stutter stage. Marv Kamps started the 450 yd. 1st hole with a drive, 6 iron and 1 putt for a birdie. He then birdied the 315 yd. 2nd and missed a birdie on the 440 yd. 3rd. when his ball hung on the lip of the cup.

After his 3 on the 140 yd. 4th hole Marv confides that Al was incoherent for a spell but to watch an opponent start with (3's) on each of the 1st four holes would shake any week-end golfer.

Two of the league's established golfers were absent but excused were the tow-head Ed "The Ram" Moehling who was winning the State Amateur crown and Dick Burkett, club champ at Rolling Green who was in the Geo. Bayer foursome exhibition match. some exhibition match.

Next Week's Schedule

Front Nine: 2 vs 5, 3 vs 7, 6 vs 9.

Back Nine: 1 vs 12, 4 vs 8, 10 vs 11.

Fifty-five couples, a record turnout, competed in the annual Husband and Wife golf tournament conducted by the Mt. Prospect Twilight League at Mt. Prospect country club last Sunday. The tournament is conducted as a 9-hole two-ball foursome with husband and wife teaming up and hitting alternate shots. Winners are determined by handicaps based on the Peoria system.

After the dust and divots had cleared league president Ray Krewson announced that first place winners were Signe and Howard Bersted and Mrytle and Russ Holmes who were tied with net scores of 31. Third place went to Barbara and Howard Brower with a net 32.

Low gross for the day was posted by Louise and Jack Moran who came in with 45.

The tournament was arranged and conducted by special events chairmen Rudy Recher and Bud Enszer. Prizes were awarded to the winners by president Krewson.

Classic Loop Needs Top Average Bowlers

Calling all 185, 190 and 195-average bowlers . . .

There is a need for a few more top average bowlers in the Paddock Classic Traveling League now being organized for the new season.

Bowlers carrying averages of 185-and-above, are asked to contact Bob Paddock at CLearbrook 3-1520 during the business day for possible openings in the high-flying loop.

PADDOCK CLASSIC Traveling League is the fastest league in the suburbs, and is providing top average bowlers of the area with the best competition possible the year 'round.

The loop came into operation in 1957 with teams geared at 910. That means "the mean average" was 182. Since that time the goal has been increased to 940 (188 individually), and 954 (191 individually), and interest in the league has grown.

THIS YEAR the loop is expected to expand to eight teams, with all 40 bowlers traveling together each Saturday night instead of the home-and-home basis of the past three seasons.

Bowlers joining the league must necessarily live within the primary area served by Paddock Publications, or the secondary area nearby. There are many high standards of membership that must be met before bowlers are accepted into the loop, but the first need is for a 185-average or better.

TEAM ROSTERS are being completed. Sponsors are being sought. Schedule is being planned. Directing activities of the loop during summer months is the board of directors comprised of Al Walter, Ward Siewert and Bob Paddock.

The league is expected to expand to eight teams this fall with five nearby bowling establishments applying for entry. Two of these houses will be chosen, with the entire loop traveling as a group when the season starts.

Present franchise holders include Ten Pin at Barrington, Hi-Way Recreation at Palatine, Beverly Lanes at Arlington Heights, Gunnell's Lanes at Mt. Prospect, Jeffery Lanes at Wheeling and River-Rand at Des Plaines. The league competes Saturday nights at 6:30.

Fishing Contest Staged at Lisle

A dream vacation to a deluxe, top-rated Canadian fishing resort is the grand prize of the unique contest being offered at the Four Lakes Daily Fishing Resort in Lisle, Ill.

This regularly re-stocked fisherman's paradise offers trout, catfish, bullheads, carp, bass, walleyes, northern pike, blue gills and crappies.

However, since trout, catfish, bullheads and carp by the thousands are stocked weekly in the Four Lakes, this contest, which runs from July 1 to Oct. 15, includes just those varieties.

THE WINNING fisherman, who will receive a dream vacation for himself and his family, will be the one who scores the largest aggregate length catch in the three varieties.

This is a complete American plan vacation for four persons at Willard's Lake of the Woods Lodge, Sabaskong Bay, Nestor Falls, Ontario.

Prize includes: Transportation by fast launch from Nestor Falls to island and back; Week's accommodations with all meals, cocktails, if desired and shore lunches if wished; complete guide service by an experienced Canadian guide for one week; new, fast fishing boat and outboard motor, including all gas and oil; live bait if desired; boat transportation to Nestor Falls at any time.

Handy entry blanks are available at the Four Lakes Fishing Resort so that all contestants may record their catches. Fishermen of all ages and both sexes are eligible.

The record catches may be recorded all in one day, or in any number of separate days. Judge for the contest will be Bob Cary, outdoor editor of the Chicago Daily News, and the management of Four Lakes.

Identical Mark

The Chicago White Sox club won-and-lost record after its first 64 games this season was identical to the 1959 record after a like number of games. The Sox record was 34-30—last year the club was two games out of first place after the first 64 games, this year five games.

Pony Tails Open Play With 3 Games

The Leopards, Wildcats and Panthers picked up opening game victories as the Bensenville Pony Tail Softball League opened its second season last week.

The Leopards knocked off the Bobcats 10-9, the Wildcats nudged the Condors 2-0 and the Panthers outslugged the Hawks 22-11.

The Pony Tails consist of sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls from Bensenville and Wood Dale. Two Wood Dale teams, the Condors and Hawks, have joined the 14-inch softball circuit for the first time this summer.

NU Ticket Sale Up 20 Per Cent

The ticket sale for Northwestern University's home football schedule next fall is running 20 per cent ahead of the corresponding date of a year ago, Sid Richardson, ticket manager, announced today.

The season ticket sale for the four games on the home schedule is up 28 per cent over a year ago, Richardson said. The home games include Iowa, Notre Dame, Michigan State and Illinois.

The Notre Dame game, Oct. 22, tops all games in sales, being nearly four times heavier than demands for the other games, which also are running ahead of last year. Notre Dame will be making its first appearance in Dyche stadium since 1947.

ORDERS FOR TICKETS to out-of-town games also are ahead of a year ago, Richardson said. The Wisconsin game at Madison, Nov. 5, leads in sales for road games.

Richardson attributes the upswing in orders to bright team prospects and to the attractive schedule of seven Big Ten games and non-conference engagements with Oklahoma and Notre Dame.

CARLTON & BROCKWAY
PALATINE

Commuter passengers in the Chicago area are riding in high style and comfort since the Chicago and North Western railway put in service 36 bright, new double-deck cars designed expressly with the commuter in mind.

Interiors of the new coaches are finished in attractive vinyl coated steel, a development of United States Steel. The highly durable material does double duty in creating a bright, cheerful atmosphere and in reducing maintenance costs.

Walls and ceilings of the cars are finished in soft shades of yellow, blue, gray, and green vinyl coated steel. Most exposed metal trim is stainless steel.

THE NORTH Western line has ordered 116 more of the new coaches, scheduled for delivery between August of this year and July, 1961. The railroad has invested a total of $27 million in the new commuter equipment.

The conversion of Chicago's largest suburban service from conventional equipment to one consisting entirely of modern, double-deck, air-conditioned streamliners has received nationwide attention. As such, it will be unique as the world's first and only completely modern suburban train fleet.

All of the coaches are being built in Pullman-Standard division of Pullman Inc., at its South Chicago plant. Pullman-Standard, in turn, placed an order with U. S. Steel in Chicago for 248 tons of vinyl sheets.

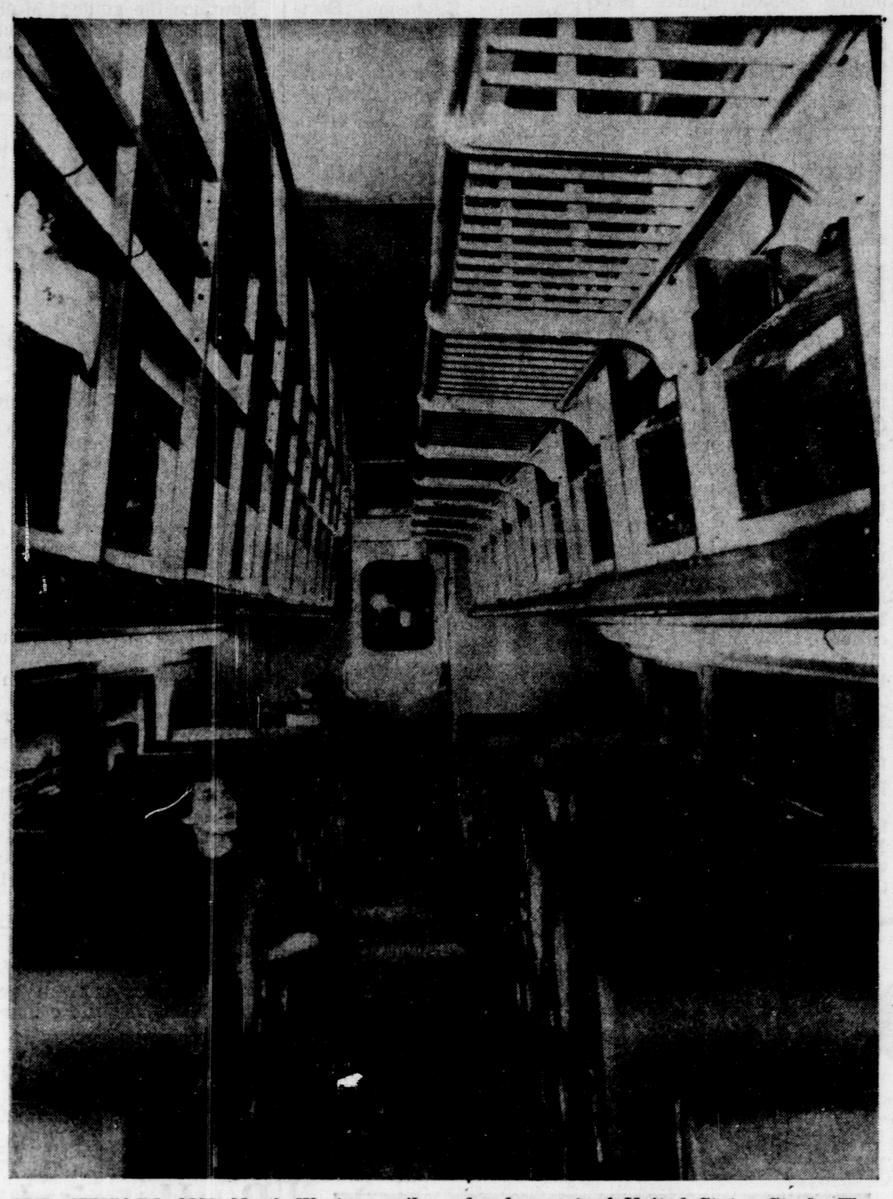
MAINTENANCE of the car interior has been greatly minimized by use of the vinyl bonded to metal plastics. Scuff and abrasion resistance along with the great variety of available permanent colors lend themselves particularly well to interior finish and should early supplant painted metal construction.

Vinyl coated sheets are an example of what is being done through U. S. Steel's research and development program. The new product adds the styling versatility of color and texture to the strength of steel.

Vinyl sheets have a wide application. They may be used in furniture, wall panels, picnic coolers, television cabinets and, of course, railroad cars.

The product was designed to compete with non-ferrous metals such as aluminum, reinforced plastics and pressure - processed wood products. It is cheaper in most applications than other decorative materials such as anodized aluminum, wood, and solid plastics. The product is being rolled by U. S. Steel at its Irvin, Pa., works.



THE CHICAGO AND North Western railway has installed 36 bright, new double-deck commuter coaches. The interiors are finished in colorful vinyl coated steel, a development of United States Steel. The vinyl sheets are available in several colors and have wide application. (BB

W. F. Griffith Outstanding In Insurance

William F. Griffith, of Arlington Heights, has qualified for the Knight in Armor club, oustanding agents' organization, of the Travelers Insurance company. He will be cited for his outstanding production in life insurance.

Griffith will attend the company's conference at Gaylord, Mich., June 26-29, at the Hidden Valley hotel.

Safety Council Outlines Causes Of Auto Mishaps

The National Safety Council today spotlighted the circumstances it said are likely to surround most traffic accidents over the forthcoming Fourth of July holiday:

1. The driver will be the chief victim of a fatal holiday traffic accident.
2. Most accidents will involve only one car.
3. Eight out of 10 deaths will come in rural areas including towns of fewer than 2,500 persons, and on high-speed highways.
4. Speed will be a factor in 7 out of 10 accidents.
5. Drink will figure in nearly half the fatal accidents.
6. The accidents will occur most often in the evening.

THE COUNCIL said it based its facts on a study of Labor Day traffic deaths which would hold true, presumably, for the Fourth, as well.

"Those are the facts," said the Council, "and here are hints we believe will prove previous figures too grim, and will help prevent Fourth of July traffic fatalities, whether you're taking a three-day break from the routine or beginning a long, two-week vacation trip":

1. Make sure your car's in top shape before starting out. Most motorists have a mechanic check their car, paying special attention to cooling systems, tires and brakes.

2. A sweltering-hot car or a nice, cool one is no place for a hotheaded driver. Keep cool in traffic, or pull off to the side of the road for a few minutes. Don't let other drivers irritate you into an accident.

3. DON'T TRY to drive too far in a day, about 400 miles or eight hours at the most.

4. Be doubly cautious after dark. Smart drivers reduce their speed at least 10 m.p.h. to compensate for the nighttime reduction of vision.

"Above all," said the Council, "don't get carried away with feelings of independence on Independence Day. Traffic laws are for your protection." (BB

Economics Analyst Warns Of Credit

"Hire purchase" is the British term for installment buying. Spelled "higher" purchase, the term is a more accurate description than installment buying, according to Mrs. Jean Due, who is currently analyzing family financial records for the Home Economics Extension Service, University of Illinois.

Undoubtedly consumer credit is here to stay. But families who understand interest charges and know how to translate the quoted rates into simple rates per annum can choose the least costly contract for "higher purchase."

Mrs. Due gives a simple guide for calculating the true annual interest rate that families pay when they buy on the monthly installment plan: Multiply the usually quoted annual interest rate by two.

FOR EXAMPLE, if a family borrows $100 for 12 months and repays $106 at the end of the period, it is paying 6 per cent interest. If the $106 is repaid in monthly installments, the family really has the money for only half the year. So it can determine the true interest rate by applying the guide: two times 6 per cent is 12 per cent, the actual rate.

The rule changes slightly when the interest rate is quoted on a monthly basis. To illustrate, 2 per cent per month is a common charge. First, multiply the monthly rate by 12 to get the annual rate. In this instance, two per cent per month equals 24 per cent per year.

Now use the guide: Multiply the annual interest rate by two. Twenty-four per cent per year multiplied by two shows that the interest rate is actually 48 per cent per year. Or a $100 purchase with a two per cent monthly interest charge, paid in monthtly installments, costs about $148.

A new bill that will make sellers and lenders specify the rates in terms of simple interest rates per annum is currently before the Senate. It may also limit the interest rates charged on installment loans. (BB

Suburb Seeks to Recoup Fee for 'Quack Engineer'

The need for a better understanding of professional engineering qualifications on the part of government bodies as well as the public in general was pointed out as a result of the action voted by the Lisle board of trustees to take legal steps to recoup the $2,500 fee advanced to an alleged engineer.

This move followed the official dismissal of Thomas O. Miles and Associates as engineer for the Lisle sewer and water program after learning he did not have the necessary qualifications to practice engineering in the state of Illinois.

The action which followed months of controversy has resulted in a mess that could snarl the sanitary program of the south suburban village by delaying the sewer and water program.

THE VILLAGE of Lisle had engaged the Miles firm for the sewer and water project based on a proposal he had submitted. After a sequence of events which included an informal hearing at the Department of registration and education, it was found that he was not a registered professional engineer. At that time John Hanson, a resident of Lisle officially asked that Miles be dismissed because of his obvious lack of qualifications.

In order to protect public health, welfare and safety, the state of Illinois requires that anyone who desires to practice professional engineering pass a comprehensive examination indicating his knowledge of engineering subjects before granting him a certificate of registration. The law states that it is unlawful for anyone to advertise or indicate he is a professional engineer unless he holds such registration. As an added protection to the public it also requires that all proposals, plans or specifications must bear the official seal of the engineer who prepared them. In the Lisle fiasco, no such seal had been requested.

Louis Bacon, chairman of the ethics and practice committee of the Chicago chapter of the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers, when asked for his comment on the Lisle matter indicated that the matter of individuals representing themselves as engineers without being legally qualified is quite widespread. He indicated that his committee is now working with the Department of registration and education on about 60 cases where there is a violation of the professional engineers registration act. In some of these 60 cases action will be taken shortly.

"ALTHOUGH THE Lisle case involved the design of a water and sewer system, "engineering quacks" are quite prevalent in other engineering fields such as heating, ventilating, air conditioning and electrical. In those areas, high pressure salesmen who represent themselves as engineers in order to imply qualifications they do not have, prey upon the public and in many cases poorly engineered, uneconomical and inadequate systems are installed."

"Individuals should guard against such misrepresentation by insisting that before any contract is awarded on a project which involves professional engineering, either large or small, the plans, specifications or contracts should be sealed by the professional engineer who prepared them."

"If there is any question about an engineer's legal qualifications, contact the department of registration and education or the Illinois Society of Professional Engineers."

Such precautions could prove to be economical and certainly will avoid the situation that the village of Lisle has found itself in. (BB

Sears Re-Elected Chairman

Ben Sears, president of Ben Sears Construction and Electronic Homes, Inc., was re-elected for a second term as chairman of the board of Little City Foundation, it was announced by Philip Roberts, president.

Sears stated, "Little City has shown remarkable progress. From the time of the dedication of new buildings this fall, we will have an administration building, four cottages, a playground and a picnic grove, and will be able to accommodate 70 children."

LITTLE CITY, located in Palatine, dedicated and opened for occupancy last fall, is a residential center dedicated to research and rehabilitation of mentally handicapped children.

It was started by a small handful of Chicagoans who realized that exceptional children need exceptional care so that they can develop at their own pace in a helpful environment and where, through the necessary educational and psychological training and handling, may be rehabilitated to the point of becoming self-sufficient.

Future plans for Little City call for a school building featuring the latest in teaching equipment and costing over $1-million, a non-denominational chapel, a hospital and clinic, expanded play and recreation areas, and an additional 30 cottages so that over 400 children will be able to receive care and special attention. Hints To Home Owners

by

James Fizzell

Assistant Farm Advisor

James Fizzell, Cook County Ass't. Farm Adviser

Each weekend as I sit in my home in suburbia I am assaulted by the roar of a multitude of rotary power mowers, each trying to outdo the other in a contest of speed and noise.

It is not so much the noise that concerns me as the danger to those in the immediate vicinity. According to recently published figures, 20,000 persons were injured or killed by power mowers last year alone. The one factor which makes these mowers so dangerous is the high speed of the blade. Rocks, wire, glass or other foreign objects in the path of the blade are often picked up and become veritable projectiles. The blades themselves have been known to desintegrate upon striking solid objects.

This danger can be minimized by running the mower only fast enough to cut the grass. If you can hear the blade hum you are probably running the mower only fast enough to cut the grass. If you can hear the blade hum you are probably running your mower too fast. A slower speed will also prolong the life of the mower.

HAVE YOU had to rake the mats of grass from your lawn after cutting it with a rotary? This can be avoided by cutting the grass from the middle of the yard to the edge and blowing the clippings ahead of you. When you finish, the clippings will be at the edge of your yard or in your neighbor's yard.

If you have had to apply water to your lawn this year, it is probably because your grass is cut too short or your grass has not developed a strong root system.

With water as expensive as it is in this area, unnecessary watering is wasteful. Unless no rain falls for a period of one week, do not water. If it is necessary to water, water heavily then allow one week before the next watering. The University of Illinois turf plots at Arlington Heights have not been watered for nearly one year.

If your lawn is showing sign of yellowing, apply a nitrogen fertilizer at the rate of two pounds of nitrogen (20 lbs. 10-8-6; 7 lbs. 30-0-0 etc.) per 1,000 square feet of lawn.

Apply crabgrass and weed killers now before the weeds get too big. (BB

Farm Deaths

More than 3,000 people are killed each year in farm work accidents. This is more than in any other major industry.

To Appraise GI Insurance

More than 220,000 veterans in Illinois should give careful study to their GI insurance holdings, Robert M. FitzGerald, acting manager of the Veterans Administration regional office in Chicago, said recently.

Those 220,000 Illinois veterans still hold GI term insurance, FitzGerald said, a type of insurance that plays a definite role for a young growing family but may become prohibitively expensive for the veteran near retirement age.

This is one of the biggest problems now facing the VA, FitzGerald said he had been informed by his Washington central office.

MORE THAN 16,000 World War I veterans in the country still hold U.S. Government life insurance term policies which originated during the first World War. More than 312,000 World War I veterans have converted their policies.

National Service life insurance, originated in World War II, is held by about 5,307,000 veterans in policies with a face value of nearly $35-billion. Of these younger veterans, some 2,191,000 have converted to permanent insurance and 3,116,000 continue with term protection.

Beetles Invade Tree Tops

An underground movement now coming into the open will cause many thousands of home owners to blow their tops, tree tops that is.

It is the movement of insectdom's hungriest foliage chompers, Japanese beetles, emerging from their hiding places in the soil.

Shade tree landscaping is paying the penalty in many localities for failure to grub-proof lawns last spring or fall. Then it would have been relatively easy to control the insect in the grub or larvae stage, when it was feeding on grass roots.

WITH THE JAP beetle in the flying stage, only protective measures can be taken to minimize foliage destruction, advises R. L. Smith, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co.

From now through early September, it is advisable to spray every other week with DDT, lead arsenate or malathion. DDT is most effective because it is both a contact spray and stomach poison. The addition of malathion to DDT sprays helps woody pets since the miticide prevents the build-up of sap-sucking spider mites and scale insects.

The Jap beetle chews almost any kind of greenery in sight, with most damage done to tree tops. That's because this insect is one of the more ardent sun worshippers. In any kind of numbers, this busy muncher can completely strip a tree in a matter of days. Some 275 kinds of trees, shrubs and flowering plants fall victim to the invaders.

Club Women Perform Community Service

A GALA BAKE SALE was sponsored in March by the Junior Women's club to benefit the Palatine Safety Council. The project was one of seven monthly service activities for the clubwomen, shown here doing a brisk pastry business. Pictured are Mrs. Cyril Morris, Mrs. Charles Byrd, Mrs. Ron Dudek, Mrs. Warren Horner, and Mrs. Michael Varde.

Monthly Projects Sponsored

Each year, the Junior Woman's club of Palatine raises funds to be allocated to various charities.

In addition to cash contributions, the club adopts projects whereby they can give of their own time and energies through service activities.

For many years, the Palatine Juniors sponsored a well-baby clinic. They maintain a "clothes closet" for those in need.

The 1959-60 club year was by far the most active, however. The civics and public welfare department, under the leadership of Mrs. Cyril Morris, planned seven monthly service projects. To gain the necessary funds to sponsor these projects, a style show was held last October.

The November project was under the leadership of Mrs. Harold Berg and consisted of making nightgowns and hankies from old shirts and sheets for the Catherine Memorial Home.

At Christmas, a group of club members, under the supervision of Mrs. James Zadny, made hand puppets, which they presented to the children at Countryside School for Retarded Children as part of the club's annual Christmas party there.

The January project was sponsorship for an ice-skating party for the Palatine Youth Center. Chairman was Mrs. Kenneth Utech.

In February, Mrs. Fremont Keller and her committee put on an entertainment program for patients at Elgin State hospital.

The Palatine Safety Council received a nice donation as the result of a bake sale in March sponsored by Mrs. Herbert Wheeler's committee.

During the month of April, Mrs. Bernard Rea and her committee made tray favors and assisted the nurses at Plum Grove Home.

In May, Mrs. Eldon Hall and her workers made plans and carried out presentation of the village's first arts and crafts fair, held in the Palatine Triangle.

In addition to these monthly projects, the club provided weekly volunteer workers for the Countryside School for Retarded Children.

PATIENTS AT ELGIN STATE HOSPITAL were entertained by a "kitchen band" last February as part of Palatine Junior Woman's club service program for the year. Band participants were (standing) Mrs. Al Rose, Mrs. Robert Stanat, Mrs. Joseph Christenbury, Mrs. Robert Dougherty; (seated) Mrs. Arthur Leu, Mrs. Ron Dudek, Mrs. Dick One, Mrs. Fremont Keller, Mrs. James Zadny, Mrs. Robert Gullett, and Mrs. Richard Jungers.

GRABBING A SNACK at the January ice skating party for Palatine Youth Center were Mrs. Ken Utech, Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Walter Sergeant, Mrs. Ron Ragnetti, and Mrs. Al Rose. The event was sponsored by the Palatine Junior Woman's club as one of their seven service projects for the club year.

MAKING HAND PUPPETS for the youngsters at the Countryside School for Retarded Children at Christmastime were Mrs. Orville Williams, Mrs. Bert Hauswirth, and Mrs. James Zadny. The Palatine Junior Woman's club, organized in 1941, stresses civic and service work.

TWICE A MONTH these members of Palatine Junior Woman's club formed teams of two to volunteer their services to teachers at the Countryside School for Retarded Children. The women: (rear) Mrs. Orville Williams, Mrs. Walter Sergeant, Mrs. Jack Shields; (front) Mrs. James McDaniel, Mrs. Wayne McDaniel, Mrs. Herbert Wheeler, Mrs. Charles Meyer, Mrs. Charles Neal.

PALATINE'S FIRST village arts and crafts fair was sponsored in May as a civic service project of the Palatine Junior Woman's club. Pictured above is a view of the fair, held in the Village Triangle.

NOVEMBER SERVICE PROJECT for the Palatine clubwomen was sewing hospital gowns for Catherine Memorial hospital. Shown at work are Mrs. Edward Upland, Mrs. Jack Burger, and Mrs. Frank Kozlicki.

TABLE DECORATIONS to cheer patients at the Plum Grove Nursing Home were made in April by members of Palatine Junior Women's club, including Mrs. Bernard Rea, Mrs. Orville Williams, Mrs. James McDaniel, and Mrs. Erle Bender.

Michael Hawkins Marries Des Moines Girl June 18th

Pink and white flowers decorated Union Park Presbyterian church of Des Moines June 18 for the candlelight wedding of Miss Hilahjane Rex, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert Rex, 3510 Linda circle, Des Moines, and Michael Edward Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal P. Hawkins, 831 S. Vail, Arlington Heights.

White aisle candles provided appropriate lighting as the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. Awaiting the appearance of the bride, those in attendance heard the wedding songs, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer," performed by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Abbott, organist and soloist. The couple exchanged vows and rings before Rev. Walton J. Kempe at 7:30 p.m.

FOR HER WEDDING Miss Rex chose a white silk organza gown trimmed with valencia lace at the shoulder and hip lines. The long sleeves were pointed and the fullness of the skirt formed a bustle back. Her 3-tiered shoulder-length veil was held in place by a silk organza bow, decorated with pearls, forming stars on each tie. Flowers were lilies of the valley and pink sweetheart roses surrounding a single white orchid.

Gowned alike were Sonya Carlson of Des Moines, maid of honor and bridesmaids, Holly Hurty, Northfield and Pat Hawkins, the bride's sister, in aqua silk oranza dresses with scoop necklines and ¾-length sleeves. They carried colonial bouquets of white and pink carnations with sweetheart roses.

FRATERNITY brothers, Fred Wright, Charles Edwards and Payson Adams, all of Omaha, served as best man and ushers, also Ben McDougall of Catonsville, Md. Another usher was John Rex, brother of the bride.

The groom's parents were hosts at a reception for 175 guests in the Hotel Kirkwood, Des Moines; a church rehearsal dinner was given the day before the ceremony. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rex wore a white lace over pink taffeta gown with pink orchids. Mrs. Hawkins was dressed in a beige organza sheath with matching accessories and brown orchids.

THE NEW MRS. Hawkins was graduated from East high school and William Woods college in Fulton, Mo. Her groom, a Delta Tau Delta fraternity member, is a graduate of Arlington Heights high school and Westminster college in Fulton. The couple spent a 10-day honeymoon at Miami Beach and are currently making plans to establish their home near Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind., where Mr. Hawkins will serve the U. S. Army adjutant general corps as second lieutenant.

Hometown Wedding Unites Two Arlington Families

Two Arlington Heights families were united in the April 9 marriage of Gerallyn Kile, daughter of the Rodney Kiles of 108 N. Salem, and Clayton Baumann, son of the Roy Baumanns of 421 E. Orchard. The couple repeated their wedding vows before Rev. Harry Evan at 5 o'clock in the Arlington Heights Evangelical Free church, which was decorated with baskets of white flowers and palms in a candlelight setting.

The newlyweds both attended Arlington high school and Moody Bible institute, and the bridegroom continued his education at Wheaton college where he received a bachelor of arts degree. He is now director of Northwest Suburban Youth for Christ, and he and his bride are making their home at 21 N. Dryden in their hometown. She is continuing her employment at the Pure Oil Company's local office.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride came down the aisle wearing a white lace gown with scalloped neckline, long sleeves and a full floor length skirt which fell in tiers of lace and net. The neckline was edged with pearl trim, and her veil was held in place with a pearl crown. White roses and stephanotis formed her bridal bouquet.

Two flower girls preceded the bride down the church aisle, both dressed in pink silk with pink carnations in their hair and carrying baskets of pink rose petals. Ronda Hendrickson, 5, of Arlington Heights and Michel Kile, 5, of Fox River Grove entered the church with Scott McGouney, 6, of Des Plaines, who was ring bearer.

The three other bridal attendants were gowned alike in light blue silk organza ballerina length dresses and carried crescent bouquets of white carnations and pink rosebuds. Maid of honor was Dana Farmer of Rolling Meadows; bridesmaids were Karen Anderson and Lyn Hollenbeck, both of Arlington Heights.

Best man was Dan Baumann of Pasadena, Cal., and ushers were Allan Sommerfield, Palatine; Loren Getz, Medaryville, Ind.; Jack Houston; River Forest, and Paul Anderson, Arlington Heights.

ORGANIST for the afternoon wedding was Mrs. Harriet Lindahl, and soloist, Mrs. Elaine Cedarberg, sang "Because," "Together with Jesus" and "Like a Shepherd Lead Us."

For the wedding and reception the bride's mother was attired in a mint green lace sheath dress with bone colored accessories and wore a brown cymbidium corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a lilac silk organza sheath dress, matching accessories and a lilac cymbidium corsage.

Three hundred wedding guests attended a reception and buffet dinner at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights following the ceremony. The couple then departed for a honeymoon of 10 days in Hot Springs, Ark. (Jenart (S

Just Around the Corner

Mother's Leverage

Dear Peg:

It's really not sporting to take advantage of little children and their triumphs the way some of us sneakier parents do. Patrick came home from Billy's at lunch time yesterday, bearing a shirt cardboard on which was boldly scrawled in big black letters: "THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT PATRICK QUALIFIED IN THE ROSS RELAYS—A WINNER."

Why, that's wonderful, Patrick!" I exclaimed as proudly as any mother of a relay race winner. "Who are the Rosses?" A very natural mother-question having nothing to do with relay races.

"They live next to the Harrises," Patrick said as if I should know.

"Oh. Who are the Harrises?"

"They live next to Jeanie!" He was becoming a little impatient and I was glad that I knew who Jeanie was. She lives down at the end of the block so this would make the Harrises and Rosses live somewhere around the corner. I was about to say that he knew he was not supposed to go that far, when something made me get back to the more important subject at hand.

"Well, so you are a winner! Who was in the race with you?" I asked.

"Josh and Billy." Patrick replied quite pleased that he'd beat his best friends.

This was not exactly a blue ribbon line up, however they are all the same age and then this was only his first taste of athletic competition—who knows who his next opponents might be.

Now, everything would have been fine, if I could have simply left the fact that he won a race alone. But being a mother of many children, I have sunk to the level of using every bit of leverage that comes my way to gently force them to do what I want them to.

Patrick was about to balk at eating his vegetable soup when I said quietly, "Racing winners always eat their vegetable soup." (Well, I'll bet they eat as much vegetable soup as they do corn flakes!)

With such an innocent little look in his eyes that I had to turn my evil head away, he confirmed the fact that he fell into this category: "I'm a racing winner." And with that picked up his spoon and started eating his soup with determination. When he had almost finished, I suggested that he finish his milk. A frown passed over his face until I unashamedly warned that he probably wouldn't win the next race if he didn't drink lots of milk. The poor little guy finished every drop. Now, came the acid test. "You know, Patrick," I began, "good racers need lots of rest. You better take a nap. How about it?"

"Oh, no!" he cried. "I don't want to."

"I'll lie down in Joseph's bed and we'll both rest," I suggested—again planning a little trickery.

He finally agreed when I brought up the racer bit again and we went up to his room. The room was so nice and dark and cool that I soon fell asleep . . .

I woke up an hour and a half later to the baby's crying and the sound of children playing in the back yard. There were Patrick and Joseph, Josh and Billy all playing in the sand box—obviously having been playing that way for a long time. When I came outside Patrick called happily, "Hi, Mom, you had a good rest—you're going to be a good racer!" See, it's really not sporting to take advantage of little children and their triumphs the way some of us sneakier parents do.

My love,
Patty.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Patriotic Patio Party Can Be Fun for Fourth of July

By DOLORES HAUGH

With the Fourth of July booming in the not too distant future, you will want to think of a cookout with a patriotic flavor Presto a Patriotic Patio Party.

Invitations

Red, white and blue will predominate the scene so give your guests a sample in the invitation. Striped paper in a double fold with the following verse, or use squares of a U.S. road map obtained free from any filling station, or combine both ideas using one state on the front of the card.

Yankee Doodle was a dandy
And, my friend, so are you,
So join us on our patio
The theme's RED, WHITE and BLUE.
We're going to make it potluck
A dish from every state
You'll have the best of dishes
From all the 48—ooops, 50
(we knew but it doesn't rhyme!)

State time, place and the kind of dish from that individual state or locale. Of course, if you do not wish to make it potluck plan your menu around the same idea.

Menu

Just a little imagination and your menu will "make" itself up. Idaho potatoes, Texas steak, following the California-Florida citrus juice cocktail, Boston Baked Beans, Alabama black-eyed peas, but, why go on, you can do this too. Think of the dish and the state it represents and you will have your own original dinner. Don't forget the Hawaiian pineapple salad and the baked Alaska dessert.

Entertainment

You may wish to play a little game of "Who are you and where did you come from?" Nothing is offered for eat or drink until each guest has five signatures from people born in different states. This is a good mixer and it is surprising how many of our friends did come from other sections of the country.

The post dinner entertainment can be charades with categories using the states, their famous people, products and industries. Of course, award prizes along the same theme, corn from Iowa, records of state songs, all wrapped in road maps of various states.

If you plan cards use the map theme for the tallies and score pads.

Decorations

The table can be set with a blue or white tablecloth depending on your dishes. Have several maps to cover and use a centerpiece of flags, gold stars and have the napkins, plates, if you use paper, in red, white, and blue.

PATIO PARTIES are the most fun when you keep them simple. So plan a simple menu and follow the theme thru to the very end. Round off the evening using either a flaming dessert (this is done by using a canned California peach half and inserting in the center a sugar cube from Florida soaked in lemon extract) or if you can obtain sparklers insert them in an Hawaiian pineapple for a tray of individual dishes of fruit salad, cheese from Wisconsin and crackers.

Aren't you glad you live in the U.S.A.? Especially when there are 50 states to contribute to your Patriotic Patio Party?

Honeymoon in South For Robert Leonards

A motor trip to Miami, Fla., with six days in Jamaica and four in New Orleans as side trips, was the recent honeymoon itinerary of newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Robert Loenard of Prospect Heights. The couple repeated their marriage vows before Father Joseph Doyle in St. Raymond Catholic church of Mt. Prospect at 11 a.m. May 14. The bride, the former Donna M. Gatto, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Gatto, 210 S. William st., Mt. Prospect. The bridegroom's father is Francis P. Leonard of 900 N. Elmhurst rd., Prospect Heights.

The bride attended St. Patrick academy and Mundelein college before working for Universal Oil Products, which she left just prior to her wedding day. The bridegroom attended Wright Junior college and is presently employed by Lewin-Mathes Co. as assistant sales manager.

WHITE AND PINK carnations decorated the sanctuary of the church as the bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father. She wore a short sleeved silk organza gown with a portrait neckline and front panel of alencon lace touched with seed pearls. The gown ended in a chapel train and was complemented by a mantilla veiling of illusion bordered with alencon lace. Her bouquet was of white orchids, white carnations and lilies of the valley.

The bride's aunt, Miss Helen Calabrese of Los Angeles, Cal., was her maid of honor in a street length pastel blue silk organza dress with scoop neckline and full skirt. Her headpiece was a triple bow of matching organza with a face veil falling from it, and she carried a crescent bouquet of pink carnations. Bridesmaids, Mrs. Jack Ralston of Kingsport, Tenn., and Miss Jeanette Koeppen of Des Plaines, were attired exactly as the maid of honor.

ATTENDING THE bridegroom was Francis P. Leonard of Milwaukee as best man and as ushers were Richard Lays of Roselle and Russell Riesche of Chicago.

A brunch for 200 wedding guests was served at Weller's restaurant, and an evening reception took place in the Deerfield American Legion hall. For the wedding and reception the bride's mother wore a dusty rose chantilly lace sheath with matching accessories and had a white orchid corsage.

Press Chairmen Alerted For Fall Publicity Clinic

Newly-elected club press and publicity chairmen, with their club presidents and program chairmen, are already circling the date Thursday, October 1, on their calendars. Their reservations for the 14th annual publicity clinic sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national professional and honorary fraternity for women in journalism, will inform them about the "ways and means" of securing space in the local and metropolitan press for their club messages.

"Originally, invitations were extended only to publicity chairmen, but in today's more-aware clubs and societies, the club president and program chairman also need this journalistic know-how in order to facilitate accurate and effective press releases," said the committee.

The publicity clinic trains the publicist in proper methods of presentation and exposes other club officers to the press problems so that their coordinated efforts secure the best results with the minimum effort.

"Too often, the publicity chairman has been handicapped and frustrated by having to work against a deadline without full and accurate information from the program chairman or president," continued the clinic chairman.

The Theta Sigma Phi publicity clinic endeavors to help the club "left hand know what the right hand is doing!" It is, in fact, a capsule course in journalism, in seminar form, which especially emphasizes the phases most needed for planning and preparing acceptable press releases to tell the story of special club events, programs and fund raising efforts.

Syndicated Columnist Katy Collings will assume the director's role of the clinic, which will again be held in First Methodist church of Evanston, 1630 Hinman ave.

Grandmother Given Bridal Bouquet of June Chisholm

When Miss June Paulette Chisholm became the bride of Frank Markovich May 28, she altered the traditional custom of throwing the bridal bouquet and instead, presented her cascade of white carnations and net leaves to her grandmother, Mrs. Clara Nordien, who came from her home in Toronto for the wedding.

The double ring service which united the couple took place in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights and was followed by a buffet luncheon for 30 guests in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Chisholm, 629 Larkdale lane, Mt. Prospect. Rev. Paul Stumpf officiated at the one o'clock ceremony amid a setting of white snapdragons and palms.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Markovich of Bellwood.

FOR HER marriage, the bride chose a street-length dress of white, nylon sheer fashioned with short sleeves and a square neckline with white embroidery. The same embroidery also trimmed the hemline of the full skirt. She wore a shoulder-length veil and a crown of forget-me-nots. Mr. Chisholm gave his daughter in marriage.

Cathy Chisholm was her sister's only attendant and wore a dress of pink nylon sheer with street-length full skirt and puffed sleeves. She also wore a small pink off-the-face headpiece and carried a cascade of pink and white carnations.

MRS. CHISHOLM chose a black and white sheer shirtwaist dress with a corsage of red carnations and stephanotis, while Mrs. Markovich chose a blue crepe dress with a corsage of pink carnations and stephanotis.

Peter Markovich of Elmhurst was best man and Paul Markham of Cicero was usher.

Mr. Markovich took his bride on a month's wedding trip to Grand Marais, Mich. The new Mrs. Markovich finished her junior year at Prospect high school and the bridegroom, who was graduated from Proviso high and Illinois Institute of Technology, is employed by Arlington Seating Co.

The newlyweds are temporarily residing with the bride's parents in Mt. Prospect. (S

Special Sentiment in Veil Worn by Mt. Prospect Bride

A shoulder length circular veil from Brussels, Belgium, was worn by a recent Mt. Prospect bride, Dale Marie Tews, for her marriage to Neil Dennis D'Argo, also of Mt. Prospect. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Tews, 600 E. Evergreen ave., purchased the veiling at the Lace Palace in Brussels, while on a European trip two years ago.

To wear with the imported veil, which was edged in Brussels lace, the bride chose a silk peau de soie wedding gown with short sleeves and very full skirt ending in a circular train. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

THE NUPTIALS took place at noon June 18 in St. Raymond church of Mt. Prospect, with Rev. Joseph Doyle officiating. The sanctuary was decorated with white gladioli and snapdragons for the double ring rites.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D'Argo, 415 S. Ojibwa tr., was attended by Don Gage of Mt. Prospect as best man, and ushering the guests to their pews were Arthur Tews, Don DeNapoli, both of Mt. Prospect, and Larry Armando of Fox Lake.

Preceding the bride down the aisle of the church were six attendants, all dressed alike in aqua silk organza over aqua taffeta with a matching lace panel trimming the bell shaped skirt. Each wore a matching organza and lace bow hat, and each carried red Happiness roses in a crescent bouquet.

Maid of honor was Carol Pfingsten of Arlington Heights; bridesmaids were Diane Spaulding of Wheeling, Carol Martens of Cary and Janet Schindler of Arlington Heights. Junior bridesmaid was Patti Wahler of Park Ridge, and serving as flower girl was 4-year-old Linda D'Argo of Wheeling.

A BUFFET reception was held in the VFW hall in Mt. Prospect for 250 guests. The bride's mother greeted in a dress of pink silk organza over pink taffeta with a pink sequin hat and had a cymbidium corsage. Mrs. D'Argo wore a cocoa brown silk organza dress with matching hat and also had a cymbidium corsage. (Bak Studio (S

The couple is spending a 2-week honeymoon in Miami Beach, Fla., and after July 4 will be at home at 1509 Brown st., Des Plaines. Both newlyweds attended Arlington high school. The bride then went to Illinois Wesleyan university and the bridegroom attended St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Iowa. Both are employed in Chicago, she with Mason, Kolehmainen, Rathburn and Wyss law firm, and he with Appleton Electric company.

Former Heights Man Wed June 25 in Madison, Wis.

A former Arlington Heights man and a graduate of Arlington high school, David Ames Brant, took as his bride June 25, a Madison girl, Miss Marian L. Freed, whom he met at the University of Wisconsin, where he is a candidate for a PhD degree in chemistry.

His parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry Brant, who moved from Arlington Heights a few years ago to Summit, N. J., were hosts at a rehearsal dinner for the bridal party and immediate families Friday evening. The bride's parents are the Robert Byron Freeds of Madison.

The service took place at 4 p.m. in Bethel Lutheran church, Madison, with Dr. Morris Wee officiating. White gladioli, majestic daisies and white tapers decorated the altar for the service, during which Mr. Freed gave his daughter in marriage.

THE BRIDE chose a wedding gown of white silk fashioned in a princess style with a draped empire bodice forming a square neckline and tiny sleeves. The back of the gown featured a full drape swinging from the empire line and formed a chapel train. Her veil was held by a small cap with two silk roses and she carried a cascade of gardenias and white roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Margaret Freed, sister of the bride, who wore a hyacinth silk sheath, street-length dress with a cascade of white roses and hyacinth and white shattered carnations. The bridegroom's sister, Miss Catherine Jane Brant, was bridesmaid and wore a dress fashioned identically to the maid of honor's dress. Her flowers were also the same.

ROGER J. Thomas of North Riverside, Ill. was best man and ushers were Harry Lochner of Glencoe, Robert Ellis of Arlington Heights, Robert Dotts of Rolling Meadows and Daniel J. Montague, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

After a small reception for relatives and friends in the church's Fellowship hall, Mr. Brant took his bride on a wedding trip to Wisconsin's Door county. After July 1, the newlyweds will be residing at 507 F. Eagle Heights, Madison.

THE NEW Mrs. Brant attended the State University of Iowa, Iowa City, and was graduated in history in 1959 from the University of Wisconsin, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorortiy. This past year she has been an editorial assistant with McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., New York City.

Mr. Brant was graduated magna cum laude in 1958 from Yale university where he was a member of Beta Theta Pi and an associate member of Sigma Xi. He is a recipient of a National Science Foundation fellowship.

Constance Kirchhoff Is First Bride in New Church

Constance Lynn Kirchhoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Kirchhoff, 29 Columbine dr., Lexington Fields, Palatine, and Kenneth L. Marks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Marks of Chicago, were united in marriage June 4 under a flower covered arch banked with palms. This was the first wedding to take place in the new Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove Village and the Rev. Martin L. Marty was officiant.

The bride, who came down the aisle on the arm of her father, wore a bouffant gown of silk organza which was gathered over a satin underskirt edged with embroidered tulle. The high-necked, long-sleeved bodice was edged with lace and the skirt was shirred from waist to hem into large loops and caught up by satin flowers.

Her fingertip veil was also edged with lace and fell from a coronet of lace and pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of glamellias, lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses.

SHE WAS attended by her sister, Maribeth, as maid of honor, and by bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Marks of Chicago, sister of the groom, and Miss Janice Tomes of Lemont, and by junior bridesmaids, Miss Pamela Whyle of Gary, and Miss Sandra Lee Barsema of Maywood.

The attendants wore full-length, hoop-skirted colonial dresses in shades varying from light pink to deep rose, caught up at the bottom into loops to match the brides' dress. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore large picture hats and the junior bridesmaids wore crowns of carnations. All carried baskets of gladioli and carnations.

The mother of the bride wore beige chiffon and the groom's mother, orchid brocade.

MR. MARKS was attended by Gene Schoonvelt of Denver as best man and Robert Bier of Waterbury, Conn., and Don Tomes of Lemont, Ill. as ushers.

Miss Maribeth Kirchhoff sang "Be Thou With Me" by Bach and "Lead Me Lord" as the prayer offered as the bridal pair kenlt at the altar. She was accompanied on the flute by Miss Margo Engelhardt of Inverness and by Prof. Robert Reuter of Roosevelt university, organist. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the Country House, Dundee.

The bride, a graduate of Maine Township high school, met her future groom at Valparaiso university, of which they are both alumni. After a honeymoon in New Orleans and the bayou country, they will take up residence in Carpentersville, where Mrs. Golfview school.

Learn How to Simplify Your Everyday Housework

Homemakers who simplify their work save energy. And doing things the easy way may help some women to save their hearts.

Here are some tips the Chicago Heart association provides on how to make housework easier. Planned especially for cardiac housewives who have been advised to "take it easy," these hints are useful for any homemaker who wishes to accomplish her many tasks successfully and still have time left over for family fun and recreation. See if your life isn't made easier by following these simple suggestions.

PACE — Find your own rhythmic, relaxed way of doing things and stick to it. Music playing while you work may help you relax. Hasty thinking and hasty working seldom accomplish what you want.

PLANNING—Save steps by organizing jobs so that you stay on one floor of your home or in one area of your apartment until the job is finished, if possible. Use tables on wheels. They are good for assembling and transporting food, dishes, groceries, cleaning supplies, laundry and many other things from place to place.

They save heavy lifting. They also provide welcome extra work space where it is needed.

CLEANING — Make sure you're using the most convenient appliances. Long-handled dust pans, brooms and mops save much stooping. Two dust mitts, one for each hand, speed the cleaning chore. Assemble and keep all small cleaning supplies together in a basket so they can be moved easily to the job.

SIT TO WORK AS FREQUENTLY AS POSSIBLE — You can sit to iron, clean vegetables, feed the baby, wash dishes, make marketing lists and do many other tasks. Alternating sitting and standing reduces fatigue.

AT THE STOVE — Store seasonings, serving dishes and utensils needed at the stove right next to the stove where they are easy to reach. You may find open shelves preferable to cupboards because they make it easier to get at supplies. Many utensils such as stirring spoons and pancake turners can be hung on walls near the stove.

Having a stove with a high oven reduces stooping.

AT THE KITCHEN SINK— The right height is important. If your sink is too low, you strain your back by stooping to do dishes. A rack in the sink underneath your dishpan will raise it to a more comfortable height. If the sink is too high to sit at comfortably in a chair while washing dishes, use a kitchen stool with a comfortable leg rest and preferably with a back support.

Scald dishes and let them drain dry.

Center your vegetable and fruit preparation around the sink and have knives, strainers, stew pans, etc. handy to it.

IRONING — Sit to iron, at least part of the time. The chair should support your back and be a comfortable height to enable you to use the same arm movements as when you stand. First assemble everything you need within easy reach. This may even include needle, thread, scissors and buttons.

Place dampened cloths at your right, preferable on a portable table, and set a rack to hold ironed clothes at your left, if you are right-handed.

OTHER HELPFUL hints, a complete motion study check list and suggestions for efficient kitchen arrangements are included in a booklet entitled "The Heart of the Home."

The Chicago Heart Association, 22 W. Madison st., Chicago, makes this booklet available to all homemakers interested in saving energy by simplifying their work. (S

Modern Etiquette

Q. I've just been told that there is no tipping of employees whatsoever in a plane. Is this correct?

A. Yes. You do, however, tip the porters who carry baggage to and from the plane. And be sure, when you are in the plane, to acknowledge any special service or courtesy extended to you with a gracious "thank you."

Q. When drinking from a goblet, how do you hold the goblet?

A. It is held firmly between thumb and forefinger at the juncture of the top of the stem and the bottom of the flared part of the goblet. Avoid spreading your whole hand around the flared top of the goblet.

Miss Schoenbeck Chooses Pen Pal as Attendant

Miss Miyako Yakako, who came from Hawaii six years ago to reside with the family of her "pen pal," Roberta Schoenbeck, served as Miss Schoenbeck's only attendant May 28 when she was married to Fred L. Ruiz in Faith Memorial Lutheran church, Valparaiso, by Rev. Milton Gunderman.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schoenbeck of Prospect Heights and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruiz of Dyer, Ind.

The couple met while students at Valparaiso university. Both have now graduated and the new Mrs. Ruiz is doing social work at Emerson House, Chicago, and Mr. Ruiz is a technical engineer, also in Chicago. They are residing in an Oak Park apartment.

BOTH THE BRIDE'S and Miss Yakako's dresses were fashioned by Miss Yakako, who brought her own sewing machine with her from Hawaii. Miss Schoenbeck's dress was of white brocaded satin with matching headpiece, to which was fastened a small face veil. Miss Yakako's dress was in blue and both girls carried lilies of the valley and roses.

The groom's best man was Roger Shellhause, an Omicron Delta fraternity bfother.

Besides the parents of the bride and groom, the wedding was attended by sorority sisters of the bride and fraternity brothers of the groom, 80 of whom returned to Prospect Heights for the reception in the home of the bride's parents. The bride had served as president of Sigma Theta sorority before her graduation.

Arlington Heights Man Takes Wisconsin Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Cutler, 228 S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights, traveled to Menomonie, Wis., June 18, to witness the wedding of their son, Paul, to Miss Nancy Hall of Menomonie in the Immanuel Baptist church there.

The bride's father, Ward Cook, gave his daughter away in the ceremony performed by Rev. R. L. Sanasac before an altar decorated with white gladioli. The organist was Miss Irma Hoegh, and the soloist was Mrs. Joel Kettenring of Owatonna, Minn.

The bride's gown was a long-sleeved, floor-length dress of satin overlaid with lace, with a satin panel down the front and satin bodice. Her veil was topped with a crown of pearls.

THE SISTER OF the bride, Miss Susan Hall, was the maid of honor and wore a blue waltz-length dress with matching cummerbund and accessories. The bridesmaid, Miss Jeanette Williams of Owatonna, wore an identical dress.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Ward Cook, chose a beige lace dress with matching accessories, accented by a pink and white corsage. The groom's mother was attired in a blue silk print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Lynn Cutler of Arlington Heights was the best man, Brian Cutler was the attendant, and Larry Rassbach and Gary Bus of Menomonie were the ushers.

MORE THAN 100 guests were present at a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony.

After a brief honeymoon in the groom's cottage on the Mississippi river, the couple is residing in Arlington Heights.

The new Mrs. Cutler graduated from Menomonie high school and attended Pillsbury Bible college in Owatonna. The groom is a graduate of Arlington high school and Pillsbury Bible college and is presently employed at the U. S. post office in Arlington Heights. (S

Biblical Soap Opera Proves Disappointing

By JIM PHILLIPS

"We decided to open a little earlier this evening because there was such a crowd at yesterday's performance," the cashier at the Catlow told me.

It's a good thing they did because by the time I bought my ticket, the theater was already half - filled. The only drawback to this successful event turned out to be the movie.

"The Story of Ruth," had all the possibilities of being a clear - cut dramatic success. Instead, it turned out to be a Biblical soap - opera without commercials. Running through this Color-by-DeLuxe-drama were Stuart Whitman, Tom Tryon, Viveca Lindfors, Peggy Wood Jeff Morrow, and featured newcomer Elana Eden. All in all, "Ruth" looked like a field day for the minor leaguers, with everyone striking out, including first-string writer Norman Corwin, who took the adventures of Ruth from the Bible and turned them into a series of sobbings with dialogue. Director Henry Koster did the best he could; Franz Waxman came up with a musical score that sounded like all the codas and introductions cut out of other Twentieth Century Fox Bible epics; and Sam Engel probably saved some money by sticking to a young, but effective cast.

ELANA EDEN is pretty, but let's face it — so are the hanging gardens of Babylon. Both are without emotion. Elana's lines hung in the air with little dramatic appeal holding them up. Tom Tryon and Stuart Whitman were impressive as heroes and lovers, but their characterizations just didn't get off the ground. Peggy (I Remember Mama) Wood manages to put on one of the best emotional mother-in-law crying jags I've ever seen — don't get me wrong — Peggy is a wonderful actress, but the script causes her to miss here. Jeff Morrow is an exciting personality and a good actor, but "Ruth" wouldn't give him a chance either, except for a delightful drun kscene and the emotional lines which involved his rejecting Ruth as a bride.

"The Story of Ruth" in the Bible is wonderful reading for all. The picture made Minestrone out of this reading by dividing everything into an "American Family TV Melodrama" with emphasis on the following: Ruth is a priestess who worships idols. She falls in love with a man who believes in Jehovah. Ruth changes ways, priest of temple threatens Ruth, puts boy friend in quarries. Ruth helps boy friend to escape. Boy friend escapes with knife wound in back, lives long enough to marry Ruth and make her a widow. Widow Ruth is outcast, has no place to go. Mother-in-law comes weeping to the rescue. Ruth is found to be idol - worshipper. Mother - in- law cries. Ruth falls in love with kinsman of Mother-in-law. Priest from other land sends spies to defame Ruth. Mother - in-law cries. Ruth is brought to trial, recites Ninth Commandment, is saved. Mother-in-law overjoyed. Ruth finds she cannot marry kinsman because of "The Law." Mother-in-law cries. "The Law" is dodged through a technicality. Mother-in-law overjoyed again. Ruth and lover settle down. Everyone cries.

NO DOUBT about it—"The Story of Ruth" will be a money-maker. Tear - jerking and family drama are always good draws. However, I think with a little more effort on the production, and certainly a better job of screenwriting, "Ruth" might have been a worthwhile picture. It is loaded with dialogue — but not the right kind — it is loaded with personalities, but not actors and actresses. In a sense, it is a Biblical spectable without lavish brutality and hue-splashing whoop-de-doo!

In the midst of all this, I'd like to congratulate the Catlow for staging its own economical premiere of the picture. It's nice to know that a Paddockland theater can book a newly - released movie as quickly as Chicago's $1.80 palaces.

Light Comedy Is Shady Lane Fare

"Kempy," a comedy about a small town plumber who comes to fix a leaky pipe and suddenly finds himself married and spending his wedding night sleeping on the front room sofa with the dog, will be the fifth play of the lighthearted summer theatre at Shady Lane Playhouse, beginning Tuesday, July 5.

A long run hit in New York, "Kempy" was written by J. C. Nugent and Elliott Nugent, who appeared as the father-in-law and the plumber in the Broadway and Chicago productions, and the later Manhattan revival.

TH9 PLAYHOUSE, in its 19th season on route 20 near Marengo, is one of the few summer theatres in the midwest which produces its plays in the standard style, complete with full settings and costuming, on a regulation stage with curtains, rather than in the "arena" fashion.

Bertram Heckel, a Shady Lane veteran, is in charge of the scenic designing, building more than a dozen sets a year that have won widespread praise for their authenticity and depth of detail. The theatre, in a converted barn close by the celebrated Shady Lane Farm restaurant, has expanded through the years until its backstage facilities are larger than those of most downtown playhouses.

Louis Tanno is in his tenth year as director of the all-Equity troupe, which operates on the stock-company principle, versatile actors dovetailing their talents to each other in easy familiarity to achieve well-rounded performances.

"KEMPY" WILL play through Sunday, July 10, to be followed by Alec Coppel's "The Gazebo," opening July 12.

"Performances at Shady Lane playhouse begin at 8:45 Tuesdays through Fridays, 7 and 10 on Saturday nights, and 7:45 Sunday evenings, all C.D.T.

DURING A STRONG ATTACK by a band of hostile Indians, Burt Lancaster fights off a warrior who is about to kill Doug McClure. Exhibit Works of 2 Outstanding Artists

By LUCILLE BLACKWOOD

Northwest Art Center was fortunate in being able to secure the works of two outstanding contemporary artists for their July show at 715 Palatine rd., Arlington Heights.

This rather young, suburban gallery has managed to consistently bring an excitement and variety in art to its viewers.

ROBERT BORCHARD received his B.S. at the Albright Art School and his Master's from the University of Wisconsin. He has recently shown at the Chinook Gallery in Colorado Springs and this past fall was received very well in a one-man show in Madison, Wis.

John Jurgens received his Master's degree at the Art Institute of Chicago. He was recipient of the Byron Lathrop Foreign Traveling fellowship in 1951 and has had his work shown extensively in this country and abroad. Jurgen's work was recently shown in the Old Town Art Center in Chicago.

The show in general is abstract expressionism. Don't let these words frighten you. It just portrays a little more depth than painting a barn that looks like a barn. Instead, the artist tries to tell you in line and color why the barn is there. When you view an abstract, expressionistic painting, you feel as much as you see. If you're curious, come to the gallery and ask questions. Someone will be there between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. to satisfy your curiosity.

PERHAPS Jurgens' work is pretty wild for the common man, but it grows on you. His "White Monk," based on the French style initiated by Roualt, is disturbingly interesting but intellectually satisfying. The single white figure, with a suggested halo has a sad quality. It suggests a symbol of Christian eternity.

Robert Borchard's work is a growth of abstract symbols that evolve from organic entities. A blue canvas is one of his more realistic contributions to the show. Somewhat in the style of Picasso; bold lines, bright color.

A small room to the right of the main gallery, contains a group of Mr. Borchard's drawings. The subject matter is basically man versus woman. The artist explained these drawings as an attempt to return to basic tools. With just pencil and paper, Borchard has created exciting images, abstract turbulence and moving contrasts.

The Borchard-Jurgens show will be on until July 27. When making your plans to see this exhibition, remember the gallery is closed on all holidays. (Bill

Q. When a bride-elect is making up her guest list and finds it too large for the room available, should she issue the invitations anyway to the entire list and trust that many will not attend?

A. She's taking a big chance if she does! It would be much better if she cut down her list, and asked her fiance to do the same.

Dairymen Hear Three Illinois Reports

Cows, cows, and more cows were the subjects of conversation at the 55th annual meeting of the American Dairy Science association.

Meeting at Logan, Utah, Illinois dairy research scientists reported on slobbering cows, mammary glands, and concentrated milk.

J. H. Byers and H. P. Broquist reported their findings with cows that slobber excessively after eating second-growth legume forages.

Red clover particularly has prompted the two to study the unknown "slobber factor." After reproducing the farm condition in their laboratory, Byers and Broquist found that cows which usnually eat five to 15 pounds of forage begin to salivate profusely. Then they stop eating.

HOT WATER extracts of the forage also usually cause excessive salivation in than an hour when administrated to cows by drenching. The men were able to produce this excessive salivation condition in guinea pigs by adding red clover containing the slobber factor. The factor was fed the pigs as 40 per cent of their diet.

"Research to date indicates that the unknown slobber factor may be an aklaloid," the scientists said.

Four scientists from Illinois reported that they have been able to keep cow udder tissue cells alive in laboratory test tubes longer than two and a half years. The four are using these cells to study processes that control milk formation in the mammary gland.

B. L. Larson, K. E. Ebner, C. R. Hoover, and E. C. Hageman are the men working on this project. For a short time they found the test tube cultures continued to make milk. After a few days, however, this property is lost, even though the cells continue to grow and organize as though they were still in the cow.

"This research may ultimately unlock enough secrets to explain how milk is produced within the cells. The studies are also giving information on the effects of abnormal conditioning on growing body cells. This knowledge is needed to learn why some cells become cancerous and others remain normal," the scientists said.

The Illinois men reporting on their concentrated milk study have learned that recent developments in milk sterilization make it possible to produce sterile milk with flavor comparable to that of fresh pasteurized milk.

H. K. WILSON and E. O. Herreid said the process used to achieve this is heating milk to a very high temperature for periods ranging from a fraction of a second to four seconds. The process causes chemical changes that in time affect the appearance of the milk. This was a not completely understood phenomenon.

To help solve this problem, the U. of I. scientists diluted concentrated milks to the composition of the original milk. They then subjected the milks to a force up to 10,000 time gravity in an ultra-centrifuge.

Pictures taken of the milks during centrifugation were measured to determine the rate of movement and size of the particles. Therefore, it was possible to follow size and structure changes of protein particles during thickening.

The work has resulted in better understanding the thickening process. Research also shows that the protein particles in concentrated milks become large enough during thickening to be seen with a microscope.

Cattle Prices Follow 2-Year Past Pattern

By H. L. SIMERL

The recent weakness in cattle price has brought several inquiries about market conditions and price prospects.

So far this year prices of choice cattle have followed about the same patterns as in the past two years. That is, prices rose during the winter and declined in the spring. As was expected, however, prices were generally $1 to $2 lower in 1958 and 1959.

The lower prices reflect the cyclical increase in marketings since the first of the year. Farmers cut their sales of calves for slaughter in 1958 and 1959. The extra calves kept back in 1958 have appeared as slaughter cattle on the markets this year.

Farmers and ranchers had 18.5 million calves not being kept for milk on January 1, 1958; 19.7 million on January 1, 1959; and 21.1 million at the beginning of this year.

WE BEGAN this year with 11.0 million steers, 8 per cent more than the year before. We had 7.4 million heifers not being kept for milk, 9 per cent more than one year before.

Farmers began this year with 9 per cent more cattle on feed than they had at the beginning of 1959. By April 1, they still had 8 per cent more cattle on feed than a year ago. At that time farmers indicated intentions to market a greater than usual percentage of their cattle before July 1. Although actual marketings were rather light in April, they increased sharply in May, making total beef output during the first five months of this year about 8 per cent larger than last year.

In-shipments of replacement cattle have been rather light since January 1, but this was a natural reaction to the heavy movement last fall. Cattle put on weight, however, whether they are in the corn belt or in the west.

ON JUNE 1, the number of cattle on feed in the big feedlots in California and Arizona was estimated at 848,000 head, 16 per cent more than a month before.

Consumer demand for beef is strong, and it appears likely to hold up well during the summer vacation season. By next fall, however, there may be more concern about business prospects, and consumer demand.

The supply of pork will be comparatively small this summer, since farmers saved about one-fifth fewer pigs in the December-February quarter than they did the year before. Pork supplies will continue on the short side during the fall.

LAST YEAR, the monthly average price of choice steers declined from $30.33 per hundred pounds in April to $25.57 in December. This $4.76 decline came in two steps—from April to July and from September to December.

In 1958, price of choice steers declined from $29.90 in March to $26.11, in August. The decline was $3.79 a hundred pounds. Prices regained about $1 before the year ended.

Our best monthly price so far this year has been $28.08, so a $4 decline would let the price down to about $24. This would be only $1.60 lower than the low month last year, and $2.10 less than the low month in 1958.

The price decline this year may come in two steps, as it did in 1958. The shortage of pork and the vacation boom should provide some support this summer. Autumn will bring more pork, probably more cattle, and possibly some slowing of business activity, with a leveling-off of consumer demand.

Down On The Farm

CARL F. MEES

with Your Farm Adviser

Cool, wet weather has retarded corn borer development somewhat, according to Steve Moore, extension entomologist, University of Illinois.

Dead pupae were observed this week. In some cases pupal mortality was as high as 20 per cent. It is not known what is causing it or how widespread it is. The last 10 to 15 per cent of the moths account for most damage. Reducing this segment of the first generation borer population would drastically reduce their importance. Weather during the next 10 days will be very important to corn borer survival.

At the present rate of borer development and plant growth, only fields planted in late April or early May are expected to be affected. This will practically exclude any corn borer damage in Cook county, however. If treatment is necessary it should not be made in this area until the last few days of June or the first week of July.

TO DETERMINE the need for treatment, examine 50 to 100 plants for signs of borer feeding on the whorl leaves. If 75 per cent or more of the plants show recent whorl feeding, check the tassel ratio. Measure from the base to the tip of the plant with leaves extended. Split the plant lengthwise, and measure from the base of the plant to the tip of the developing tassel.

Divide the tassel height by the plant height, and multiply by 100. Take an average of five representative plants per field. This is the tassel ratio. The corn will warrant treatment if the tassel ratio is 30 or above. Treatment after borers have drilled into the stalk proper will not be effective.

DDT is still the insecticide most commonly used for corn borer. Apply 1½ pounds per acre as a spray or ¾ to 1 pound per acre as granules. When spraying, arrange two or three nozzles over the row to cover the upper 1/3 of the plants, particularly the whorl zone.

OTHER insecticides approved for use against corn borer include endrin and toxaphene. Ensilage or stover of corn treated with DDT or toxaphene should not be fed to dairy cattle. Endrin may be used in this case, provided label restrictions are followed.

This is the time to begin action on a house fly control program. Practice good sanitation, followed by residual sprays of diazinon or ronnel. Supplement the spray applications with a bait treatment of DDVP, diazinon, dipterex, malathion or ronnel.

With wheat harvest approaching, take steps now to protect new wheat from attack. Clean out old grain and other debris from in and around the bin. Apply a bin spray of 1.5 per cent premium grade malathion or 2.5 per cent methoxychlor to the point of run-off. DDT should not be used for this purpose.

TREAT THE wheat with a premium - grade malathion protective dust or spray at the rates recommended on the label. Anyone planning to store oats or shelled corn for longer than 6-8 weeks would also profit by using this treatment. Treated grain may be fed to livestock or marketed with complete safety.

Before applying insecticides, read labels carefully and follow all precautions. This not only will insure personal safety, but will eliminate insecticide residue hazards.

The wet weather, if good for nothing else, has provided ample pasture for livestock. But should the rainfall become less plentiful in the future, more cows can be grazed per acre of pasture if rotational grazing is practiced. All you need is an electric fence charger, wire insulators, and posts.

HERE'S HOW it works: Divide your pasture field into long, narrow strips about the size your herd will graze off in four or five days. Then use cross wires to move the herd to new forage within one of the strips each day.

Cows shouldn't back-graze for more than four or five days before they have moved to a new strip. Stock about 50 cows for each acre of fresh pasture daily.

Under such an intensive grazing program, droppings will probably need to be spread. Some dairymen report excellent results from using a piece of woven wire under a harrow with the teeth set in vertical position. It is not uncommon to produce enough forage to carry two or more dairy cows on each acre of pasture by using this method of rotational grazing. (Fm

Elk Grove 4-H Has Splash Party

The regular monthly meeting of the Elk Grove 4-H club was held Tuesday evening, June 14, at the home of Connie and Nancy Carlson, Des Plaines.

It was discussed and voted that the entire club will participate in a 4-H safety project.

A talk on chinchillas was given by Sandy Zick.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Carlson.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, July 12, at the home of Dennis and Sandy Zick, 537 Washington st., Des Plaines.

Tom Sullivan, president, received the 4-H Fair raffle books from Mr. Linneman and they will be passed out at the July meeting.

A 4-H "splash" party was held Saturday night, June 11, at the Park Ridge YMCA. The members who attended were Linda Brown, Connie and Nancy Carlson, Louise Ruge, Judy and Pat Sullivan, Barbara Westberg, and Dennis Zick. The guests were Jimmy Brown, Kathy Glade, Beverly Gunderson, Mary Kemp, and Linda Waters.

Foreign and Domestic Events Raise Prices

By L. H. SIMERL

Developments around the world in recent months may have unleashed new inflationary forces. These developments include the swing toward communism in Cuba, the regression of U.S. — Russian relations, the racial conflicts in Africa, the revolution in Turkey, the canal demonstrations in Panama and the anit-American riots in Japan.

This progression of events calls for some revision of our plans for national security. It has produced strong demands for increasing government expenditures for defense.

In addition, there are in our own country demands for bigger government spending for welfare and to stimulate "ecoromoc growth."

POLITICAL disturbances and international conflict are inflationary because they disrupt production and transportation and often increase the demand for commodities. Some of the major price rises in the United States have been associated with civil or foreign wars.

Prices of several important commodities show advances from their lows of earlier months. The price of natural rubber has climbed to 46½ cents a pound, up 36 per cent from a year ago. Most of the world's rubber supply is produced in Indonesia and Malaya. Other industrial materials that have shown important price increases include tin, which is produced largely in Malaya, Bolivia and Africa; copper, produced in the restless areas of Africa; burlap, obtained from India and Pakistan; and silk, produced in Japan.

Prices of fats and oils have also gone up. Soybean oil has increased to 83-84 cents a pound, or 17 per cent over its low in early March. Cottonseed oil has climbed to 10 and 5-8 cents, or 18 per cent above its low last December. Lard has moved up to 9 cents a pound, 29 per cent over its January low.

ON THE BEARISH side of the market is the fact that U. S. industrial production and business activity are not reaching the high levels foreseen last winter by the optimists. Steel production is way down. Automobile stocks are high. The aircraft industry is not getting the new orders that it needs. Housing isn't booming either.

The index of industrial production in May was 110 (1957-100), only 1 point better than a year ago.

Corporation profits for the second quarter are falling below the level of last year. This dip does not encourage businessmen to increase their spending for new plants and equipment.

ONE BIG danger spot is the growing personal and family debt. Farmers, for example, now owe $24 billion, twice as much as they owed 10 years ago. Other people now owe $190 billion, or over three times as much as 10 years ago. Thus it appears that the prosperity of the 1950s, like that of the 1920s, was built on expanding credit.

This situation raises some questions: Can our debts get too big? If so, when will they become too big? And what happens then?

One thing seems certain: The future is uncertain, but it will be interesting.

Guard Against Insecticide Well Pollution

Insecticides and herbicides used to spray plants are polluting wells throughout the state according to Dr. D. L. Fatherree, director of the Illinois department of public health.

Fatherree warned farmers against careless hose-to-pump connections. At least once a week the health department is contacted by a farmer who has discovered that while making a spraying solution, he has inadvertently allowed some of it to siphon back into his well.

Any hose connected to a pump should never have its nozzle end submerged in the container where the solution is being made up, health officials warn.

That and other hose arrangements that permit back-siphonage are common practices among farmers and should be discontinued, Dr. Fatherree said. Wells so polluted can cause severe illness and even death.

Foxtail Is Corn Robber

Giant foxtail growing in corn and soybean fields could steal as much as one-fourth of the crop this summer.

Three years' research at the University of Illinois shows that if a farmer has 50 foxtail plants in a foot of row he could lose 25 per cent of his corn yield or 28 per cent of his soybean yield. Many fields in Illinois have a lot more than this number of weeds.

Even smaller weed counts can mount up to serious losses. For example: six surviving giant foxtail plants can reduce yields by 12 per cent.

Soybeans also suffer heavily from weeds. A field that would normally yield 35 bushels if weed free would suffer a 10 per cent loss if six weed plants per row remained. This would be a 3½-bushel loss on every acre.

Grass weeds like giant foxtail can be controlled with certain chemicals. But the costs will run from $3 to $5 an acre with band application. On many Illinois farms even this expense will be more than repaid because of the serious losses that weeds are causing.

Give Size Guides For Combine Buyer

A University of Illinois Agriculture economist has some guides to help prospective combine buyers figure out what size of machine they want.

First of all, economist R. B. Schwart points out that in central Illinois there are about 85 hours available to harvest small grain between July 5 and July 24, and about 65 hours to harvest soybeans between September 20 and October 9. His estimates are based on average weather and harvesting conditions.

Suppose, then, that a cash-grain farmer has 90 acres of soybeans and 60 acres of small grain. It's the soybean acreage that will determine what size of combine is needed. According to Schwart, a 7-foot P.T.O. job will do the soybeans in ample time - in about 64 hours. For both crops it will take about 107 hours at a cost of $4.09 per acre.

OR THE same farmer could go to a 10-foot self-propelled job and get the same acreage done in 75 hours, but at a cost of about $6.50 per acre.

What the farmer needs to ask himself is this: 1. Are the 32 hours I can save by owning the larger combine worth the extra cost of about $2.41 per acre, or $361 per season? 2. What could I earn if I anvested the $3,300 extra cost for the larger machine somewhere else in my business?

Size of cutter bar is another thing to consider. A basic 10 or 12-foot combine can be outfitted with a 12 or 14-foot cutter bar. Although the additional two feet may not increase the capacity for harvesting small grain, it may increase the capacity for harvesting soybeans, depending on the row width.

Luscious Lemon Meringue PieFavorite of Arlington Cook

A glamorous dessert need not be a laborious chore. The one we are featuring today looks elegant, tastes divine yet is relatively simple to prepare.

It is a tasty, tangy lemon pie topped with a high and light meringue. The recipe has been shared with us by Mrs. Herbert Kirchhoff of Arlington Heights, and is one which she particularly likes to serve on special occasions.

"This pie is really quite easy to prepare and takes so little time to make," says this homemaker who specializes in pie making. During the apple season she makes dozens of apple pies and like thems with a brown sugar topping. Rhubarb custard pies are another specialty.

"BUT THE lemon pie has been a favorite of mine for years because it always turns out well and is a refreshing finale for almost any meal," said Mrs. Kirchhoff.

"Because of its light texture and tart flavor, it is especially good following a heavy meal," she continued, "and I like to serve it with a chop suey dinner."

The lightness and piquant flavor of this pie makes it exceedingly welcome during the summer months, and no matter what the entre, this delectable lemon pie will be a desirable dessert choice.

IN ADDITION to her homemaking activities Mrs. Kirchhoff is a member of St. Peter Mothers' club and teaches Sunday school at Faith Lutheran church.

The Kirchhoffs live at 446 S. State rd. in Arlington Heights. They have three sons: Donald 13, Ricky 11, and Billy, who is 7.

Tasty Tangy Lemon Pie

1 9-inch baked pie shell
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
10 tablespoons cornstarch
1¼ cups hot water
3 eggs, separated
½ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons sugar for meringue

Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch in a saucepan. Add hot water and bring to a boil over direct heat stirring constantly, about 8 to 10 minutes, until thick and clear. Remove from heat.

Stir several spoonsful of the hot mixture into beaten egg yolks. Turn yolks into the saucepan and cook over low heat about one minute. Remove from heat.

REMOVE SEEDS from lemon juice but do not strain. Gradually add the lemon juice and butter to the hot mixture. Cool slightly and turn into baked pie shell.

To make the meringue, beat egg whites until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar until whites are stiff and glossy.

Spread meringue from edge of pie to center, swirling nicely. Brown meringue in oven, 350 degrees, about 15 minutes. Serves 6 generously.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

by Edward Rentz

Canapes are appetizers served before meals. They are usually on thin slices of bread or crackers so that they can be eaten away from the table without knives or forks.

Canapes were originally started in China where delicacies were served before the meal. The Russians improved on this idea by including a combination of all types of tidbits. The American cocktail hour has adopted the canape idea and no cocktail party is complete without a variety of "dips."

Hors d'oeuvres are elegant appetizers eaten at the table with knife and fork as the first course. Canapes, as we said before, are eaten away from the table and held in the hand.

Week's Best Food buys

Hams in all sizes and cuts take a predicted and traditional holiday value position with young, new crop turkeys. Ground beef and picnic meats fill in the featured meat program.

Fresh fruit and vegetable values abound, some recovery noted in prices from last week's lows. Eggs and groceries are stabilized, but shoppers might watch possible trouble-developing in West Coast labor situations that could affect canned and frozen produce supplies in the near future.

Fryers and beef steaks are secondary values on this week's University of Illinois Consumer service survey of food markets. Fryers are scarcer at sources of supply. The trade is concerned over inability to supply expected volume holiday demand. This tends to firm fryer prices, or at least diminish promotional opportunities. Beef steaks have not been considered particular bargains at general prices recently. Lamb leg and shoulder roasts are secondary values at retail.

MOST BEEF, lamb and even veal quoted lower at wholesale, to widen the gap with stabilized store-level prices. Fresh pork continued to set its own higher pattern at all market levels — live, wholesale and retail. Market based pork values were almost non-existant in stores last week as firmer pricing continues.

A further note at wholesale and live markets which backstop the retail situation: Beef declined again and carryover supplies are noted at wholesale, indicating further price drops. Loins and ribs were active contenders, while carcass, chuck and rounds dragged.

There are also more choice, heavier weights coming from live markets. Wholesale lamb reached its 1960 low, reflecting sharply lower live market quotes although receipts were 20 per cent below week-ago. Wholesale pork gained again on reduced supplies and good demand. At live markets, shipments were down 40 per cent from year-ago, sending quotes higher and promising more to come.

JULY is a good supply month for many fresh produce items (* indicating peak supply month) included are: Fruits — apricots, bananas, blueberries,* cherries, Ecurrants*, gooseberries*, lemons,* limes* nectarines* peaches, plum-prunes, raspberries; Melons — cantaloupes*, crenshaws, honeyballs*, honeydews, Persians, watermelons;* Vegetables — lima and green beans, beets, corn, cucumbers, lettuce, okra*, green onions*, peas, peppers, Swiss chard*, tomatoes*.

Most of the above are in the low-price range. Some recovery from week-ago depressed levels was noted for lettuce, cucumbers, green onions, celery and top quality tomatoes. Early season apples, from Illinois, appear at high prices.

Labor problems on West Coast farms and in packing plants cause some back-up of supplies in growing areas, and slow-down of processing at plants. No affect is noted on current grocery department supplies of canned and frozen items. Asparagus, peas, beans and cherries are initially involved. The pack of frozen strawberries is at a standstill from the Northwest on weather-impaired quality.

PRICING patterns for the marketing week ending July 2:

Hams — General competitive levels are pegged on larger sizes serving as the price base. Shank portions quote 35-45 cents, butt cuts 45-55 cents, center slices 79 cents - $1.09, 9-11 pound canned 65 cents, smaller size canned 95 cents-$1.00.

Poultry — A consensus 39 cents takes all weights of young Beltsville and tom turkeys on a dealer-choice basis, weights ranging 4-8, 8-12 and 12-18 pounds, with the birds ranging widely in grade. A very few fryers show a merchandising range of 29-39 cents, with the prevailing general quotes tagged a flat 39 cents. Eggs level at 43-45 cents in the face of price-firming government bids for storage stocks (storage now 44,700 cases below year-ago levels).

Beef — General quotes show sirloins 89 cents-$1.09, porterhouse 98 cents-$1.29, round 79-89 cents. Blade cut chuck roasts attract little action at 49 cents, round bone range a hefty 65-69 cents, rump and sirloin tip 89-98 cents, and rib roasts 69-79 cents mostly, although some lower tags are noted. Ground beef prices widely from a 49-55 cents range.

PORK — Rib portions 45 cents, loin portions 55 cents, center chops 89-98 cents, spare ribs 55-59 cents for smaller sizes, fresh butts 45 cents, steaks 55 cents. Bacon holds its higher 69-73 cents range, smoked butts are mostly 69 cents with some exceptions noted.

Lamb — Little change seen in leg roasts at 69 cents and shoulder roasts at 45-49 cents. Chops and steaks range more widely depending on store movement. (SH

AFTERNOON OR EVENING callers will be most appreciative when welcomed with tiny mocha-flavored cream puffs and refreshing Viennese ice coffee. The coffee is simply ice coffee topped with whipped cream that's been flavored with a dash of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. The cream puffs are made from a package of mix, but the filling is the fooler. It combines one cup of heavy cream and one cup of cold milk, mixed, to which 2 teaspoons of instant coffee and one package of instant vanilla pudding are then added. Beat with a rotary beater about one minute, let stand until slightly thickened, beat again until smooth and add as filling to cream puff shells.

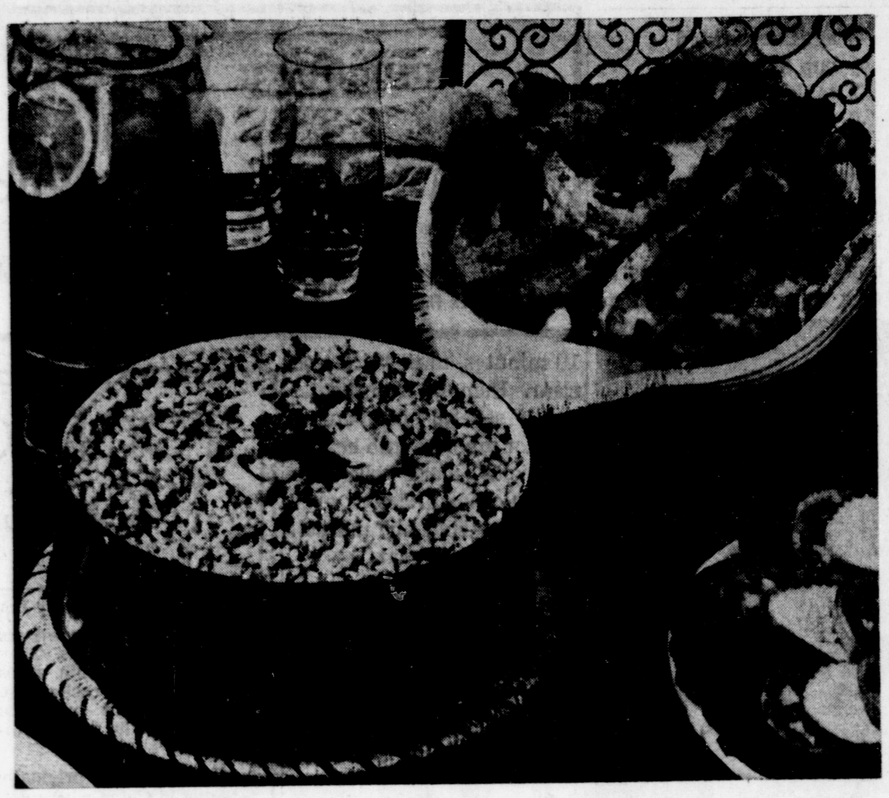
Mushroom Rice Casserole



Summertime — and the livin' is easy when you choose quickly prepared rice casseroles for back porch supper or outdoor barbecue.

Rice with mushrooms is a combination to tempt the taste buds, and one that just goes naturally with golden brown grilled chicken. Cooking the rice in chicken stock is the extra flavor note a good cook adds, and one which requires no additional time.

The cooked rice, combined with sauteed mushrooms and an accent of green pepper and onion, is ready to serve after just 15 minutes baking time. As a pretty finishing touch, top with sliced sauteed mushrooms and sprig of parsley.

WITH THE Mushroom Rice, you will need no other vegetable. This is one of the special advantages of using rice to complete the entree and one to keep in mind when you are planning menus.

On a summer's day, a garden-fresh tomato-cucumber salad and iced tea supply cool and crisp accompaniments to the Mushroom Rice and chicken.

MUSHROOM RICE

1 pound fresh mushrooms, ground
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons minced green onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2½ cups cooked rice (cooked in chicken stock)
½ teaspoon salt

In a heavy skillet saute mushrooms, green pepper, and green onions lightly in butter or margarine. Combine with rice and salt. Place in an earthenware casserole and bake for about 15 minutes in a 350 degree F. oven or on a grill.

Hints For 'Hub of Home'

It's been said that the kitchen is the hub of the home. Today's busy housewife will certainly agree. She can wash, iron, cook, serve meals, even talk on the telephone — all without moving more than a few steps around her well-designed kitchen.

Because so much of her family's life is centered here, the modern mistress of the mansion takes particular care to keep her kitchen hygienically clean and shining bright.

HERE'S HOW she does it. After each meal, she'll wash and put away all the dishes, scrub the sink and sweep the floor. At regular intervals, she'll clean the inside of her refrigerator with a baking soda solution, and use a disinfectant in the soapy water when she mops the kitchen floor. Dishcloths and towels are always spread out to dry after use, and are laundered frequently in a good detergent.

The careful homemaker will also take steps to prevent the invasion of her kitchen by insect pests. Keeping sugar bowls, flour cannisters, and all food containers tightly closed is of prime importance, as well as cleaning away any crumbs or spilt food that may attract the bugs.

WHENEVER necessary she'll spray all cracks and crevices under the sink and along basebaords with a reliable insecticide, such as Black Flag's Ant and Roach Killer.

Available in a push-button pressure pack can, this is a residual spray which contains Dieldrin and Malathion as the primary active ingredients. Its killing power lasts for weeks, and it has been proven the housewife's best defense against ants, roaches and all crawling insects.

Orange Blossom Punch Wedding Party 'Star'

Whether for a shower or a home wedding reception, what could be prettier than a sunny punch bowl highlighted by a wedding ring of orange blossoms in ice?

Good way to decorate your punch and at the same time keep it chilled. If you cannot get the fresh blooms, use the imitation ones which have been used as hat trimmings for years.

CONVENIENT frozen concentrated Florida orange juice is a perfect choice for the base of your punch. You'll find it economical and healthfully refreshing, too. Besides the ice ring of blossoms, float a few thin slices of Florida oranges for added color.

Orange Blossom Punch

4 cans (6 ounces each) Florida frozen concentrated orange juice
5 cups cold water
1 quart water and ice cubes
1 quart chilled gingerale
2 Florida oranges, thinly sliced

Combine undiluted concentrate with the 5 cups cold water in punch bowl. Add additional water and ice cubes; stir until melted. Add gingerale. Garnish with halved orange slices and ice ring. Yield: 32 ½-cup servings.

Note: If desired, recipe may be doubled. Champagne may be substituted for gingerale if desired.

Orange Blossom Ice Ring

Fill 5-cup ring mold with water. Float fresh orange blossoms or other small blossoms, small green leaves and small fruit of your choice, in the water and freeze. If you do not have a large freezing compartment, a similar arrangement can be done in an ice tray.

Stroganoff Special

Is this one of those busy days — packing all the summer duds for the seashore vacation, and dinner time is close at hand! What to serve that's quick and easy and hearty, too? Don't let this situation perplex you. Remember sandwiches are always a popular treat.

Save the day with a Meatball Stroganoff Sandwich. Doesn't it sound yummy . . . and it really is! Juicy tender meatballs cooked in a rich canned beef gravy and dairy month sour cream, then served in toasted buns. They "ooze" with the tempting sauce, so serve "knife and fork" style.

TO GO ALONG, a crisp salad combination of shredded lettuce, tomatoes, radishes, and cucumber. A pitcher of refreshing iced tea and your "I've-had-a-busy-day" menu is complete.

Meatball Stroganoff Sandwich

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire
Dash pepper
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy
½ cup sour cream
Frankfurter buns, slit and toasted

Mix together beef, bread crumbs, green pepper, onion, egg, salt, Worcestershire and pepper. Shape into balls about 1½ inches in diameter. In skillet, brown meatballs and garlic in butter. Add beef gravy. Cover; simmer 10 minutes longer. Stir small amount hot gravy into sour cream; pour into skillet. Heat a few minutes. Place 3 or 4 meatballs and about ¼ cup gravy in each bun. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

'Lotsa New Neighbors Since Fall, Ted! Who're You? Where's Ted?'

The Way We See It

Summer in Suburbs Tests Your Mettle

It has been said that a family can't really consider itself "suburban" until it has spent at least one summer in the metropolitan outposts which connect home and work with rails and ties. In the first place, no one knows the family is there. The neighbors, who have been in a state of semi-hibernation, having no good excuse to venture out into the snow-covered subdivision, have contented themselves with bridge clubs, PTA meetings, the family room, and gleeful evenings watching Lawrence Welk, The Untouchables, and Arthur Murray.

With the coming of summer, however, the newcomers are exposed. No longer can they hide behind the anonymity of ice and snow. That grass is gotta be green, brother, and those dandelions gotta go, go, go. A new lawnmower is assigned a frequency on the neighborhood network, and another charcoal brazier makes it debut. As the suburbanites literally strip for action, the newcomers can declare themselves a part of cook-outs, little league, tricycle parades, and other "suburban" activities.

Children, whose additional year's growth has made them unknowns, attack the swing set in unaccommodated numbers as the puzzled owner strains for some parental resemblances. The wives, often widowed by drivers and nine irons, assemble for friendly discussion of the neighborhood dog, the race season, the approaching vacation, and the missing neighbor. And father, who joyfully adjusts to arriving home in sunshine, works up a maddening schedule based on the fear that someone will repeal daylight saving time before his bermudas are grass-stained.

The newcomers, although at first puzzled by the perpetual commotion, usually find themselves a welcome addition to the chaos. In fact, if it weren't for the newcomers the neighborhood would find itself, forbid it, reliving last summer, which, regardless of the year, is never considered "up to par." Last year's vacation was the worst . . . last year's weather was insufferable . . . last year's race track traffic was unbearable . . . last year's flowers were a flop . . . last year the children were "at the wrong age."

But this is this year! And summer is great, because we can hang the diapers outside; we can save on the milk bill by drinking lemonade; we can throw away the Man-Tan; we can get the kids' noise out into the yard (preferably our neighbors' yard); we can take down the Christmas decorations; we can make our yard the most attractive in the block; we can plan the two week's vacation when we get the heck out of here, and, most of all, we can pray for September.

Stiffer State Driver License Laws Cut Accident Death Toll

Illinois' traffic fatalities over the past seven years have been reduced dramatically to almost half of what they once were.

District 3 state police, the unit which patrols northwest Cook county, sees two major influences at work which have contributed to this happy statistical fact.

One is the present drivers' license law which went into effect seven years ago; the other is establishment of speed limits of 65 miles per hour on highways.

The license laws have teeth in them: three moving violations committed within a year's time and the motorist's license is revoked; driving under the influence of alcohol also means immediate revocation of driver's licenses.

If a motorist does not carry automobile insurance, his license is suspended unless he posts bond. Similarly, there are many other violations which bring revocation or suspension of licenses.

The motorist caught driving during the time his license is revoked faces the prospect of spending seven days in jail or a $2,000 fine or both.

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier pointed out in a recent address that "If the 1952 ratio of traffic deaths to motor vehicles registered had prevailed, our annual death toll would now be in excess of 2,800. Instead, for 1959 it was 1,765."

That's a saving of almost 3,500 lives over the seven-year period.

But Carpentier adds realistically: "We can build the safest highways, we can design cars that give their occupants maximum protection, we can write good traffic control laws and we can enforce those laws strictly, but unless we have done something effective about the operators of automobiles, most of the effort we have expended in those other areas would largely be wasted in terms of lives saved."

Strict driver licensing, however, has contributed to a vastly improved traffic safety record of which Secretary Carpentier and the state can be justly proud.

Driver Controls Listed

An expected all time high in Independence Day weekend traffic will jam the highways and the hospitals.

In addition to the thousands of injured, experts estimate another countrywide high of 460 weekend traffic deaths.

Driver control, plus a realization on the part of every driver that he or she is not "accident exempt" are major factors in holding down the tragedy count.

These six important "driver controls" are listed:

(1) Control your mental condition and your physical fitness to drive.

(2) Control your speed, and urge to hurry to your destination.

(3) Control your drinking: don't drink if you're going to drive.

(4) Control impatience and discourtesy toward other drivers.

(5) Control your car's mechanical condition.

(6) Control your urges to violate traffic regulations.

Gross Inefficiency

Douglas Raps Defense Waste

by BRUCE LADD

In the words of his fellow legislators, Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) rendered "a great service to the American people" earlier this month by "bringing to the Senate's attention the shocking military waste" in Defense department procurement.

Sen. Douglas, chairman of the Joint Economic committee under the 79th Congress, was praised by Senate members for his non-partisan, exceptionally - understate d method of pointing up gross wastes in defense procurement and supply.

His mid-June speech, delivered on the Senate floor, is transcribed in no less than 22 pages in the Congressional Record. It reveals unbelievable inefficiency in handling the taxpayers' money.

"IN FISCAL year 1959 the Defense department procured $22.7 billion in supplies through contracts with firms in the United States," Sen. Douglas began.

"Of this amount, some $19.7 billion, or 86.4 per cent, was procured through negotiated contracts and only a little over $3 billion, or less than 14 per cent, was procured through contracts let by competitive bidding. The Defense department has lost millions upon millions of dollars through improper contacting arrangements."

Here is one of numerous examples cited by Sen. Douglas: a box of 500 small lamp sockets cost the government $10,550. The same quantity of a similar item, priced in a Maryland electronics retail store, was selling for $125. Total waste: $10,425.

In all examples, the negotiated contract price was from six to 100 times what the price would have been under competitive bidding.

THE RECORD shows that the Department of Defense has been warned again and again for the last ten years of this situation. The department was warned this year by both the House Appropriations committee and the Senate Appropriations committee. The department, obviously, chooses to ignore advice of Congress.

Contracting procedure is not the only Defense department weakness. The stock fund system, primarily used by the Army and Navy, has been responsible for double payments. Excess military supplies have been refused to government agencies because these agencies did not have the funds to make a second payment.

The Marine corps, supply center, Albany, Ga., recently reported 49,514 feet of three-inch iron pipe in new condition as excess to its needs. Acquisition cost was $54,465. Fort Jackson, S. C., requested 10,000 feet without reimbursement. The request was refused.

Subsequently, 19,792 feet at an acquisition cost of $21,771 was released as "surplus." In other words because of the double payment demand, Fort Jackson was unable to obtain needed pipe. But, at a later date, a large quantity was disposed of under the "surplus" guise.

SEN. DOUGLAS has been crusading against negotiated contracts for ten years. Yet the facts show that six-sevenths of the total volume of military purchases are made by negotiated contracts, or contracts where competitive bids are not let.

"To be charitable," Sen. Douglas says, "it can only be said that the procurement methods of the Defense department are grossly wasteful. Either the military has been taken in by the contractors, or the military is charging off these useless and surplus items at costs which are fantastic.

"I believe in strong national defense. But I find what appears to be appalling mismanagement and waste in the procurement system of the defense department.

"I urge Congress and the President to knock some heads together so that the public can be assured of getting its money's worth from military procurement."

THIS WRITER must side with Sen. Douglas in his expose of waste. Most disturbing is the fact that the inefficiency has often been called to the attention of the Defense department. But to no avail.

In choosing a Presidential candidate, it would be wise for citizens to vote for the man ready to head an administration opposed to extravagance, opposed to corruption.

Crisis on Illinois Campuses

by CHARLES HAYES

Inadequate facilities to meet the school population boom pose a serious problem at Illinois' six state universities.

The post-war crop of babies is getting close to college age. In five years, there may be too many of them for all the nation's colleges and universities.

Illinois, with state universities already overcrowded, is no exception.

Enrollments are constantly increasing, and officials must begin now to increase faculty and plant facilities. Urgency of the problem is emphasized by the fact that in 1969 the state's colleges and universities expect enrollment to rise to 300,000 students. All Illinois colleges and universities now enroll only 184,000.

FACTS ON THE state's population growth substantiate the need for expanding higher education facilities.

In 1942, births in the state totaled 159,000. In 1947 this total reached 195,000 and in 1957 the figure was 238,000. The 1942-born youngsters are now of college age, and state universities are already hard-pressed to cope with enrollments.

Easily foreseeable are problems arising in 1965 and 1970 unless our universities are given the opportunity to expand their facilities immediately.

STATE universities already have classes at odd hours - noon, in the evening, on Saturday - and in former residences and other inadequate buildings on the fringes on their campuses.

For example: Southern Illinois university's largest assembly hall was built in 1916 for an enrollment of 1,000 students and will now not even hold the freshman class. The gym seats only 1,500 on a campus of 9,000 students.

Another example: Felmley Hall of Science at Illinois State Normal university, completed in 1930, now is over-crowded at all hours since the university's enrollment has tripled.

Why haven't the state universities prepared for this wave of students before now?

EACH OF THE schools has building needs that extend back over a period of years because:

—there was little money for building during the 1930's;

—it was impossible to build during World War II; and —the onrush of students after the war forced the universities to spend most of their efforts taking care of immediate needs. They planned for the future, but they had little money to build for it.

The growth and prosperity of Illinois are dependent upon a steady flow of college-trained men and women into the expanding economy of the state.

A MAJOR source of supply for this trained personnel are the six state universities: University of Illinois, Southern Illinois university, Eastern Illinois university, Illinois State Normal university, Northern Illinois university, and Western Illinois university. If these institutions fail to expand along with the population, the well-being of the entire state will be affected.

The futures of thousands of college students as well as the future economic health of the state will be influenced by Illinois voters on November 8. Voters will decide whether bonds totaling $195 million will be issued to finance new buildings and other permanent improvements at the six state universities.

The bonds, on which the interest rate cannot exceed 4 per cent, would be retired over a 25-year period. Each allocation for each building would be approved by the Illinois General Assembly. If the bonds are sold at the highest interest rate authorized-4 per cent-the annual cost of repaying them would be $1.25 to each Illinois citizen. At 3 per cent, the annual cost would be $1.13 per capita.

LEGISLATION providing for the university bond issue referendum authorizes that the bonds are to be retired out of non-property tax state revenues. Because of a constitutional requirement, a state property tax also is pledged as a possible revenue source for repayment of the bonds, but Illinois does not now levy such a tax, nor do future plans indicate one.

The amount involved in repayment of the bond issue constitutes only a small part of the state budget - $12.5 million per year for both principal and interest. Authorities state that the annual cost of repayment at the maximum interest rate will be less than the state has appropriated to the six state universities for buildings in each session since 1955!

The bond issue merits our full support.

Labor Force Projections

The Illinois labor force will total 4,875,000 in 1965, an increase of 20 per cent over 1955, the Illinois State Employment Service estimates.

The number of professional and technical workers is expected to grow by 37 per cent over the decade, while the number of clerical and sales workers will increase by 27 per cent. Skilled craftsmen, semi-skilled operatives and proprietors and managers, along with service workers, are also expected to show percentage gains over 1955.

Declines of 3 per cent in the number of laborers and 15 per cent in the number of farmers and farm workers is projected.

Facts Verify 'Boom'

The suburbs grew six times faster than the cities in the last decade and accounted for nearly two thirds of the national population increase during the 10 years.

Reporting this week, the Census Bureau said the population of the nation's 189 metropolitan areas increased from 87,579,138 in 1950 to 108,872,660 in 1960 — a gain of 24.3 per cent.

In the Chicago area, suburbs now account for a population of 2,657,587 or an increase of 70.7 per cent over 1950.

The 1960 population figures for some of the leading northwest suburbs: Arlington Heights — 27,940; Mount Prospect — 18,819; Palatine — 11,479; Rolling Meadows — 10,871; Bensenville — 10,233; Addison — 6,730; Roselle — 3,579; Wheeling — 7,143; and Itasca — 3,544. Statistics are not yet available for Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, and Elk Grove Village.

Nonsensical Boundaries

School Districts' Merger Issue Confronts Suburbs

From Chicago Daily News

THE ILLINOIS School Problems Commission is about to step on some sensitive toes in the Chicago suburbs. If its new drive toward consolidating school districts is to mean anything, the missionary work should begin right here in Cook county.

Downstate areas went through a major remapping of school districts several years ago. There are still holdouts, but the changeover from small, inefficient systems to larger districts is well advanced.

Such is not the case in suburban Cook county. Here the problems of rapid growth have combined with misplaced civic pride to retain a weird and meaningless pattern of school districting. Inequities abound, with struggling school systems nestled alongside smug islands of relative wealth.

It will be quite a job to sell the voters in some suburbs on the sound idea that their schools ought to be merged with those in neighboring municipalities. This will be especially true in those puddles of privilege where local pride in the schools adds considerably to the selling price of a house.

But it is wholly inconsistent with our declared ideals to permit the inequalities fostered by the fetish of local control. No real damage would be done to the principle of local control by combining adjacent districts in the interests of efficiency and a sounder tax base.

The job of making some sense out of nonsensical school boundaries ought to be tackled by the communities themselves, and evidently this is what the School Problems Commission has in mind. If the communities don't act, there is a good chance the legislature will have to act for them in the not too distant future, at far greater damage to local pride than if they did the job themselves.

Money Doesn't Mean Anything

A man with a salary of $12,000 in 1960 has the purchasing power of the $5,000-a-year man of 1939 after taxes and inflation have taken their share of his earnings, the National Industrial Conference Board reports.

Today, the husband and father of two must earn $12,307 to net $4,941. He has forfeited $5,489 to inflation and paid $1,877 in social security and federal income taxes.

Fire Trap Is School Hazard

As a citizen of Addison for the last 18 years, I wish to express my views on the school problem facing this community. Due to my hours of work in the past, it has been impossible for me to participate in civic affairs. Now that my hours are changed, I am able to give time to this community and will do so to the best of my ability.

This school problem is one that every citizen should be interested in. It troubles me very much. On June 13, the board of education did the parents and children in the Oak school a great injustice, when they voted for kindergarten to be held at Oak school, in face of the fact that one-half day sessions are in store for part of the children, at the present time. One of the board member changed his vote from no to yes, quote, "I may as well break this deadlock, I vote yes." Up to that point it had been no on two proposals against any kindergarten being held at the Oak school. The result is that rooms which could have been used for classrooms for children in grades 1 to 8, are to be used for kindergarten.

FULLERTON school is the place where the children of this district went to kindergarten last year. The rooms at Fullerton are equipped to handle all kindergarten children that are registered at the present time.

Due to the expected increase in enrollment of the coming year, at the last board of education meeting, the motion was made to have a kindergarten on a three session basis; with the Bible Church basement to be used as an overflow if needed and leave the projected kindergarten rooms at the Oak school open for regular classes of 4, 5, 6 grades that are at the present time being considered as half day students next year.

This was met with objections of traffic problems, and that the principal would have to be out directing traffic and it would cause a hazard, because of so many cars coming and going, letting children off and picking them up.

NOW I AM sure, as some of the board members are also sure, that the village of Addison would see that there are police on duty. It was also brought out that teachers would not want to teach under these conditions.

I think that two or three sessions at the Fullerton school would be the answer to the kindergarten problem as long as there was space for overflow classes if needed. It seems that the educators at Addison don't agree with other educators who are older and have more experience, have larger schools, etc. under their guidance.

I have talked with several of these educators in the last few weeks, and all are of the opinion that no kindergarten should be started until 1 through 8 grade children are on a full-time schedule. These same educators feel that sacrificing the primary grades for kindergarten is wrong.

THE BIBLE church stairs are too narrow and steep for the children to go up and down, say our educators. I wonder if they have actually checked them against the stairs at the Oak school. They feel that the teachers would not like to teach outside of a school building, also that it would not be convenient for supervision. I would like to have the answer to this.

Are we running the school for the convenience of teachers and supervisors, or are the schools for the education of our children?

The most ridiculous part of this situation is that some of our school board members go along with this thinking. These board members do not have any children in school and won't have any that will be affected, so they vote any way that our superintendent wishes them to vote.

In last week's issue of this paper, Mr. Przewlocki made the statement that we will need 12 more rooms next year, based on, he says, a 20 per cent increase in children, as there was last year. I know if the records are checked, that there was only about a 10 per cent increase last year. Reviewing the building permits issued so far this year, the 10 per cent increase last year will not be exceeded for the 1960-61 school year. That makes a difference in the number of rooms that will be needed to keep our children in school on a full time basis. Especially since those 12 classrooms extra, were based on only 25-30 students per room, as we have been informed.

GOING BACK to the June 13 board meeting again, the acting chairman said, quote, "It was the decision of the board and the wishes of the parents to have kindergarten at the Oak school." I can't believe that the people, knowing the facts, will allow their children to be on half days, and have kindergarten at the Oak school, when the kindergarten rooms and outside rooms can be used for our children's education at upper grade levels. It is possible to reverse the decision by the board of education. Are the people of this community interested enough in their children to voice their opinions on this matter????

If so, a post card or letter sent to me at 9th ave., Addison, might cause something to happen to keep our children on full days. I would also like opinions on holding classes in other locations than the buildings of Oak and Fullerton schools, that have necessary sanitary facilities. I know our board of education and the superintendent of schools would like to know if other people feel the same way as I do: "that it makes no difference where my children attend school, as long as they are learning."

ONE OTHER thought in closing. The citizen's advisory council in April of 1959, in its report to the board called our Oak school cafeteria a fire trap.

This is where rooms are to be made for kindergarten. Are we going to let five-year-olds be housed in a fire trap? This is bad enough for 7th and 8th graders. It is criminal for five-year-olds, in my opinion. Not only criminal to subject them to this hazard, but also to take away the space that could be used by older children who will be hurt by not having full time school.

Good Schools' Support Hailed

I have before me an editorial appearing in the June 23 issue of the Arlington Heights Herald entitled "School Merger Needs Support of Citizens." I appreciate very much this fine editorial, for I am sure it will call to the attention of the citizens of the Arlington Heights area the problem faced by districts 26 and 24, as school districts adjacent to Arlington Heights.

The very fine editorial supporting a merger of these districts will do a lot to help focus the attention of the Arlinton Heights citizens on this problem. Thank you so much for your support of good schools at all times.

He Supports Consolidation

I should like to take this opportunity to compliment you on the editorial which appeared in the Arlington Heights Herald, supporting the proposed consolidation of grade school district no. 56 and 24 with district 25, and to add, for whatever it may be worth, my endorsement of the project.

Both the reasoning and writing of the editorial were excellent. Based upon my experience, I agree heartily that the Wilson district No. 24 has done a remarkably conscientious and effective job of education within its limitations; and in recent years, at least, Forest View district No. 56 has done likewise. The educational leaders in these two communities would be welcomed additions to the Arlington Heights educational community.

I AM AWARE that the proposed merger may engender some local opposition on a purely financial basis, in that the areas which are proposed to be annexed to district No. 25 are primarily residential without extensive commercial or industrial revenue producing sources. Yet I can not believe that small, if any, adverse affect on our district No. 25 tax rate can compare with the educational advantages to the overall community. I hope that the board of education of district No. 25 will not hesitate in effecting this merger as quickly and as simply as is practical.

In closing, I should like to make it perfectly clear that I am expressing my personal opinion and am not speaking for the district 214 high school board of education, two other members of which are residents of district No. 25.

North Woods Is Gloomy

We recently moved from Flossmoor, Ill., to Minneapolis, Minn., and are very unhappy that we moved away from the many advantages of good old Chicagoland.

We plan to return as soon as our home here in Minneapolis is sold, and believe we would find the northwest suburbs a delightul place to live — Itasca, Mount Prospect, Barrington or any of the surrounding suburbs.

We are enclosing a check for $3 to cover several issues of your paper — primarily, I am interested in the ads covering homes for sale, apartments for rent, and employment for an executive secretary and correspondent.

Thank you kindly for your patience in reading this tale of woe — we are sure you can appreciate how much we will welcome receipt of your paper.

Heed Warning, Urges Reader

LWV Studies Referendum

We are very happy to note the comments in your Editor's column, regarding the assistance the Palatine League of Women Voters gave their community in the recent referendum for the high school. It is always a pleasure to learn of the achievements of a "sister" League, in their efforts to study and inform their community of a pending issue.

To bring you up to date, the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters is concerned with the coming referendum for a new village hall. At the present time, members are serving on both the building and finance committees of the Citizens group brought together last month for this purpose.

SINCE OUR local study item is "Taxes: Economical and efficient expenditure of local government budget with possible appropriate action," we are glad to have the opportunity to work with other organizations and citizens of the community in this effort.

Once all the facts are known, if our League membership feels it is to the best interests of the community to support the village hall referendum, you may be certain we will solicit your good publication to assist us in making our position known to the citizens of Arlington Heights.

Deviled Eggs . . . Hot!

Hot deviled eggs are the newest taste sensation for summer party menus. Enjoy them as the main dish for a neighborly patio session, or serve them as the surprise feature in a more elaborate buffet luncheon or reception.

When you're making deviled eggs, it's best to cut the cooked eggs crosswise and trim a thin slice off the ends to keep them standing upright. These trimmings are added to the yolks and sieved for the filling.

Party-fancy effect is achieved by spoon filling the shells just level full then adding decorative swirls by putting remainder of filling through a pastry tube. Or, you can pile filling high in the shells and finish with a fancy fork-tine trim.

The protein-rich egg served this exciting new way will be the hit of any summer party. It's shown here as the feature of an informal snack, accompanied by mugs of hot tomato juice with celery stick stirrers, and a bowl of corn crisps.

Allow at least three egg halves per person in planning food for a summer affair. Medium eggs are the best size to serve deviled.

Hot Deviled Eggs

20 hard-cooked eggs
3 teaspoons salad mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1½ tablespoons vinegar
1 pimiento, cut in ¼-inch pieces
½ to 1 cup broth or water

Cut eggs in half. If cut cross wise, cut a thin slice of white off ends. Remove yolks and sieve — putting white trimmings through sieve also. Add mustard, pepper, mayonnaise and vinegar. Beat until smooth. Taste for seasoning, but keep mild since heating intensifies flavor. Refill whites. Garnish with pimiento bits.

Arrange on heat-proof serving platter, on electric grill or frypan, or in chafing dish. Pour in enough broth or water to just cover bottom of utensil. Cover and heat thoroughly in oven (350 degrees F) 15 minutes, in electric grill or frypan (330 degrees F.) 20 minutes, or in chafing dish 20 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 40 Deviled Egg halves.

Steer, Store Help Hospital

Wingy III and Carson Pirie Scott and co., are doing their bit in somewhat different ways for Evanston hospital. Wingy III, a registered Hereford steer, was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norris of Glencoe, owners of Norwood Farms in McHenry county, to be auctioned off at a benefit dinner dance for the hospital.

The event, Wing Ding III, was held in the North Hall at Old Orchard on June 25. The auctioneer was Jack Brickhouse. As it turned out Wingy III was purchased by Carsons for the Edinburgh Clock restaurant in Edens Plaza shopping center, where he will soon deliciously appear.

How to Flavor Fruits To Go with Meat Dish

The taffy and aromatic flavor of unsulphured molasses combines pleasantly with that of fruits. This molasses being in a table syrup form can be used as a glaze for fruits. Or the molasses with vinegar can be used for a speedy pickling of fruits. Pickled fruits, chutneys and glazed fruit which go so well with the meat course can be created in a matter of minutes.

They syrup dip in which canned peaches, pineapple or pears might be steeped is a simple combination of unsulphured molasses, vinegar and spices. Banana halves may be skillet-cooked and glazed in butter and molasses. The chutney combines canned apple slices, raisins, sliced onion, pimiento, chopped nuts, molasses and vinegar.

The spiced and pickled fruits can be made in ten minutes or less; the chutney only requires 30 minutes of simmering.
